Lancaster Man Out Plows Competition For Large-Plow Title

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

MANCHESTER (York County) — Torso twisted in the familiar seat, eyes intent on the shining moldboards and ribbon of sod, Frank Burkhart carefully eased the plow into the finish furrow in a small plot of northern York County's reddish soil.

As Burkhart's crawler tractor lifted the plow at the opposite end, completing the final bite through the sod, judges moved in to begin their intense scrutiny of the Lancaster Countian's tillage skills.

When the results were tallied, Burkhart had furrowed out a claim to the national large-plow championship and the chance to represent the United States at the 1990 World Plowing Contest. The world competition will be held next September in the Netherlands.

The Lancaster farmer outplowed his nearest competitor by a hefty 15 points, a notable lead in a contest where scores are measured down to hundredths of a point.

Burkhart, of Silver Spring Road, won his first national title in 1970, only his second year of competition. After seeing his first state plowing contest in 1968, Burkhart relates that he turned to his father and said he thought he would like to give the contest a try the following year. On his initial try in 1969, the young plowman finished an impressive third in the state, and has been a contest regular ever since.

"That plow hadn't touched ground since last year's contest," admits the veteran winner, adding with a wide grin, "But now we'll have to get serious and practice a little."

Headed for the Netherlands with Burkhart is Werneer Gruber of Paynesville, MN, who bested the field for the national small plow championship honors. Gruber's fellow competitors offered him hearty congratulations and good-natured comments that they were happy he had won, because they would no longer have to compete against him.

The national title was Gruber's fourth - and final - in his some 25 years of plowoffs. Competitors are allowed to plow in the world contest no more than four times, a rule that effectively "retires" the Minnesota tillage veteran from national competition.

Waiting in the wings, however,

Newswanger Named Ag Journalist

PennAg Honors News Staff Members

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—Two members of the news staff at Lancaster Farming have been honored this week for outstanding reporting by the PennAg Industries Association, a Pennsylvania agribusiness trade organization headquartered here.

Everett Newswanger, managing editor, has been named PennAg's "Ag Journalist of the Year" in a contest held in conjunction with the association's annual convention. Dr. David Brubaker, executive vice president, said the contest is sponsored by the agribusiness group to promote excellence in agriculturural writing, and the award is given to the journalist who best exemplifies consistent quality in writing.

Newswanger

Risser

Newswanger submitted three articles which dealt with BST (bovine somatotropin, a hormone used to increase milk production), animal rights and how that movement could change farming, and a court case involving the validity of Act 43, the state farmland security act.

An award of $500.00 will be presented to Newswanger at PennAg's 111th convention, which will be held from September 10-12, at the Seven Springs Resort at Champion in Westmoreland County.

PennAg Industries Association also named Lisa Risser, staff writer, as a "Selection of Merit" award winner. Risser will receive a certificate and $100 by mail for her winning article about pesticide poisoning. Deiter Krieg, editor of Farmshine, won the other "Selection of Merit" award.

The awards to the professional news team at Lancaster Farming follow last year's award when Pat Purcell, another staff writer won PennAg's Ag Journalist award.

Ag Production: 1988 Was A Record-Breaking Year

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Despite a hot, dry summer last year, the value of Lancaster County agriculture rose to a record-breaking $741.7 million—the highest since 1984. This amount is up $44.1 million over 1987 figures, according to an annual survey conducted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"Last year's value is the highest on record for a Pennsylvania county," stated Jay Irwin, Lancaster County Extension director. "It goes a long way in helping the unty maintain its status as the number one non-irrigating county in the country in terms of production."

Animal agriculture in Lancaster County was up more than $25 million, making it yet again the top Pennsylvania county in terms of animal production. The number of farms remained the same as in 1986 and '87, which can be explained in part by Amish farmers purchasing a farm and dividing it, which compensates for farms lost to agriculture. Crop production rose significantly to $140 million, up $18 million from 1987.

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures prices closed from 1/4 cent lower on the September option to 1/2 cent higher on the March. September again was subjected to long liquidation in advance of first notice day with losses held in check by ideas deliveries would be light. Further support was provided by a late rally in wheat along with ideas that East Germany was in the market for U.S. corn. The latest 30 day weather forecast called for normal temperatures and served to erase early frost fears. Today's session was quiet with prices confined to narrow ranges throughout the day. December settled unchanged at $2.33-3/4 after trading in a range from $2.33 to $2.35.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures closed mostly lower with the front six options from 1 to 3 cents lower. Prices were confined to narrow ranges today with support provided by cash market firmness after the latest 30 day weather forecast eliminated early frost fears. A brighter export outlook provided underlying support with news of a tender by Taiwan tonight. November settled 1-3/4 cents lower today at $5.77-3/4 after trading in a range from $5.76-1/2 to $5.81-1/2. September dropped 2 cents on first notice day jitters.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures closed mixed today with the September gaining 1-1/4

New York & Philadelphia Eggs Frozen

Tuesday, August 29, 1989

Prices were generally unchanged under a cautious and unsettled trade sentiment. Trading was light and spotty as most buyers awaited further market developments prior to making commitments. Raw materials increased slightly in their availability but breakers remained hesitant and continued to work cautiously.

National Egg Market

Atlanta, Ga.

Wednesday, August 30, 1989

Trade sentiment was steady to weak. Retail buying interest was slow to moderate as consumers resisted recent price increases. Supplies were generally adequate to fully adequate. Feature activity was light. Shipments for export helped keep supplies in balance but inventories were increasing in some areas. Breaking stock prices trended unchanged to lower.

Eastern PA & New Jersey Poultry

Wednesday, August 30, 1989

Prices for light type hens was unchanged to 1 cent higher. The trade sentiment was barely steady. Offers from producers increased substantially during the past week and were at least adequate. Buyers were cautious and booked most offerings at open prices. Processors operated less than full this week, will be closed Monday for the holiday, and are mostly full next two weeks. Demand for canner product was only fair. The undertone was barely steady to weak. LIVE LIGHT TYPE HENS: AT FARM 10-14 MOSTLY - F.O.B. PLANT - MOSTLY.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, August 30, 1989

Trucklot buying interest improved and was generally noted as good to very good on most items. Cutlets were adequate to fully adequate at unchanged prices while whole breasts were short of an active call. Leg items were adequate to barely adequate and firmly held for holiday and first of the month needs, particularly leg quarters. Wings were irregularly available and in closest balance on hand cut supplies, adequate otherwise.

Delmarva Broiler Fryer Report

Wednesday, August 30, 1989

Demand for ready to cook whole fryers was fairly good today and somewhat better than expected. Supplies were generally adequate for current needs. In the parts complex, supplies of cutlets and wings were adequate and clearing, whole breast were tight, and dark meat items were barely adequate and held with confidence for the active demand. Less than trucklot asking prices were higher at 55-65 cents. Live supplies were adequate with average weights on the heavy side of desirable. Today's slaughter schedules were heavy. The trade sentiment was fully steady to firm.

cents while the July 1990 option dropped 2-1/2 cents. Commercial and fund buying late in the session propped the September after a dull and featureless session. Spread trading was featured with many commission houses bear spreading against the December. Narrow range trading was dominant. Ideas that deliveries tomorrow against the September contract would range from 6 to 10 million bushels provided support. September settled today at $3.85-3/4 after trading in a range from $3.82-1/2 to $3.86-1/2.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Feeder and live cattle closed mostly lower under pressure from cash-connected selling prompted by ideas that yesterday's rally was overdone. Ongoing concerns over heavy fed cattle weights and sluggish boxed beef sales at lower prices added further pressure. Morning price gains were fueled by follow through from yesterday and an increase in open interest. Further buying was in response to news that Japan would open a tender next month for 8,000 metric tonnes of frozen beef. Feeders came under pressure from losses in the live cattle pit.

NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: CASH PRICES - steady to lower FUTURES - steady to lower.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Hog futures gave back Tuesday's gains and closed lower today from 5 to 90 points. Session long weakness was tied to lower cash market quotations and reports of continued heavy receipts in most locations. Slaughter today was reported at 326,000 which compares with 309,000 last week and 304,000 last year. Bellies closed slightly higher, but well off session highs as long liquidation and profit-taking. Further selling was fueled by ideas that fresh belly prices had reached a near term top and by spillover weakness from live hogs.

Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200.9 bu./A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252.4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 4-10, 1989

As September, so March.

Sept 6, 1923, "player pianos" are in great demand in America . Sept. 7, 1936, Boulder Dam, now Hoover Dam, begins operations on the Colorado River Average length of days for the week 12 hours 53 minutes Sept 10, 1927, an American meat-packing firm perfects a frankfurter with a discardable, zippered casing One of the greatest labor-saving inventions of today is tomorrow

Ask the Old Farmer: What I can't understand about Eastern people is the interest they take in fish Why fish, anyhow? D D, Nev Some of 'em are relatives — from the West

Home Hints: Buy fresh manure in the fall to season for spring

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Warm weather days most of the week, partly cloudy and cool for a short stretch at middle, clear and warm days finish the week nicely.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Clear and seasonably warm days start the week, then partly cloudy and mild Sprinkles dot this week's ending.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Heavy westerly showers; then mild temperatures Clear and pleasant most of the week; then partly cloudy skies and wet

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Sunny and pleasant days begin the week, showers come on in the west; cooler, then clearing in the west. Rain.

OPINION

Not Junk Food

When Mom insisted that you eat your milk and cereal before school, she knew what she was doing. Skipping breakfast could be a serious contributor to poor school achievement, especially for poorly nourished children, according to a recent study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition. In this study, missing breakfast was shown to have an adverse effect on arithmetic and other problem-solving abilities.

In a related study earlier this year, a team of Boston researchers found that students who ate school breakfasts performed better on standardized tests than those who did not. These studies demonstrate the importance of children getting a well balanced meal before school.

The National School Breakfast Program, administered by the USDA, assists some 37,000 schools in serving breakfast to 3.7 million kids each day. In contrast, about 90,000 schools serve lunches to 24 million children.

We are sure that most farm children still have Moms who insist they eat their milk and cereal before they go to school. So the school meals programs are not as important to farm families as to other segments of the U.S. population. But the school programs do provide a large market for milk and other dairy porducts.

The United Dairy Cooperative Service, Inc., Syracuse, NY, reports that a well-known fast food restaurant chain also provides a large market for dairy porducts. That's right, McDonalds is the largest single consumer of diary products. With 7,000 U.S. outlets, they uses 1.8 percent of all milk produced by the nation's dairy farmers. And because they use only real dairy foods, they have been given permission to use the "real seal" in their promotion.

Some the dairy items on the menue include: eggs scrambled with real butter, half and half with coffee and real milk shakes. The average McDonald's restaurant anually serves more than 80,000 milk shakes, 55,000 real dairy softserve cones and sundaes, 15,000 half pints of milk, 105,000 single-service containers of real half and half, 18,500 pounds of USDA Grade AA butter pats, 225 pounds of butter for preparing eggs, and 1,500 gallons of buttertmilk biscuits.

Fast food is sometimes called junk food. But with all the real dairy products on the menu, this certainly would not be true in the school lunch program or at McDonalds.

Editor:

Earlier this year President George W. Bush came to Central Pennsylvania to bring the attention of our nation and the world to the fine example of the clean and healthy living standards of the Amish and Mennonites' drug-free society. President Bush was simply amazed that these strict Pennsylvanians placed such high value on their families that they did not need the feeble crutch of drug

NOW IS THE TIME

To Prevent Disease In Show Animals

The show season is upon us, and the recent outbreak of bovine tuberculosis reminds us of the importance of practicing good biosecurity measures, especially if we are showing or buying cattle and bringing them back home to the farm.

To reduce the risk of spreading diseases:

- Don't share feeding and watering utensils with other animals.
- Don't let animals nuzzle or lick each other.
- Transport them in clean vehicles.
- Don't track manure into feeding areas; require people to clean and disinfect footwear, or wear disposable boots.
- When show cattle are brought back to the farm, house them separately for observation and testing.
- Test the animals several weeks after the show season to see if they have acquired any diseases and work closely with your veterinarian.

To Be Aware Of A New Poultry Column

Now is the time to start reading the new Lancaster Farming poultry column. For the past two years, Owen Keene and Forest Muir have been writing articles for a monthly poultry column. A new weekly poultry column will begin with the September 2 issue of Lancaster Farming. The column entitled "Poultry Pointers" will be authorized by several members of the Penn State faculty with extension responsibilities in the poultry area. In addition, John Schwartz, the multi-county poultry agent will contribute articles. The column will feature a broad range of poultry topics, including economics, engineering, genetics, health, management, nutrition, physiology and poultry products, depending on the expertise of the author.

To Check Stored Grain

Farmers should check all their stored grain at this time of year because heating of stored grain can be a symptom of insect activity or just too much moisture. In either case, the heating problem should be corrected before the grain is ruined. If grain requires pest control materials (as listed on page 24 of the 1989-90 Agronomy Guide), it should be done while the air temperature is still fairly high or above 60 degrees F. If it's moisture, then check for possible leaks in the roof. We have too much money invested in the seed, fertilizer and labor to lose it in storage.

To Be Aware Of The Fall Webworm

The fall webworms are abundant this year as they appear on shade trees and shrubs, and in some cases completely defoliate them. Many people mis-identify them as tent caterpillars or gypsy moth. The gypsy moth and caterpillar appear in the spring and the fall webworm in late summer and early fall.

The actual damage to the tree, by the fall webworm, is minimal because the tree has completed its growing cycle for the summer and is preparing to drop its leaves anyway.

Control can be attained by mechanical or chemical means. When the tented branches are within reach, they can be snipped off and destroyed. This is practical if the tents have not become too large and the tree's shape is not threatened by this method. Chemical control measures can be used when tents are first noticed and the larvae are small. The entire tree need not be sprayed, but webs and surrounding foliage should be thoroughly covered. Sevin, Methoxychlor, Orthene or Bt can be used. Always follow label directions when using any pesticide.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

Background Scripture:
Ezekiel 1.
Devotional Reading:
1 Peter 1:3-11.

My wife and I travel quite a bit and, when we visit other churches on a Sunday morning, we are often struck with the discovery that, although we are worshipping the same God, the experience of worship and other facets of church life seem so different. It is difficult sometimes to conceive of Christian life outside the arena of your own Christian congregation.

All of us need to remember that our experience and our congregation are not the norm for the rest of Chris-tendom and the Christianity that other people follow, although often quite different from our own, is no less valid just because it is unfamiliar. There is authentic Christian life beyond our own experience.

A STATIONARY GOD

This is frequently a problem in our age of high mobility. People sometimes come to our church from another city and find it difficult to settle down in our congregation because it is not sufficiently like what they experienced before they came here. It is as if, acknowledging that people are mobile, we doubt that God is. We tend to think of God solely in terms of where we have been experiencing him for the past several decades.

If you have experienced any of the feelings noted above, then perhaps you can better appreciate what the people of Israel felt when they were carried off into captivity in Babylon. They were not enslaved or abused, so far as we know. In fact, in some ways they were even better off — materially, perhaps — than they had been in the Promised Land. They were simply displaced from their homeland.

What was difficult for them, however, was the fact that they felt so totally separated from their religion. The focus of that religion back in their homeland had been the great Temple of Solomon in Jerusalem. This is where they experienced God with some kind of regularity and familiarity. Intellectually, they were aware that God was not limited to the Jerusalem temple, but still it was hard to think of God apart from this holy ground and the temple that stood upon it. In a sense, we might say they suffered from an ediface complex — they associated the experience of God only within that ediface.

THE EDIFACE COMPLEX

There are also people who associate their experience of God, not with a place or a congregation so much as with a pastor. Let the minister move or be moved to another church and there usually will be some people who will be certain that it is God, not just their pastor, whom they have lost — particularly if the new minister is not much like the one who has left. Intellectually, of course, we know better, but that doesn't keep us from acting as if God is lost.

It was probably in the midst of just such a situation — people acting as if God were lost — that Ezekiel received his first vision. And the importance of that vision was that it told him and his people that God was not lost, but was with them every bit as much as he had been with them in the temple of Jerusalem.

Ezekiel's wonderful vision of the glory of God is a reminder also to us that, no matter how much the outer circumstances of our lives may change, God is not lost. He may seem lost because we are looking for him in the wrong places, but he is just as close as ever if we will permit him into our lives.

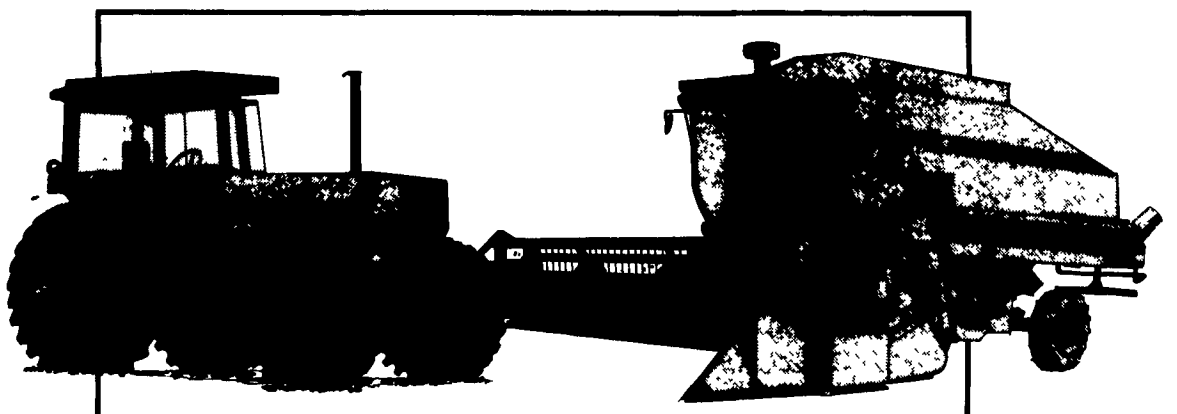
Why is Deutz-Allis the only company covering its full line of tractors and combines with long-term warranties?

CONFIDENCE.



INTRODUCING 4-YEAR/4,000-HR WARRANTY*

INTRODUCING 5-YEAR/5,000-HR WARRANTY*

Stop in at your Deutz-Allis dealer and see for yourself why we're so confident. See just how tough we're building our tractors and combines. Compare performance, compare features...and now compare warranties.

These new warranties are the direct result of the reputation for reliability that Deutz-Allis tractors and rotary Gleaner combines are earning.

For one thing, no other manufacturer offers an engine with a reputation for staying on the job like the Deutz air-cooled diesel. It has no radiator, water pump, hoses or other liquid cooling parts, which typically account for about 40% of engine downtime.

The advantages are many. And now with long-term warranties, you can look forward to lower cost of operation—from machinery you can really believe in!

KEYSTONE MILLS
"MAXI-SIL"

Proven By Research And Local Farm Results To Provide:

- Faster fermentation...Promotes rapid drop in pH, which causes natural lactic acid producing organisms to grow at a higher rate.
- Less spoilage... Silage on exposed face of trench or pit silos remains palatable over a longer period of time.
- Flexible... Can be used in trench, pit, bag, or upright silos and with any forage crops used for silage.
- Cost Efficient...1 lb. of free-flowing Purina Maxi-Sil will treat a ton of silage.
- Non-corrosive... Will not damage equipment.
- Longer lasting... No refrigeration required and can be stored in any type facility.

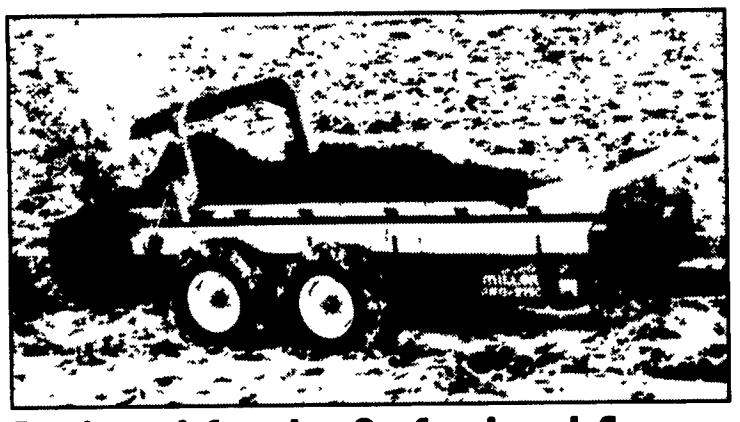
MILLER PRO MANURE SPREADERS



Designed for the Professional Farmer

Extra Heavy Duty Design

When you get a Miller Pro Manure Spreader, you get more than just the basics. You get a piece of equipment which has been designed to outlast and out-perform other spreaders on the market. Compare these Miller Pro features...

- Solid polyethylene plastic tongue-in-groove board floor and sides (not just poly liners) eliminate freeze-up and will not rot or decay.
- Unitized frame weldment 3/16" crossmembers and wrap-around steel corners provide extra rigid support.
- Galvanized steel flares and splash guards resist rust and corrosion.
- Durolon bushings last up to 10 times longer than bronze bushings.

Extensive Warranty

- Lifetime warranty on the polyethylene floor and sides.
- Two years on all parts
- One year on labor.

Contact your local Miller dealer or Miller St. Nazianz for details.

Ehrlich gets the jump on fleas.

Fleas feed only on blood Prior to biting humans, they may have fed on skunks, rats, or deer Fleas don't care

Adult fleas can go two years without a meal, but prefer to eat often They usually bite humans on the legs, but will jump onto beds and chairs if given a chance This can be more than just irritating Fleas are among the most notorious disease carriers in the world

Allowed to roam your home, one female flea will lay about 450 eggs Get the jump on fleas before they jump on you Call Ehrlich for a free inspection, no obligation

MODEL 120 CONVEY-N-FEED® END CHARGE FEEDER

Deep-trough, air-borne 14 in. belt carries 27% more feed than a flat 16 in. belt. 105% more than a flat 12 in. belt. Also, because 46% of the belt rides over thin air - instead of sliding on a metal surface - there's less drag. Requires less HP, less energy...reduces wear on the belt. Belt returns conditions for reduced friction.

Power For Less...Tools That Last

John Deere 45- to 95-hp Tractors

Hook your tillage tool to a John Deere tractor, and you'll hit the field running. High torque rise (up to 24 percent) lets these tractors hang in there when lesser tractors would stall. Yet these powerful engines offer excellent fuel efficiency. Optional tractor MFWD increases traction when the pulling gets tough. All this performance can be yours at a very affordable price.

714 Mulch Tiller

If you plan to till this fall, try out the John Deere 714 Mulch Tiller. Hydraulically adjust the coulter gangs on-the-go, right from your tractor seat. The solid rear mainframe increases soil penetration in tough conditions. The 9-inch shank spacing and 32-inch underframe clearance let you work nonstop in heavy trash. Sizes from 6 to 21 feet to match your horsepower.

Now There's A Farmer In Your Area Who Can Make Any Business Loan The Bank Can.

Since 1917, farmers have taken kindly to Farm Credit because we're owned and controlled by people who really understand your business.

Farmers. Just like yourself. Thing was, we didn't exactly lay out a Sunday dinner spread of loans. Our menu was limited, and we knew it.

So recently we overhauled our lending system. We now offer competitive rates and options for loans we never could offer before.
Adjustable rate mortgages.
Revolving lines of credit.
Variable and fixed rate loans.
Terms of 30 days to 30 years. There's even a variety of services including insurance plans.

Some things do remain the same, however. The Farm Credit loan officer you talk to still makes most of the decisions.

And chances are he can do it faster than most bankers can say "bureaucracy."

So think about this for a moment. Who would you rather deal with for your next loan? A banker who merely wants your business. Or a farmer who knows it.

Nation's Winning Conservation Farmers, Ranchers Selected

PORTLAND, OR. — The nation's 50 outstanding and innovative farm and ranch families were announced recently.

Recognized in the seventh annual National Soil and Water Conservation Awards Program, funded by the Du Pont Company, they were named at the annual meeting of the Agricultural Communicators in Education, in Portland.

The state winners are selected from among several hundred nominees by public and private agricultural and conservation leaders in each state. They receive award certificates and are honored at a variety of local and statewide events during the year.

The awards program, created and run by the National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation, honors agricultural conservationists who do an especially effective job of managing soil and water resources; preventing or reducing air and water pollution from agriculture; and helping other producers, and the public, learn why and how to protect agricultural resources.

"These remarkable people demonstrate every day that resource conservation is an essential yet cost-effective investment in a healthy and sustainable agriculture," said Emmett Barker, chairman of the Endowment and president of the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute. "They lead the way in voluntary action to enhance the environment."

John A Krol, group vice president for Du Pont agricultural products, said: "Du Pont's strong continuing commitment to this program reflects our view that farmers and ranchers themselves are the best at managing risks in agriculture. They can protect their resources and water quality while producing food and fiber. We in the agricultural product industry are proud to be part of their team."

Beyond the many local and statewide events being planned, the 1989 state winners also will vie for further national honors. Their accomplishments will be evaluated by a technical advisory committee and by former national winners of the Endowment awards. Ten national finalists from the 50 will be honored at an awards ceremony in Milwaukee, Oct. 22, at the American Agricultural Editors' Association meeting.

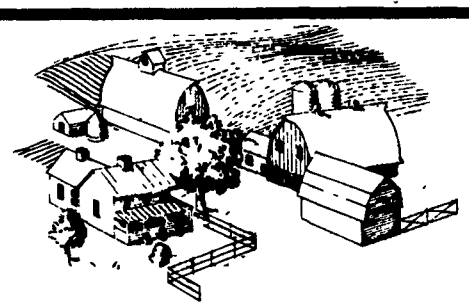
Fruit Field Day Held

Alvan Gaus, project assistant for Penn State University's Horticulture Department, right, explains techniques to reduce postharvest losses of York Imperial Apples to fruit growers at a recent field day held at the school's Fruit Research Lab in Biglerville, Adams County.

More than 200 growers from throughout Pennsylvania attended the event, which also featured seminars on new methods to reduce pesticide levels on fruits.

The field day was hosted by Penn State University in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board.

FARM MANAGEMENT



RUSSELL D. POWELL
Multi-County Business Mangement Agent

At one time or another, almost every manager will ask "How can I do a better job of motivating my employees?"

What managers really mean when they ask this question is "How can I get my employees to work harder, or be more productive?" However, managers must realize that motivation is not something that you can do for (or to) a person: it must come from within the individual.

The most that you can do as a manager is to provide an environment in which employees want to work. In order to do this, you must:

•identify the causes of high or low motivation, job satisfaction, and morale;

•identify human needs and how they affect the level of motivation, job satisfaction, and morale;
•understand the principles and methods of creating a climate to promote improved motivation, job satisfaction, and morale.

Motivation: A Definition

Motivation is something we feel within ourselves. It is putting an inner drive into action and involves the idea of directing energy to satisfy a need. Motivation should not be confused with incentives. Incentives are methods of encouraging us to do or not to do something. Money is a major external incentive.

We cannot truly motivate anyone but ourselves. We can only create a climate where motivation is encouraged by good working conditions, incentives, and other job-related factors. Since most of us identify strongly with our jobs, we look to our work for a major sense of accomplishment. When that work is dull and boring, we lead a life that is uninspirational and merely tolerable, turn to activities outside of the job for satisfaction, or look for another job.

The farm manager's job in motivating employees, boils down to understanding individuals, and identifying management actions that will lead to the fulfillment of his or her motivational needs. The ultimate challenge for the manager is to find out how to "encourage" a particular employee in a particular situation. The motivation that causes the bored farmworker to excitedly leave work to participate as a volunteer fireman is transferrable to the job if we find the key.

Principles of Motivation

The forces that motivate us at work are intensely personalized and usually include many of the following:
•our own needs, interests, values, goals, and levels of aspiration.
•our feelings and views about ourselves; our backgrounds and lifestyles.
•individual job satisfaction, coworker attitudes, morale, and organizational climate.
•level of education and intelligence.
•performance expectations of the employer and the employee's ability to produce the desired results.
•condition of personal finances compared with needs and expectations.
•available options

It is important to note that there is no single approach to motivating a group since each individual is motivated by different factors. To discover the individual needs of each employee, begin by asking them to identify their needs and wants in addition to observing their actions and reactions to various types of incentives.

Items Which Commonly Motivate Us

•Self-esteem
•Prestige and status
•Feeling of acceptance and belonging
•Recognition and appreciation by others
•Security and hope for our future
•Power and influence
•Reasonable independence and freedom of action
•Significant participation and involvement in activities affecting us
•Continuing growth and realization of potential through achievement,

Chemicals Can Trigger Groundwater Contamination

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Little is known about the scope of groundwater contamination generated by human activities. Although groundwater contamination may have many sources, evidence suggests that spills and leaks are a significant cause.

Groundwater moves slowly in many areas and some chemicals degrade slowly, so contamination can persist for years or even centuries. Cleanup costs can be prohibitive.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recently released an interim report on levels of agricultural chemicals in groundwater.

The study, scheduled for completion in 1990, was a first attempt at analyzing available data to indicate which areas are potentially affected. Regions with potential pesticide contamination problems have been identified as the Eastern Seaboard, the Gulf Coast and the Upper Midwest.

State survey set

Information from the EPA report has State Department of Agriculture officials planning a more detailed look at groundwater contamination in the Commonwealth.

The Department is developing a pesticide-use survey for next year according to David Bingaman, Environmental Specialist in the Bureau of Plant Industry.

"Pennsylvania has a very diverse soil profile and geology," Bingaman said. "We would like to look at this situation with more resolution and make some decisions below the county level.

"We want to collect and summarize farm data for given watershed areas. What products are being used and where? For example, a pesticide might be okay for use in the northern part of a county but, because of environmental differences, it isn't suitable for use in the southern part of the same county. Farmers in the upper part of the county should be able to continue using that product."

It's very hard to get rid of groundwater contamination problems. Groundwater can move through limestone formations rapidly, but seepage through shale takes much longer.

"Instruments used to detect pesticide residue levels have improved dramatically in the last few years," Bingaman added. "We can now take a harder look at the potential consequences of pesticide contamination in groundwater in Pennsylvania."

Findings will have important implications for policymakers and water users alike. Farmers, for example, have incentives to reduce contamination if their pesticides and fertilizers are affecting their own well water.

Educational programs and expanded research on the effects of agricultural practices will be important. Different strategies must be targeted for specific areas because of differences in soil types and groundwater usage.

Individuals will have a number of options available to them in responding to known or suspected contamination. Many private laboratories around the state will provide a chemical analysis on water samples for a nominal fee.

Households seeking to avoid potential risks from chemicals in their drinking water may choose to remove the contaminants or obtain another source of drinking water. The selection will depend on cost, effectiveness and individual preference.

Choices will include things like purchasing bottled water, connecting to a public water system or installing an activated carbon filtration, distillation, ion exchange or reverse osmosis system.

30 YEARS AGO

-Lancaster County entries picked up one breed championship, two breed reserve championships and nine class championships in Thursday's Southeast District 4-H Dairy Show.

Karl Bender, Landisville, exhibited his senior Guernsey calf to Reserve Championship of the breed, to start the county's purple placings during morning showing.

In the afternoon Ralph Edward Harnish III, Christiana R1, took Breed Championship of Ayrshires with his senior yearling.

Young Harnish was followed into the winner's circle by cousin Marilyn R. Harnish, Quarryville R2, who led her three-year-old Ayrshire to Reserve Championship honors.

The Harnish animals then teamed with antoerh pair of senior yearlings, owned by James c. Brubaker, Lititz, and Gerald Kreider of Quarryville R2, to take the county group title.

Bender, with H. Robert Mumma, Manheim R1, and William Ferguson, Kirkwood, copped Guernsey County group honors.

-Hershey, PA, An entry by B. E. Starr, a Harrisburg architect and poultry exhibitor for more than 30 years, today won the Best Bantam of the Show award against a field of more than 200 entries in the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation's Poultry Fanciers' Show.

Other ribbon winners were: David J. Minick, 16, Bainbridge, whose Black Rose Comb Cockerel took both Best Colored Male in the show awards; George Shroeder, a sales representative from Honesdale, whose White Cochin Cock won Best Shaped Male, and Guy S. Buch, a retired Lititz, PA paperhanging contractor, whose Black Rose Comb Hen took the Best Shaped Female award.

The top ten dollar cash award and Poultry Federation plaque went to the first display winner, Mrs. Anne E. Freeburn, a state employee from Harrisburg, PA.

LOW INPUT FARMING

which is promoted in farm papers recently is simply

which will allow the natural micro-organisms, soil bacteria and earthworms to live and make free fertilizer by releasing what is already in the soil, and taking it out of the air like legume innoculants do. And earthworms give very much of the world's best manure, and they aerate the soils. A spongy soil holds more water than a brick. We have been preaching this wonderful good old way for a dozen years, while multitudes were despising it, but are now coming to their senses after the Chesapeake is already too polluted to produce fish and oysters that are fit to eat. And nearly every livestock farmer needs an expensive water filtering system which we sell. Ask for description and price.

While it is still time to wake up, a lot of the damage is already done, and is past the point of no return like in the bay. Your poisoned fields are still amendable by our program.

While other associations, etc. are researching for the best alternatives, we already have a dozen years experience searching out the best materials and combinations which produce 70 to 90 bu. soybeans, 250 to 300 bu. corn and 150 bu. speltz per acre and 29% protein hay that the cows will eat better when it is rained on than chemical produced hay without rain. Same with the fruit and vegetables which also taste better and are in great demand by consumer groups who are rising up against toxic food. See last week's Lancaster Farming (our ad) concerning the demand for non-toxic poultry meat and grain and soybeans to feed the poultry.

If you go organic you get (1) a bigger crop, (2) a premium price, (3) less cost to produce it. Who but a blind man could refuse. Big California vegetable growers are bright in arithmatic and are changing huge acreages because it costs less, and they get a premium market from the chain stores.

Southcentral District 4-H Show Sts

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Four-H'ers from Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon and York counties gathered Monday at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show Complex to begin rehearsals.

Many 4-H'ers from counties across the state have already rehearsed in their 4-H district dairy shows and await their debut on "Broadway".

Their "Broadway" is the large arena of the state farm show complex and their show, the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, will open Monday, September 25, at 8 a.m., with the start of the Pennsylvania All-American. This the show which brings to an end the official show season for junior 4-H and FFA exhibitors. Only blue-ribbon winners earn the privilege of competing in this show.

The PAA begins Saturday, September 23, with the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant in the evening continues through Friday, September 29, with breed shows, dairy cattle sales, and contests.

Paul King, formerly a Holstein breeder from York County and now living in West Virginia, judged the Holstein, Jersey and Brown Swiss breeds. William Schnebly of Clear Spring, Maryland judged the Ayrshire and Guernsey. This year's show hosted 217 entries, just 10 under the 1988 show total.

BROWN SWISS

Senior champion and grand champion honors in the Swiss show went to the animal "with the most sound udder in the show", according to King. The senior 2-year-old, K & Q J D Willie, owned and shown by Elizabeth Anna Smith of Denver, Lancaster County, took the title. Sire was Johanna Johnny D (W) and breeder was King & Queen Farm of Denver.

Joy Hess of Adams County won reserve champion honors with a 3-year-old, Quiet Valley King Kathi. Kathi was sired by EE Beautician King and bred by Calvin Wilson of Phoenixville. King described the winner as a beautifully framed animal with a marvelous body capacity.

Thomas L. Zartman captured the reserve grand championship of the Brown Swiss show with his junior champion. Zartman of Ephrata in Lancaster County took the title with Meadow Hill Johnny D. Pretty ET a senior yearling. King said he couldn't resist this long heifer, strong on top with a lot of balance and sharpness. Sire was Johann Johnny D. Gary Mase of Lebanon was the breeder.

Larissa Mellott of St Thomas in Franklin County won the reserve junior title with a summer yearling very impressive with her openness of rib, angularity with a lot of femininity about her head and shoulders. The winner was Shady Creek Status Dee Dena, sired by Top Acres Elegant Status-ET. Breeder was Richard Wenger of Manheim.

HOLSTEIN

Six-year-old Hall-A-Way Ronna walked away with the grand championship of the Holstein show for owner-breeder William Hall of Shippensburg. Sire was Green-Banks Oak Star Twin. This 25,000-pound producer on her last recorded lactation, impressed King with her marvelous udder, with exceptional height and width to her rear udder. A very dairy cow all the way through, according to King.

Jamie Hartman of St. Thomas, Franklin, won the reserve grand title in the Holstein show with his 4-year-old, Meadow Vu Astro Bess. Sire was Higher View Astro Matt and breeder was Robert Eckstine of Mercersburg.

Junior champion of the Holstein show went to Shannon Doll of Brodbecks in York County. The style, grace, and feminitity about the head and shoulders of Doll's intermediate yearling, Dar-Dale Pabst Betty, convinced King to put her on top of the junior animals. Sire is Char-Sam Elevation Pabst. Breeder is Dana Doll of Glen Rock.

Reserve junior champion honors went to the outstanding and angular junior yearling owned by Karen Kauffman of Peach Bottom, Lancaster County. Sukavin Starbuck Jessica was sired by Hanoverhill Starbuck and bred by Karen Kauffman.

MILKING SHORTHORN

Christine Young of Newville in Cumberland County swept the Milking Shorthorn show. Three Springs Aggie was named junior champion and became the reserve grand champion of the show. The winner was a senior yearling sired by ET-Kingsdale Aristocrat.

Reserve junior champion was Three Springs Shasta-EXP. Senior and grand champion was a six-year-old, Three Springs BR Lil, sired by Three Springs Bell Ringer. Young had purchased the champion from her father, the breeder, James Young.

JERSEY

Jersey show judge King could not resist smiling as he put this tremendous 6-year-old in the grand champion spotlight.

"She is an easy winner on balance, symmetry, and openness of rib," said King. "She has a tremendously well-developed udder. She is just a tremendous dairy cow all the way through."

Denise Martin of Chambersburg in Franklin County, owner-breeder and exhibitor on Pleasant Valley Superb Cashew. That name should be familiar to most people. Cashew was named the supreme dairy cow of the 1989 Pennsylvania State Farm Show. The sire is B.S. Noble Superb.

Following Cashew was Melanie Dietrich of Newburg. Dietrich's 3-year-old, Dorina's Legend Delaura, sired by Schultz Performing Legend took reserve grand champion in the Jersey show. Dietrich was also owner-breeder on Delaura which impressed King with her youthful mammary system and her excellent feet and legs.

The overall balance, symmetry, breed character and correct walk of the this lovely junior calf owned by Helen Arrowsmith of Peach Bottom made it an easy winner for the junior champion title. Hillacres Silver B. Starlight was sired by Valleystream Silver Beacon and the breeder was Darlene M. McConaughey of Woodsbury, GA.

AYRSHIRE

Heather Lynn Becker of Gap, Lancaster County won the junior champion title with her intermediate yearling GR Narvon Valleys Chmp Garland, sired by Sycamore Meade Hi Champ and bred by David Harnish of Quarryville. Her winner was red heifer with a lot of breed character in head and neck, very clean cut throughout, according to judge Schnebly.

Reserve junior champion was a junior calf shown by owner-breeder Donna Shetterly of Millersburg, Dauphin County. The winner was Sycamore-Meade Mozarts Lolipop and was sired by De Gui Vag Mozart. Lolipop was a handy winner in the junior calf class.

The grand champion of the Ayrshire show was an easy winner. She was so much longer and taller than her competitors and clean in the hocks. Fore-udder attachment on this senior 2-year-old was excellent. Owner was Becker Becker of Gap. SIre was St. Cesaire Johnny and breeder was David Harnish.

Mary E. Deaven took the reserve grand honors with her second-placed senior 2-year-old, Toll-Gate-Ayr Magic Kittie. Deaven is of Newburg in Cumberland County. Sire on the reserve champion was Palmyra Magic and breeder is John Hunter of West Alexander.

GUERNSEY

Dale Mummert of Chambersburg took the junior championship in the Guernsey show wiht a powerful, sharp senior yearling, which was standing on the most correct set of feet and legs of all the junior animals. Darling Downs Fayette Teresa, sired by Dutch Mill Telestars Fayette and bred by Mummert was the winner.

Reserve junior champion was shown by Michael McLaughlin of Taneytown, MD, who belongs to the Adams County 4-H group. Unicorn Bakers Ella, the second-placed senior yearling, sired by Kenmir Nances Baker-ET and bred by Unicorn Associates, Union Bridge, MD.

Grand champion was shown by David T. Henisee, Jr. of Columbia. Village View Maverick Beth, a senior 2-year-old had a very desirable mammary systems with good tea' placement and exceptionally we'l-at.ached. Sire on the winner was Olympic View B. Maverick and breeder was John G. Henisee of Elizabethtown.

Reserve grand champion was a junior 2-year-old shown by Jeffrey McCullough of Newville, Cumberland. McCulloughs Fayette Danie, sired by Dutch Mill Telestars Fayette and bred by Donald & Helen McCullough of Newville won the reserve grand title on several attributes. Schnebly admired Danie's size and stretch. He described her as a well-balanced individual throughout with an exceptionally well-balanced udder for a junior 2-year-old.

Traskdale Pete An Bast Wins Eastern

BY VAL VANTASSLE
Berks Co. Correspondent

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Traskdale Pete An Bast, a five-year-old belonging to Dale Hostetter and Tom Lyon of Annville, was named the grand champion of the Eastern Pennsylvania Championship Holstein Show held August 23 at the Kutztown Fairgrounds.

Judge Genie Francisco was quite impressed with the big animal. "She is a tall animal with the best udder in the show. She has very correct legs and tracks well. She also shows cleanliness around the hocks," she said. An Bast is a Straight-Pine Elevation Pete daughter bred by Preston Trask.

Francisco followed the five-year-old with a dry four-year-old, Keystone Dynamo Denise. Bred by W. Douglas Seipt of Keystone Farm, Denise was also named the best bred and owned animal at the show. Denise was sired by Donacres Dynamo-Twin. Her dam was Keystone Pete Dottie-ET. Francisco was impressed with the cow's stylishness despite the fact that she was not in milk for the event.

In the youth division Daview Pete Ginger, a senior three-year-old belonging to Jeffrey Davis of Leesport, won another grand championship. Ginger, a junior champion at the Pennsylvania Farm Show two years ago, was the most correct looking cow in the youth show, according to Francisco.

Patricia Miller's seven-year-old, M-Maplegrove Valiant Melone-ET, received reserve honors. Melone, named the best 4-H animal in the state two years ago, won the 100,000-lb. class, and milked 110,000 lbs. as of her last lactation.

Penn Gate Enhancer Flashie, an intermediate yearling, was tops in the junior show much to the pleasure of her owners Steve and Chris Wood. "She could be a reserve All-Pennsylvania selection," Steve added. Coredale Holsteins picked up the reserve with Coredale Steady Jodee, an intermediate calf.

In the youth division, Lebanon County Dairy Princess Kynel Bomgardner was thrilled to have the junior champion, Loving Meadows Mint, a senior calf. "My dad is judging in Perry County today and he said not to be too disappointed if we didn't win anything. He'll sure be surprised," she said. Kynel's father Nelson, bred the animal. Sukavin Starbuck Jessica owned by Karen Kauffman was the reserve.

A calf belonging to D.G. Kauffman was named the grand champion bull followed by a yearling, Loving Meadows Kristopher, owned by Jesse Bomgardner.

Ambassador To Open PennAg Convention

EPHRATA (Lanc. Co.) — Ambassador Joseph Sisco will open the 1989 PennAg convention with "A Fresh Look at U.S. Foreign Policy: How Well is Bush Doing?" An expert on international terrorism, Sisco also will offer comments about contending with terrorism, and the ability of business to function in countries in turmoil, noteably China.

Ambassador Sisco was the principal U.S. negotiator on the Arab-Israeli dispute, served as president of American University, and served for 25 years in the U.S. State Department. He is currently a partner in Sisco Associates, an international consulting firm, and appears frequently on television as a foreign affairs analyst.

Following Sisco will be Dr. David Nash of the Health Evaluation Center of the University of Pennsylvania. A physician with an MBA from the Wharton School, he will be addressing "Asking Quality Questions," and will discuss our perceptions of health care quality and cost, Health Maintenance Organizations, and the future of health care in America.

Tuesday's speakers will include Pat Boova of Shearson-Lehman Brothers ("Global Economics, Global Change"), Joseph Calhoun, WGAL-TV ("Trends in Weather Forecasting"), Dr. Samuel Hays, University of Pittsburgh ("Environmental Issues In Historical Perspective"), and Dr. Robert Patton, Monsanto ("Animal Nutritioin, Biotechnology and the Future").

On-Farm Nutrient Management Field Day Planned

HAGERSTOWN, MD — If you want to use commercial fertilizer, animal wastes or sludge more efficiently to grow your crops, and also improve your farm's profitability and protect Maryland's water quality,the solution may be a University of Maryland nutrient management plan. Farmers can learn about these nutrient plans by attending the Western Maryland Ag Field Day Sept. 7.

The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, now offers a nutrient management program to help farmers precisely and effectively use nutrients from a variety of sources.

"Up to one-third of the money invested in growing crops is spent on fertilizer," said Mitch Woodward, a Nutrient Management Specialist for the University of Maryland. This nutrient management program can help farmers save on fertilizer costs by taking full advantage of nutrients in commercial fertilizers, manure or sludge.

Also, proper application and efficient use of fertilizers reduce the risk of nutrient losses due to leaching or surface runoff, said Woodward. "We all pay the price when nutrients escape from cropland and contaminate ground water and wells, or pollute streams and other surface waters," he said.

A nutrient management plan provides field by field crop fertility recommendations that help farmers achieve maximum economic yields and provides good yearly records of crops and management decisions. Trained consultants answer questions, develop nutrient management plans, and provide personal assistance in collecting soil and manure samples for analysis and calibrating application equipment.

"So far, the 11 management plans implemented in Washington County have saved a total of $7,800 (an average of $21 an acre) for the farmers," said Woodward, who encouraged anyone interested in a farm nutrient management plan to attend the Western Maryland Ag Field Day.

Other research tour topics include low-input cropping systems, biological control of thistle, pest management alternatives in alfalfa production, an update on orchard research, and on-farm forestry and wildlife management in Western Maryland. The field day also offers farm equipment demonstrations, corn and soybean variety showcases, and displays of agricultural equipment, farm services and the University of Maryland agricultural programs.

A new addition to the field day, the Mid-Atlantic Fruit Variety Showcase/Tour, runs from 2:30 to 6 p.m. The traditional $1 hog roast starts at noon. The luncheon speaker is Dr. Archibald Park, Assistant Secretary for Animal Health and Consumer Services, representing Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr.

All events are open to the public. Luncheon reservations are due by August 31 and can be made by calling (301) 791-2298.

To find the Western Maryland Research and Education Center, exit Interstate 70 at Md 65 near Hagerstown. Proceed 7 miles south on Md 65, then turn left on Keedysville Road. The entrance is about one mile down Keedysville Road on the left.

The Western Maryland Ag Field Day is sponsored by the University of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service, and the Washington County Ag Demonstrators.

Keystone Farm Appoints Branch Manager

SHOEMAKERSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.)— Robert Evanchalk, a native of Schuylkill County, has been named branch manager of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA's Hegins branch, effective in July.

Evanchalk graduated from Pine Grove High School in Schuylkill Co. and, as a youth, was active in 4-H. Attending Penn State University, he graduated in 1973 with a Bachelor of Science degree in general agriculture.

Evanchalk began his Farm Credit Career in 1984 as a field representative in the Hegins branch office; he was promoted to loan officer in 1985 and to senior loan officer in 1988. Prior to joining Farm Credit, he worked with the State Conservation Commission in Jefferson Co. and Agway, Inc. in Cressona, Schuylkill Co.

Evanchalk resides on a small farm near Pine Grove with his wife and two children who are active 4-H'ers. Evanchalk is a 4-H leader of both the Stampede (Livestock) Club and the Pine Grove Community Club. He is also Supervisor of Agriculture on the Schuylkill Co. Fair Association. The family attends Hetzel's U.C.C.

New York Firm Marks 35 Years Of Livestock Study

CHARLOTTEVILLE, NY — Thirty-five years of livestock research at Cooperative Research Farms has resulted in many benefits for farmers worldwide and stands as an excellent example of cooperation and committment.

"From dairy and beef cattle to swine to poultry to rabbits and horses, our research efforts have made a contribution to the progress of our cooperatives and our farmer members," said CRF General Manager Bertil Holm on the organization's 35th anniversary.

"We have generated new products, new feed formulations and new management information for the benefit of CRF members — and only CRF members — in a never-ending drive to improve farmer profitability."

Thirteen U.S. and Canadian cooperatives, recently joined by a large French co-op, form the CRF family. CRF, a non-stock agricultural co-op, began in 1954 when seven cooperatives banded together to conduct feed research. Over the years it has grown to include research programs for a wide range of livestock and poultry nutrition programs, with an annual budget in excess of 2.5 million dollars.

Six research farms — located at Tully and Ithaca, New York; Lexington, Illinois; Ford Doge, Iowa; Providence Forge, Virginia; and Talmo, Georgia — are the heart of CRF. About 60 nutritionists and researchers make up a "think tank" that has helped cooperatives focus on the most promising new areas of animal nutrition.

"Our mission is to assist members in maintaining a leading role in animal agriculture by conducting research in animal nutrition and management," Holm said.

Highlights of CRF's 35 years include:

- The first commercial and patented use of the protein solubility method of formulating dairy rations.
- Patents recently granted on formulating dairy feeds based on the controlled levels of structural and non-structural carbohydrates.
- Formulation of an all-in-one calf ration that gets dairy calves into the milking line sooner.
- Swine feeds that allow early weaning without compromising overall economic performance. CRF early-weaner feeds have helped cut weaning time from 35 days to 21 days, with improved gains and feed efficiency.
- Increases of as much as 18 percent in average daily gain for beef cattle, and feed efficiency improvements of 13 percent, using a new type of protein supplement.
- Development of turkey feeds and programs that produce faster gains on less total feed.
- Through use of nutrition and special feed additives, laying hens can be put into production two weeks earlier.

"Our first 35 years have been exciting and rewarding, but the coming decades will bring research advances we can hardly imagine," Holm said. "Already, CRF is working with advanced biotechnology to develop feeds and products that will help livestock producers enhance their way of life in a challenging world."

Cooperative members of CRF include ...Agway Inc., Syracuse, New York; Co-op Atlantic, Moncton, New Brunswick; Cooperative Federee de Quebec, Montreal, Quebec; Countrymark, Inc., Delaware, Ohio; Federated Cooperatives Limited, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; Gold Kist Inc., Atlanta, Georgia; Growmark, Inc., Bloomington, Illinois; Indiana Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Inc., Indianapolis, Indiana; Land O'Lakes, Fort Dodge, Iowa; Southern Farmers Association, North Little Rock, Arkansas; Southern States Cooperative, Inc., Richmond, Virginia; Tennessee Farmers Cooperative, LaVergne, Tennessee; United Co-operatives of Ontario, Mississippi, Ontario; UCAAB, Chateau Thierry, France.

addition to make it through good and bad times. The Amish and Mennonites were hailed and honored by President Bush and so the gift our president and other government officials will be giving Central Pa. is — the evaporation of more radioactive water left over from the 1979 TMI accident.

In March 1979 the world was outraged about the accident at TMI which included the accidental evaporation of poisonous radioactive water into the air. Yet now, the deliberate evaporation of the contaminated water is barely noticed by the innocent unwarey public. This time 23 million gallons of radioactive water which consists of plutonium and many other harmful radioactive isotopes will be released into the atmosphere again!

According to the NRC and GPU, we will continue to be under their forceful dictating iron fist by insisting that they will not use the correct method of disposing the radioactive waste water by containing it and shipping it to a nuclear waste disposal facility. The NRC and GPU claim that the cheapest way to clean up their accident is by using the evaporation process. How can they compare the cost of proper cleanup to human suffering both physically and mentally? After all, they certainly had enough money to build the TMI nuclear power plant in the first place. Yet now, they seemingly have no idea where to find the funds for the correct cleanup.

On Aug. 4, 1989, NBC's Highway to Heaven television program with Michael Landon and Victor French displayed great concern for the welfare of this planet and that society must not allow especially government and private industries to continue the polluting onslaught of our most precious commodity which is our environment.

If we as Americans and Pennsylvanians do not demand that our rights for a clean environment are met, we will lose what our founding fathers worked so hard for and organizations like NRC and GPU will do your thinking for you. Write to your representatives or phone Governor Bob Casey's hotline 1-800-932-0784 to voice your protest against the evaporation of the radioactive water at TMI. Let the people who we voted for know what they are for — to do the will of the people.

How KINZE designed the world's best Auger Wagon.

We put the auger up front, where you can see it.. control it. Over 12 ft. unloading height.

Hydraulic fold, self-aligning augers, and over-center locks.

Low-profile, extra-big tank means more clearance for the combine auger Less than 10 ft on all models

3-minute unloading with vertical and horizontal augers. You're unloading at full capacity, wet or dry, from start to finish. Means less grain damage because augers run full Much more efficient than single auger carts.

High-flotation tires standard equipment! So you keep moving, even in soft, greasy fields

Finest American-made, industrial grade components money can buy, with chain oiler and grease bank for easy maintenance

2 1 sprocket reduction drive system Especially important when unloading high-moisture grain

Record-Breaking Year

Perhaps the most significant change in Lancaster County agriculture is to be found in the poultry industry where broiler numbers were up to a record 56.4 million birds, and layers were up more than half a million birds. The total value of production for the poultry industry was $187.4 million in 1988 versus $169.8 the previous year.

The increased poultry production value in part reflects an rise in broiler and egg prices. The cost for chickens rose 4 cents, which in turn reflects the increase in consumer demand for poultry products.

The higher number of broilers is not due to new houses, according to Irwin, but rather to producers pushing one more flock through the house in a year.

"I believe poultry is peaking out in this county," said Irwin. "Companies are looking for other counties for farms."

Cow numbers increased on Lancaster County dairy farms by about 1,100. This change, however, doesn't reflect the state's dairy industry, which saw a drop in cow numbers. Dairy is still the county's top agricultural industry with a value of $207.3 million, but poultry producers, the second highest valued group, are closing the gap.

Franklin and Bradford counties, which follow Lancaster in dairy production, switched places from last year, with Bradford County dropping to third and Franklin County being the second-high producing dairy county.

The beef industry saw an increase in slaughter prices, which caused the production value to rise. Beef prices rose from an average of $62.10 per hundredweight to $66.40 per hundredweight. This greatly benefitted beef farmers especially as animal numbers fell off 2,000 to 263,000.

Lancaster County produces 13.7 percent of Pennsylvania's beef with Franklin County coming in second with 94,800 animals followed by Bradford County.

The hog picture was a little less bright as slaughter prices, which had been strong, fell from an average of $52.00 per hundredweight to $43.60 per hundredweight. The total production value for the Lancaster County hog industry was $24.7 million with hog numbers increasing from 328,000 to 351,000.

Lancaster County remains the top hog-producing county in Pennsylvania as well as one of the top five in the nation. Coming in a distant second for hog production was York County with 62,300 hogs trailed by Berks County with 57,000 hogs.

Sheep numbers were up by 1,450 in Lancaster County and the production value was also up, but the county is far behind number-one Greene County as well as Washington County.

Crop production took place on 8,460 fewer acres last year as compared with 1987. Small-grain and hay harvests were very good, offsetting the poorer corn yields.

Acres of corn for grain were down from 1987 figures, while acres of corn for silage were up by 3,000. This directly reflected the dry weather last summer, which caused the average yield per acre to drop to 91.0 bushels versus 103.0 bushels in 1987 and 130 in '84. More corn was harvested for silage as the tonnage was down and dairy farmers needed to fill their silos.

The value for corn was higher than that in 1987 primarily because scarcity drove prices up. Grain corn sold for an average of $3.20 per bushel last year, whereas in 1987, a bushel of corn averaged $2.47.

Yields were good last year for Lancaster County soybean growers who saw an average of 40.0 bushels per acre. The number of acres rose from 10,500 in 1987 to 18,000 in 1988, enabling growers to reap the benefits of a jump in prices of $1.80 per bushel. At one point last summer, soybeans were selling for about $10 per bushel.

The wheat, barley, and oat yields increased over 1987 yields, with wheat being up 14 bushels per acre, barley up eight bushels per acre, and oats up five bushels per acre. For the first time ever, barley production passes the $1 million mark in Lancaster County. According to Irwin, this was due in part to an increase in price of $.90 per bushel.

For the first time in 78 years, tobbaco production in Lancaster County dropped. Farmers planted 8,700, or 1,310 less, acres and saw a value drop of $315,000, from $14.6 million to $14.3 million.

Farmers had an excellent hay harvest last year as drying conditions were very good. The value went up from $27.8 million in 1987 to $32.4 million last year as farmers sold their excess to neighboring counties that didn't fare so well.

"We had better crops than many other Pennsylvania counties," stated Irwin. "I think Lancaster County farmers fared quite well compared to farmers in other counties."

Irwin and his fellow Extension agents in Lancaster County look to 1989 to be a bad year for wheat, barley, and hay production. The wet weather caused small-grain yield and quality to poor this year. Corn, however, looks good as does tobacco.

"I can't say we'll have an excellent crop until we have it in the bin or silo though," Irwin cautioned. Corn roots don't go very deep, and heavy winds could knock over rows in the top-heavy crops. In addition, farmers could have problems with both corn and tobacco if good drying weather doesn't show up.

Irwin also warned farmers to be patient with their corn crops. "Some farmers are putting their corn in the silo too wet because they need silage," he said. "The corn should be well dented or the farmer will have juices running out of the silo."

Unless something can be done with the excess manure produced in Lancaster County, Irwin believes that animal per acre production has about peaked.

Seven Judges Approved For Pennsylvania All-American

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— Seven judges have been selected for the 26th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, September 25-29 at the Farm Show Complex, Harrisburg, PA, it is announced by Show Manager Charles Itle.

Show officials went 3,000 miles west for the Guernsey judge and picked a Minnesota judge for the Ayrshires, Itle says. The others are no strangers to the Eastern dairy classic, coming from Virginia, West Virginia, New York and the Keystone State.

The PA All-American, long considered the premier dairy show in the East, will feature six breed shows, 2500 cattle from 30 states and Canadian provinces, and $87,000 in premiums, he said.

The show manager said the following judges will handle breed shows next month:

Pennsylvania All-American Ayrshire Show, 9:00 a.m., Wednesday, September 27; William Broadwater, Preston, MN, judge.

Eastern National Brown Swiss Show at 9:00 a.m., Tuesday, September 26; Donald R. Bossard, Hornell, NY, judge.

National Guernsey Show, 9:00 a.m., Wednesday, September 27, Jay Lancaster, Ferndale, WA, judge.

Eastern National Holstein Show, dry cows, calves and heifers, 11:00 a.m., Thursday, September 28, and milking and group classes, 9:00 a.m., Friday, September 29; Richard Keene, Gilbertsville, NY, judge, Paul King, Moorefield, WV, associate judge.

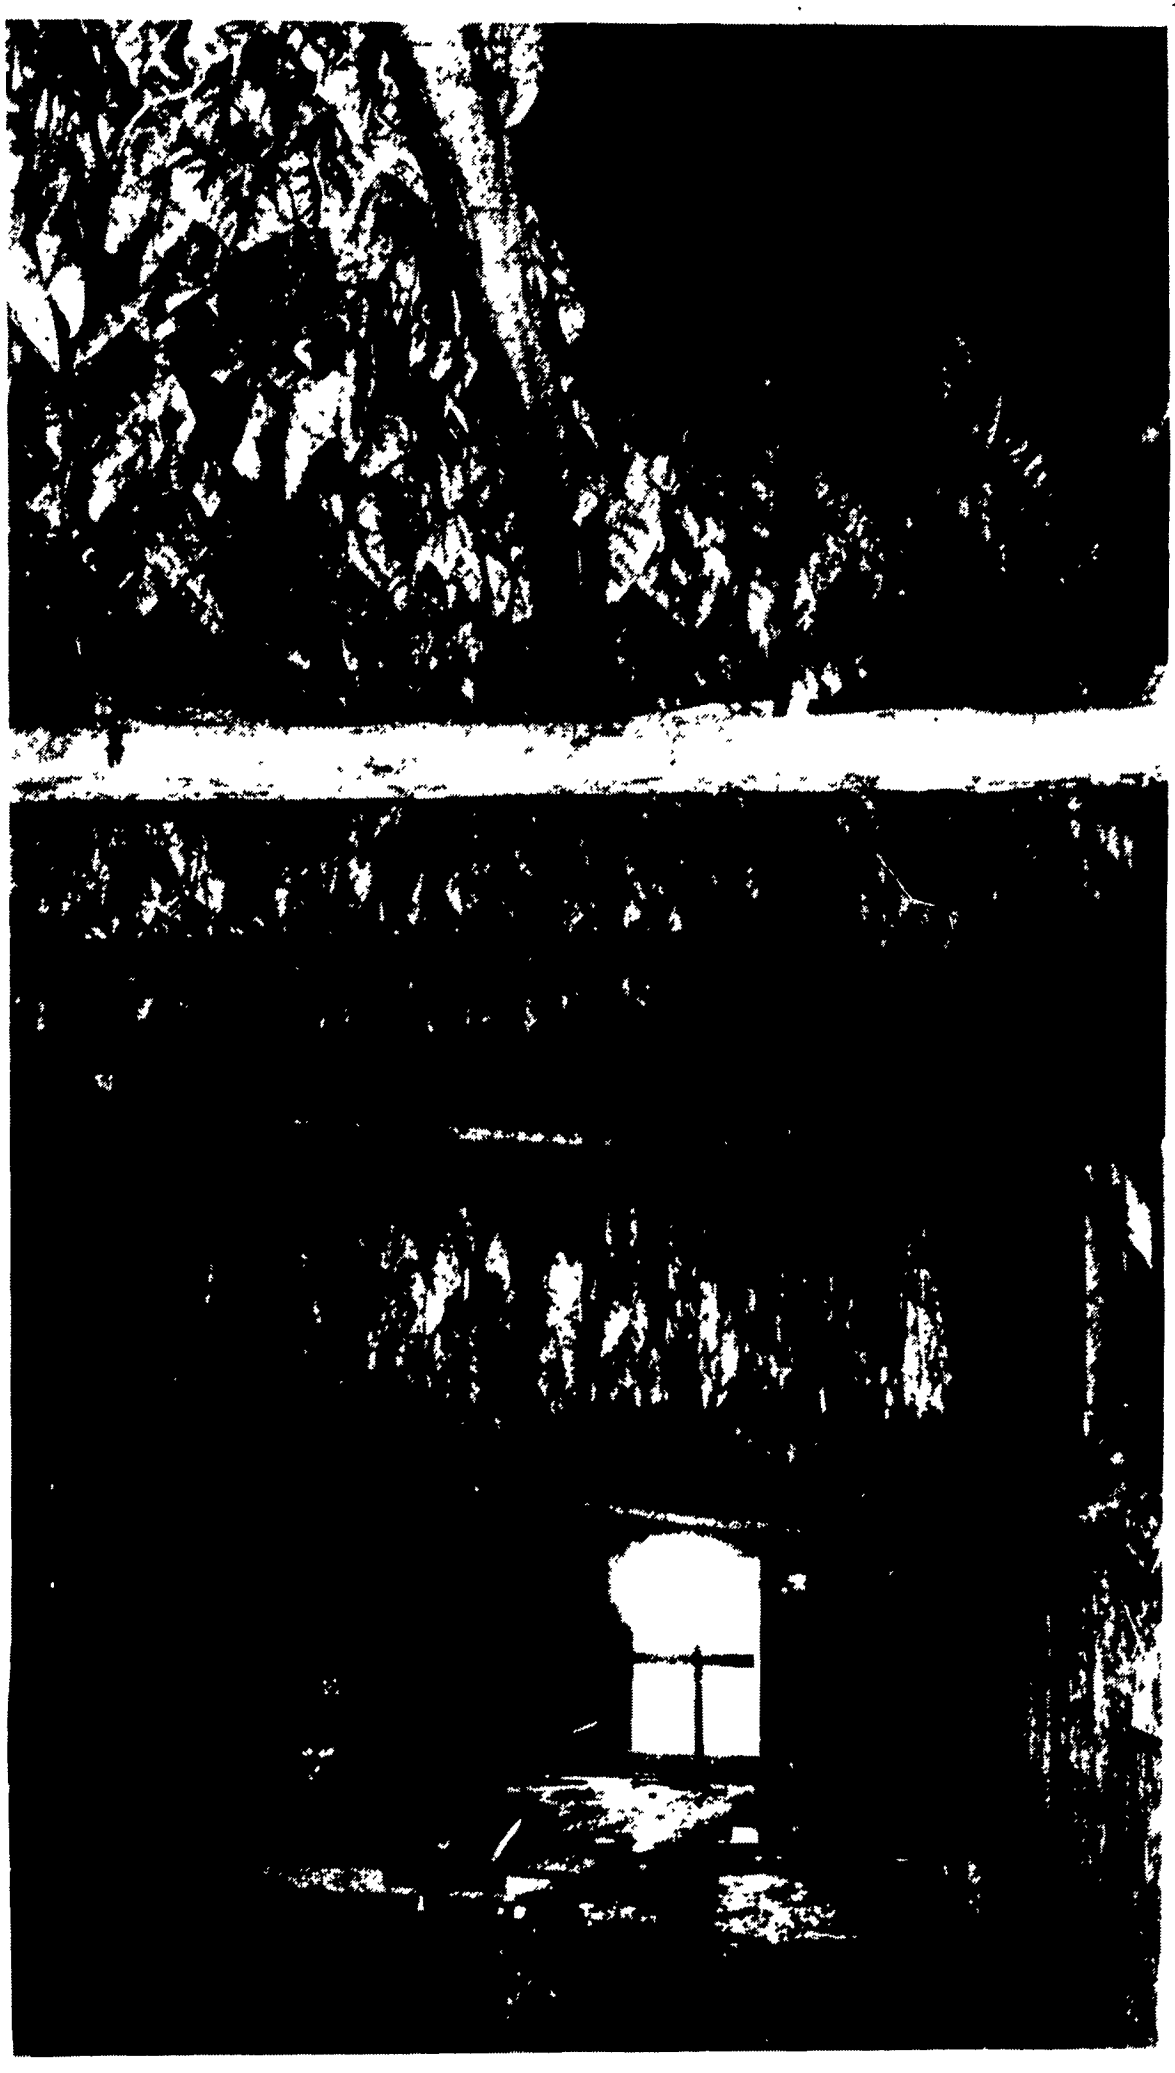
Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show, 9:00 a.m., Thursday, September 28; James Shaw, Mercer, PA, judge.

Pennsylvania All-American Milking Shorthorn Show, 9:00 a.m., Tuesday, September 26; Merton Sowerby, Warrenton, VA, judge.

Climax of the five-day All-American will be the selection of Supreme Champion Friday morning from among the six breed grand champions, Itle reports.

Other activities during All-American Week, he says, include the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant, September 23; Country Craft Market, September 24-28; Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show and Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest, September 25; and Junior Dairyman Contest and Pennsylvania 4-H and FFA Dairy Judging Forum, September 26.

The All-American is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission.



Tobacco Cures Under Poor Conditions

While the tobacco cutting operation in Lancaster County is about half completed, farmers report that diseases caused by wet weather and poor curing conditions may take it's toll on this years crop. John Yocum, Penn State Research Farm at Landisville, said farmers were calling him about the sap running out of the plants in the tobacco shed. Yocum said this indicates that the crop is under poor drying contitions from the wet weather and high humidity in the barns. This will cause rotting and mold on the leaves and spoil them. According to Yocum farmers could run a fan in the tobacco barn or hang the lath outside for a while before storing it in the shed to help the condition.

Luzerne Dairy Day Scheduled

WILKES-BARRE (Luzerne Co.) — Luzerne County will be holding its first Dairy Day Wednesday, September 6th, at the Luzerne County Fairgrounds, Rte. 118, Dallas. Feature speakers for the day are Marlin Ebersole, Regional Manager, Agri-King and Thomas Jurchak, Extension Agent, Lackawanna County. Marlin will be speaking on "Forage Quality and Its Relationship to the Profitability of the Dairy Cow" followed by Tom discussing "Milk Prices and How to Stay Alive and Live Within These Prices."

Tom Jurchak, Extension Director in Lackawanna County, has been with Penn State Cooperative Extension for more than 30 years. He is best known for his educational work in milk marketing not only in Pennsylvania, but also in neighboring states. His biweekly newsletter on dairy marketing is carried regularly by a number of publications in the Northeast. Tom has received numerous awards during his career, including the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association Extension Award, the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents, the Service to Dairying Award from the American Dairy Association, and the Master Educator Award from the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives.

Marlin Ebersole is the Central Pennsylvania Regional Manager for Agri-King whereby he is responsible for 15 counties. Marlin is a nutritional consultant with emphasis being on quality forage. He has been with Agri-King for 15 years and has been a member of the President's Club 6 years, where he has been recognized for service and sales.

A commercial exhibit area will be open for viewing at 9:00 a.m. and will feature displays of dairy supplies, services and equipment. The educational program will begin at 10:30 a.m. The day's event will be held down by the dairy barn area with lunch on your own.

The day's event will end with a large ice cream sundae at 6:00 p.m. hosted by the Luzerne County Dairy Board and Dairy Princess, Maggie Manzoni. Dairy Board members include Barry Bloss, Martin Smith Wapwallopen; Miriam & William Dagostin, Berwick; Margaret & John Manzoni, Dallas; David Stull & Carol Cmiel, Plymouth; and Donna Grey, Luzerne County Extension Agent.

For more information, contact Donna Grey, Luzerne County Cooperative Extension, Courthouse Annex, 5 Water St., Wilkes-Barre, PA 18711 or phone 825-1701 or 459-0736 ext. 701.

Penn State Ag Engineers Win Awards

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Several Penn State students and faculty received awards at the annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. This year's meeting was held in Quebec in June.

Bradley W. Wright, doctoral candidate in agricultural engineering; Dr. Harvey Manbeck, professor of agricultural engineering; and Steven Shaler, instructor of forest resources, received an ASAE Paper Award--Honorable Mention for the refereed publication, "Performance of Glue-Laminated Preservative-Treated Columns," published in the Transactions of the ASAE. Wright wrote the paper based on his master's thesis research which he completed at Penn State. No more than 2.5 percent of all papers published in the Transactions received an ASAE Paper Award or an honorable mention.

Dr. Robert Graves, professor of agricultural engineering; Patrick Richie, multi-county extension agent based in Berks County; and Manbeck received a blue ribbon award for their extension circular, "Constructing Cage Layer Houses for Cleaning Ease." The blue ribbon award is given for extension educational materials that receive a score of 90 percent or higher by a group of peer judges.

Martin Sailus, manager of the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service; Dr. Wilmot Irish, professor of agricultural engineering at Cornell University; and Graves received a blue ribbon award for the NRAES publication, "Planning Dairy Stall Barns."

Louis A. Kopczyk, a May 1989 B.S. graduate of agricultural engineering, received a blue ribbon award for the computer program, "Vegetated Parabolic Waterway Design." He was advised on the project by Dr. James H. Hamlett, assistant professor of agricultural engineering.

Timothy S. Stombaugh, another May 1989 graduate, received the ASAE Student Honor Award. The award recognizes outstanding scholarship and general participation in student activities. The recipient is elected by his or her respective ASAE student organization. The award is then presented if the selected recipient meets the national standards. Only 20 student honor awards were given to agricultural engineering students throughout the United States at this year's meeting.

"I am very pleased that these faculty and students were recognized by ASAE for their outstanding contributions," says Dr. Dennis Buffington, professor and head of Penn State's department of agricultural engineering.

Gates FL Flange,*
a solid, one-piece flange coupling.

Features:
- No braze joints
- Tapered flange head design
- Thicker tube walls

Benefits:
- Better reliability
- Better stress resistance
- Eliminates possible leak points
- Better vibration resistance

* for spiral hose

Wire Braid Hose
Gates couplings for wire braid hose are non-skive, through-the-cover permanent. Many competitors rely solely on the compression of the rubber cover and tube between stem and ferrule for coupling retention.

Features:
- Ferrule serrations bite through the cover making contact with wire reinforcement
- Machine-fit locking collar between ferrule and stem
- Low profile finished crimp

Benefits:
- Safety; better holding power and reliability
- Smaller finished crimp; streamlined assemblies; easier to plumb
- Absorbs more punishment and last longer

Gates C12 Hose

Features:
- Up To 4000 psi W.P.
- +250°F (120°C) temperature capability
- Field crimpable
- No hose tube skive

Benefits:
- Simplifies system design
- Full performance at high temperatures for longer hose life
- Quick, tailor-made assemblies
- Less downtime
- Easy to assemble
- Reduced chance of hydraulic system contamination and failure

Penn State Extension Agents Win National Awards

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)— Two Penn State Cooperative Extension agents recently were recognized by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents for excellence in extension programming. Mary Jo Cook of University Park and Carol Schurman of Indiana County recently attended the NACAA Annual Meeting in Somerset, NJ.

Both agents received the Search for Professional Excellence Award. The Search for Professional Excellence program recognizes agents from across the United States who have conducted outstanding programs in the areas of farm income, administrative management, 4-H and youth, rural development, and urban programs.

Mary Jo received her award in the administrative management and public relations category on work she has done with professional staff in their development of program development committees to further enhance quality educational programs in cooperative extension. She presented her paper entitled "Strengthening Cooperative Extension Programs Through Program Development Committees."

Mary Jo Cook

Mary Jo has been with the Penn State Cooperative Extension for 14 years and began her career as the 4-H youth agent in Jefferson County in 1975. She is currently the assistant to the regional director, Central Region, located at University Park. She works with extension agents in agriculture, family living, 4-H and community development in the 17 counties in central Pennsylvania.

Carol Schurman

Carol Schurman was named the northeast winner in 4-H and youth with a program called "Careers: Choices and Challenges." This program involved 29 teens in a series of workshops to explore careers. Teens learned how to complete job applications, how to write a resume, interview techniques, and also were exposed to programs on jobs of the future, self-esteem, and life after high school. The county program also led to a series of state careers workshops that involved more than 300 youth.

An agent for 12 years, Schurman is responsible for coordination of overall county 4-H activities with responsibility in the areas of leadership, club development, communications, horticulture and horse.

ADA Wins Top Award At School Conference

ROSEMONT, Il. — American Dairy Association (ADA) received the award for the most outstanding single booth at the July 24-26 American School Food Service Association (ASFSA) conference in Orlando, Fla.

In its first appearance as an ASFSA convention, ADA introduced the 1989 school foodservice program, "Dairy is Delicious, Pass it on!" The ADA booth attracted attention through an interactive spin-the-wheel game and offered details about the new foodservice program which is designed to promote school lunches featuring dairy and other commodity foods while meeting the national guidelines for school lunch programs.

ASFSA conference attendees were invited to join the in-booth game and spin the "Win, Choose or Draw" wheel. If the wheel landed on "win," the player was automatically entered in a drawing for an ice cream machine and received a "Dairy is Delicious" button. If the wheel indicated "Choose," the player received a button and could either enter the drawing or spin again. If the spin landed on "Draw," the player had his/her caricature drawn and received a button.

ADA was one of five ASFSA award recipients recognized for an exhibit which encouraged interaction with conference attendees and appropriately promoted its theme. The ASFSA conference featured 1,600 booths and attendance topped 7,000.

American Dairy Association is the advertising and marketing services organization of United Dairy Industry Association. UDIA is a member-driven federation which coordinates a total promotion program for U.S.-produced milk and real dairy foods.

Plans Agronomy Field Day

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Corn, soybeans, forages, nitrogen and combines are part of Penn State's 1989 Agronomy Field Day. The activities will take place on Wednesday, September 20, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Agronomy Research Farm nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45.

"Tours include research on nitrogen management and leaching, nitrogen testing, soybean varieties, soybean management and weed control, and fall weed management in alfalfa-corn rotation," says Dr. Douglas Beegle, Penn State associate professor of agronomy and field day coordinator. "In addition we will be featuring a walking tour on management of grain storage, demonstrations of combine adjustment and manure spreader calibration and demonstrations of combines harvesting high moisture corn."

The field day will start off with a demonstration on simple methods for calibrating manure spreaders. With the current emphasis on managing manure as a valuable resource rather than as a waste disposal problem, many farmers are developing nutrient management plans for their farms.

Putting together a plan designed to maximize the economic benefits of manure while minimizing the potential environmental consequences is only the first step. The plan must be properly implemented to be effective.

"The economics of nutrient management are clear," Beegle says. "Managing plant nutrients for maximum economic benefit is the bottom line; however, the environmental effects of nutrient management are just as important."

Farmers need to understand what nutrients in the manure can be utilized to grow a crop. Beegle says that a successful soil fertility program requires knowing the rate manure is being spread. At the field day simple techniques will be demonstrated for determining manure spreading rate and making adjustments in the rate to conform to a nutrient management plan.

"The tour topics represent a sampling of the research being conducted by Penn State," says Dr. Al Turgeon, professor of agronomy and head of the Department of Agronomy. "Topics that have been generating many questions from farmers have been specifically selected from different research activities currently underway at Rock Springs." Turgeon will supplement the tours with a lunchtime overview of the broad range of research and extension activities in crop and soil science that are being conducted at the experiment stations and on farms across the state.

During the field day many of the researchers and extension specialists from the College of Agriculture working in crops and soils will be available to answer questions and discuss problems and opportunities with you.

The 1989 Agronomy Field Day at Rock Springs will conclude with demonstrations of combines harvesting high moisture corn. The demonstration will emphasize combine adjustment to minimize grain loss and alterations and settings needed to use the combine for high moisture corn and cob. There will be plenty of opportunity for farmers to question the experts on combine adjustment.

The Agronomy Research Farm is part of the Rock Springs Agricultural Research Center, nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45. No preregistration is required and parking and admission are free. A field day and book of handouts is free and lunch will be available. For more information contact your local county extension office.

Dekalb Holds Open House At Palmyra Station

PALMYRA (Lebanon Co.)—The Dekalb research station north of here became an information center for 250 farmers with questions about alfalfa and corn diseases and interest in the genetics of Dekalb varieties.

Tom Hall, northeast regional agronomist, said that alfalfa is different than corn when judging disease resistant qualities. "Corn has the same genetics in every stalk," Hall said. "So each plant has the same disease resistance built into it. But in a field of alfalfa you have many different plants, many with different disease resistance strengths. So you are going to loose some plants when you have disease in the field.

In addition, Hall said that even with the varieties that have the most disease resistance, alfalfa is susceptible to disease during the first two weeks of regrowth after cutting. He listed Spring Black Stem and Sclerotinia as alfalfa diseases not controlled by genetics because they are not usually a problem, or the plant breeders have not concentrated on these diseases. But with the humid weather this year, the diseases are evident. Hall said he believes no-till planting has a place in agriculture but Sclerotinia is showing up this year.

The good news Hall said is that alfalfa varieties are available that are resistant to Phytophthora, Anthracnose, Fusafuim and Verticillium. "You can buy cheaper seed from earlier varieties," Hall said, "but you wouln't help yourself in the end."

"With bio-technology we will be able to identify the genes and move them around better," Veitenheimer said.

In corn diseases Hall listed Southern, Northern, Grayleaf Spot and Carbonun. "If you think you have a problem, get positive identification from your county agent or your Dekalb representative," Hall said.

Dr. Erich Veitenheimer, research station manager, said that Dekalb has 34 stations and 240 additional testing sites. They have tested 82,000 varieties this year for standability and disease. Plant breeders need to grow generation after generation of plants to get the genetics they need to produce a hybrid. But Veitenheimer said biotechnology will help to reduce the time needed to produce the new varieties because when a nearly perfect variety is found, biotechnology will allow the resistant gene to be inserted without going through additional years of trial and error.

In addition to the lectures, farmers were able to see the varieties under field conditions, see the harvesting equipment, including a computerized combine and enjoy a roast pig dinner.

Tom Hall, agronomist,(left) lectures on plant diseases and Erich Veitenheimer, corn breeder, checks the corn in a test plot.

Rural Environmental Field Days Planned

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — The second annual Rural Environmental field days and exhibits will be held September 13 through 16. All are welcome, and admission and parking are free. The event will be located at Martin's Sales Barn, two miles east of Intercourse on Route 340. Look for a big tent near the Sales Barn.

Speakers will appear inside the Sales Pavillion, which is separate from the exhibit tent, and will begin at 6:30 p.m. On the slate for Wednesday evening is Jim Helfter, a specialist on hogs, dairy cows, and poultry, who will speak on nutrition without drugs. After him, at 7:45 p.m., will be Dr. Phillip Calahan, an Acres U.S.A. favorite, who will be speaking on why insects attack plants as well as other agriculture-related subjects.

Don Robinson will begin the education session on Thursday. The Adult Farm Education Instructor for Eastern Lancaster Schools, Robinson will talk about reducting chemicals and environmental clean up and management. Dan Skow, a soil consultant and well-known low-input advocate, will discuss fertilizer recommendations and livestock feed analysis.

Friday's evening program begins with Dr. Kurt Donsbach, who is in charge of the largest Wholistic Hospital in the world. Following him at 7:45 p.m. will be Walter Grotz, who will examine all the uses for hydrogen peroxide.

Saturday's speakers will be Donsbach and Grotz, in that order.

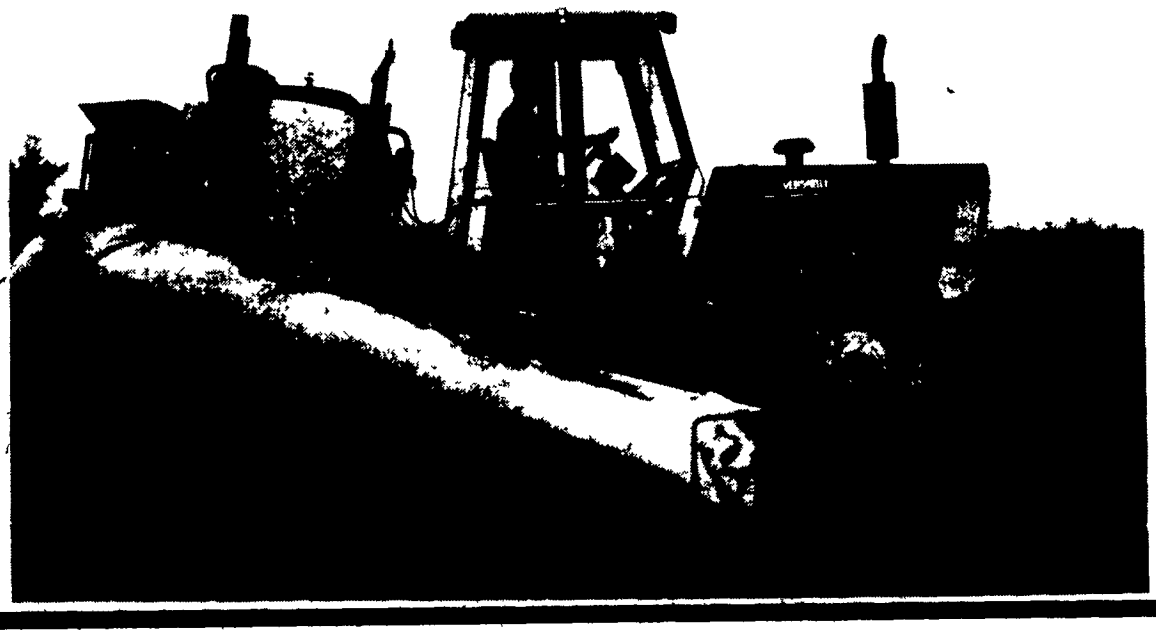
Hardi Demonstrates New Sprayer



This new "twin system" sprayer developed in Denmark by HARDI was demonstrated on the Kreider Farms at Manheim Tuesday morning. The name "twin" indicates that the machine has the capability of spraying in either of two ways--traditionally, or with air assistance. Ed Starzec, territory manager, Hardi Northeast, based in New Holland (Lancaster Co.) said there are environmental as well as application advantages to the new sprayer.

In the demonstration, the spray drift was visably less when the blower was running. In the photo, the long air tube facilitates the forced air concept to spray down onto the plants and counteract any wind factor that may be present at the time of application.

Dairy Herd Buyout Gets Good Marks, But Repeat Is Unlikely

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, DC — A new government report has documented the effectiveness of the whole-herd-buyout program in reducing surplus milk production and government costs, but it has not stirred much interest in implementing another buyout in 1990.

In a 40-page report, the U.S. General Accounting Office estimates the buyout, known officially as the Dairy Termination Program, will wind up reducing milk production by 39.4 billion pounds between 1986 and 1990. As a result, during the same period the federal government will buy 38.1 billion pounds (on a milk equivalent basis) less surplus dairy products than it would have without the program, a budget savings of $2.4 billion when other costs and benefits are included.

"The program did temporarily reduce surplus purchases in a cost effective manner," wrote the authors of the 40-page document, entitled, "Dairy Termination Program, An Estimate of Its Impact and Cost-Effectiveness."

However, they emphasized the temporary nature of these impacts in a special section of their summary. The authors also downplayed the wisdom of implementing another buyout in the future, writing, "We think it is important to point out that the program should not be considered a permanent solution to the dairy surplus problem."

The report was hailed by the National Milk Producers Federation, a lobbying organization that represents dairy cooperatives, as a vindication of the much maligned buyout program, under which participating dairymen were paid to dispose of their herds and agree to stay out of dairying for at least five years.

But the report appears to have had little impact on those outside the dairy industry who have criticized the program in the past. For instance, Rob Nooten, a Washington-based lobbyist for the American Farm Bureau Federation, said that group's evaluation of the buyout remains less than favorable.

"The benefits were somewhat short lived and temporary and probably not worth the direct government expense as well as the cost to livestock producers," he said.

Government observers in Washington say continued opposition to the buyout approach among other segments of agriculture and the free-market philosophy of Bush administration officials makes approval of another buyout program unlikely, even if the dairy industry united behind this strategy. Instead, they say, talk of dairy options for the new farm bill scheduled to be approved in 1990 focuses on a continuation of the current policy of keying support price adjustments to the extent of surplus purchases.

Authorized as part of the 1985 farm bill, the buyout was designed to remove about 12 million pounds from then current production levels. After soliciting bids, the government wound up paying an average of $15.80 a hundredweight for reduced marketings to about 14,000 dairymen. Between April 1986 and September 1987, these farmers disposed of 1.63 million head through slaughter or export. They also agreed to stay out of dairy farming for at least five years following their exit.

The government will spend $1.5 billion paying buyout participants. It also spent $390 million purchasing additional red meat to offset the program's impact on slaughter cattle prices and about $10 million on administration. Offsetting this was the $640 million collected from assessments on farmers' milk checks and what the GAO estimated will be a $3.67 billion reduction in the cost of the government's price support program.

These "savings" -- compared to what the government would have spent buying surplus butter, cheese and non-fat dry milk had no buyout existed but prices stayed the same -- were highest during the first two years of the program. Since then, total milk production even without the influence of the buyout has begun to decline because of lower prices and higher feed costs, according to the GAO report.

"Our projection suggests that sometime after 1990 the program will cease to have any influence," the authors wrote. These diminishing returns could be accelerated if -- as 26 percent said they would in a recent survey -- some of the buyout participants return to dairying, the authors noted.

The GAO analysis suggests that the same impact in lowering production and government costs would have been accomplished through a reduction in the government support price of $3.75 from 1986-88 in addition to the $1 it actually declined during this period.

The GAO forecasts were based on a sophisticated model developed by government economists. The model was designed to isolate the impact of the buyout from other factors that influence milk production.

Ciba Geigy Plant Breeders, Hoffman Seed Reps Meet

Hoffman seed dealers and Ciba Geigy plant breeders at the catered buffet at the Landisville warehouse.

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.)—District sales representatives for Hoffman Seeds held their sales semiars here this week and provided an occasion for 35 Ciba Geigy plant breeders from across the nation to meet with local representatives and inspect their varieties in field conditions.

At a catered buffet in Hoffman's warehouse Wednesday evening, the breeders and farmer dealers discussed the disease pressures that are present in crops this year because of the wet weather.

Bruce Hunter, Ciba Geigy senior pathologist, said that on the way up from North Carolina they had identified 14 different corn diseases. And while these diseases are serious this year, they will "not necessarily carry over to another year."

"The Northeast is a natural hot environment for disease because of the high humidity," Hunter said. "But the abundance of rain this year has made ideal conditions for many diseases to develop. From the farmer's viewpoint, that's not good. But from the plant breeder's perspective, he gets a chance to see his varieties under the worst conditions.

In the future, Hunter expects to see bio-technology used to develop plant resistance to herbicide, disease and insects. The Ciba Geigy team has been working on herbicide resistance for three years and a specific disease resistance gene in corn for two years. But Hunter said they are not ready for the market place yet.

Fred Lepley, Hoffman director of marketing, welcomed the 130 dealers to the buffet.

Maryland Grape Crop Running Late Due To Weather

ANNAPOLIS, MD — Maryland's 1989 grape crop is running up to several weeks behind normal because of this year's wet weather, but growers report an extremely heavy early demand for grapes.

Weather conditions have delayed ripening of the crop by about two weeks, according to Jim Russell of the Maryland Grape Growers Association.

"The delay gives customers more time to shop for grapes. Heavy demand indicates it would be wise to line up grapes early, before the crop is sold out," Russell said.

To help match buyers with grape supplies, the Maryland Grape Growers Association, the Maryland Wine and Grape Advisory Board and the Maryland Department of Agriculture have published a 1989 directory of grape growers who sell to home wine makers and fanciers of fresh table grapes.

The directory lists 30 Maryland vineyards in 13 counties and gives information as to the types of grapes each offers. Copies may be secured by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Grapes" Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Pennsylvania Plowing Contest

Southeastern Farmers Take Top Titles

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

MANCHESTER (York County) — Hauling along their favorite contest plows, plowmen from across the state converged August 24 to pit their skills against the flat ridges and rolling slopes of the Blaine Rentzel farm.

When the final furrow had been turned and the judges measures all taken, a trio of names familiar to plowing contest followers emerged at the top as winners of state titles in several competition categories.

Taking state plowing contest honors were Frank Burkhart, left, of Lancaster in the large-plow division, and Charles Noonan, right, of York in the contour and antique divisions.

Robert Miller of Millersburg, representing Dauphin County, added to a long list of state and national plow honors with a win in the small plow contest. Miller maneuvered his prized '53 Case and its two-bottom plow with veteran skill to garner a total of 543 points.

Claiming second in the small plow division, with 480 points, was another plowing veteran, Charles Hess of Dallastown, representing York County. Lancaster County's representative, Jay Wissler of Landisville, took the third place with 445 points.

Continuing his winning ways of some 20 years of plowing events was Lancaster's Frank Burkhart, taking the state's large-plow division championship with a 555 point score. Burkhart, using his favored crawler tractor and plow rig, continued his successes the following day by taking the national title.

James Mowry of Somerset, took second-place honors in the large-plow division, with a score of 506 points. In third place was Cumberland County's Jay Stoner of Mechanicsburg with a point total of 489.

Contour-plowing state title went to plowing buff Charles Noonan of York, with a 443 point lead. William Crain of Carlisle, representing Cumberland County, took the second-place contour spot with a 403 point score. Finishing third was Franklin County's Myron Young, Mt. McCord Road, Chambersburg, scoring 392 points.

Noonan also took top honors in the state's antique plowing match, earning the opportunity to represent Pennsylvania in the national finals, held Saturday.

Robert Miller of Millersburg won the state small-plow competition and was runner up in the national contest.

Fuchs, tallying 144.5 points.

Less than three points back of Werner Gruber's 153 point score in the smali plow runoffs was another veteran Pennsylvania plowman, Robert Miller of Millersburg.

The Dauphin County dairyman, who returned home to milk the herd between moldboard competitions, took his first state honors in 1967. Miller has competed previously in two world events representing the U.S., last year's world contest in Amana, Ohio, and the 1984 championship, held in England.

Miller's 150.67 point score bested the third-place winner in the small plow contest, Tim Rhoades of Versailles, Ohio, who finished with 146.66 points.

In the national antique-plow division, Jack Law of Pierson, Iowa took the champion title. Second was Bruce Davis of Sidney, Ohio, and third was Frank Snyder of Banwert, Ohio. York Countian Charles Noonan, representing Pennsylvania, finished sixth in the national antique-plow division.

Plowing performance is scored on detailed scoresheets, evaluating categories such as straightness and smoothness, opening and closing furrows, trash coverage, seedbed quality, and general appearance.

The National Plowing Contest, held August 25, followed the state competition the previous day. Both were held in conjunction with Old Tyme Days, sponsored by the South Central Penn Historic Lifestyle and Power Society, at the Blaine Rentzel farm.

Intent on keeping his furrow straight and even was national plowing contestant Gene Gruber. The 20-year-old Minnesotan finnished second in the national large-plow division.

Small Grains Crop Insurance Deadline Is September 30

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Fewer than 2 percent of Pennsylvania's small grains producers are covered by crop insurance and most are unaware that crop insurance can protect them from financial loss when the quality of their crop is below par.

"Our producers have just started using crop insurance on major crops such as corn and soybeans, so they are not familiar with crop insurance policies," says Dr. George Greaser, research associate for Penn State's extension farm management program.

"Crop insurance includes both quality and yield guarantees, important factors this year since many crops have been damaged by too much rain."

The last date to sign up for crop insurance to cover next year's crop is September 30. "Producers whose crops are not top quality this year could have realized a significant benefit if they had been insured," says Greaser.

According to the USDA Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, if insurable causes, such as too much rain, have damaged mature production, the crop may be adjusted for quality. For example, if test bushels of wheat grade at less than 54 pounds per bushel and barley at less than 40 pounds per bushel, those producer may be eligible for payments.

Dr. Elwood Hatley, Penn State professor of agronomy, says that as much as 85 percent of the wheat harvested to date weighs less than 54 pounds per bushel and about 50 percent of the barley is below the 40 pound benchmark.

The USDA's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation administers the program, reinsures the policies and closely monitors agencies that offer crop insurance. Crop insurance premiums are based on 50, 65 or 75 percent of a grower's yield history — the higher the yield, the lower the premium.

At a 50 percent level of insurance coverage, crop insurance for wheat costs $1.04 per acre. The premium is $1.90 per acre at the 65 percent coverage level and $3.90 per acre at the 75 percent option. The guaranteed price for wheat is $3.45, based on a yield of 60 bushels per acre. "The current market price of high quality wheat is about $3.85, but the price drops dramatically as the quality goes down," says Greaser.

For barley, crop insurance premiums are $1.09 per acre at the 50 percent coverage level, $1.97 at 65 percent and $4.00 an acre at 75 percent coverage. The guaranteed price is $2.10 per bushel, based on a yield of 80 bushels per acre.

"I don't think I can emphasize too strongly how great a loss we've had this year. Pennsylvania farmers planted 225,000 acres of wheat and 85 percent of that is below top quality. Prices on that wheat have dropped to $2 a bushel and yields are down as well. On top of last year's drought, these uninsured losses are very hard for most to handle," says Greaser.

Crop insurance protection is earmarked for unavoidable causes of production or quality losses, including too much moisture, drought and heat as well as uncontrollable insect damage and plant disease. Crops eligible for coverage include most field crops, small grains and forages, apples, peaches, grapes, potatoes and tomatoes, although eligible crops may vary by county.

"Crop insurance protects families against financial losses they can't afford," says Greaser. "I strongly recommend that small grains producers who are not now covered consider doing so before the September 30 deadline," he says.

Producers can purchase crop insurance from agricultural associations, cooperatives, general insurance agents and banks. Farmers also can contact their county Penn State Cooperative Extension office for information on licensed insurers in their region.

PFU Youth Group Meets With Lieutenant Governor

HARRISBURG — Wrapping up a three day trip to Harrisburg, 25 Pennsylvania Farmers Union youth from around the state met with Lieutenant Governor Mark Singel.

The Lieutenant Governor, who addressed the group in the state capitol reminded the children, ages 6-17, that they are the future farmers, the future decision makers, the future leaders of our state. Singel also stated to the group that they should be especially proud that they and their families are involved in the state's number one industry - agriculture, and reiterated the current leadership's support for the family farm.

William Sturges, executive director for the organization stated, "It is a good opportunity for our youth to learn the mechanics of the political system. They need to know that they can make the difference."

PFU strives toward legislation, cooperation and education. This is the main purpose for the youth to visit the state capitol once a year. "With these aims in mind, our youth will be better prepared to secure their future in the agricultural community," said Sturges.

FARM MANAGEMENT

accomplishment, and contribution

Two ways of motivating employees to excel are to involve them in the decision making and goal setting process, and to provide financial incentives through bonuses.

Steps in the Goal-Setting Process

A plan or set of goals for the business and individual employees can be a valuable tool for motivating workers. There are a few basic points to remember when developing your plan that are worth keeping in mind.

•Do your homework. Individual goals are important in addition to the goals of the business. Discuss the plan with your employees and get to know them and what they like to do in their personal lives. Tailoring an employee's work-related responsibilities with their private interests (when possible) may lead to that employee working harder because of the personal satisfaction in reaching the set goals.

•Talk to your employees. Explain the benefits of a goal-setting program and ask for the support and help of your workers. The more that they participate, the more that they will feel "ownership" in the plan and personal pride in a job well done. Make sure that the discussion is a give-and-take situation and listen carefully to their ideas and suggestions rather that just telling them what to do. You might be surprised at how practical and innovative their ideas are.

•Write down all of the goals. No matter whether the goals are simple or difficult to achieve, both individual and group goals will be remembered better and taken more seriously if they are in writing. Ask someone to take notes during the group meeting and include statements of how the goals are to be achieved and specific dates for steps necessary to reach the goals.

•Set check points. You and your workers should set a time to review the plan and assess your progress toward the set goals. Review the final written plan with all employees and follow it through to completion. Be sure to include feedback, recognition of achievements, and rewards along the way.

Financial Incentives

In the definition of motivation, we stated that money is an incentive, and not a type of motivation. That does not mean, however, that it should not play a role in your plan to motivate employees and increase productivity. Raises and bonuses may be a vital part of your motivation program.

Raises

Not only is a raise a permanent expression of confidence, it is also a kind of insurance policy against losing that person to another slightly higher paying job. The cost of a raise may be offset by an increase in productivity. However, that increase in productivity may be temporary, while the raise is permanent. That is why you need to know how to use bonuses effectively.

Bonuses

Bonuses are one-time cash awards given in recognition of reaching a goal or outstanding performance. Unlike raises, they do not permanently increase the employee's base pay. This enables you to hold down fixed costs and avoid overpaying employees whose performance later declines.

Here are some tips to improve the effectiveness of bonuses:

•Use bonuses as a reward and not a bribe. A reward comes at the end of job, while a bribe is given before the job. Bribes are expensive and rarely work.

•Don't dangle money in front of an employee like a carrot. You obviously need to tell employees the relationship between a job well done and bonuses. But overdoing it may backfire because the employee feels manipulated.

•Give the reward as soon as possible. A $100 bonus two months after the fact may not be as effective as a $25 bonus coupled with praise and recognition the next day.

•Be fair and consistent. Nothing sabotages a bonus program faster than favoritism or the appearance of favoritism, and may actually de-motivate employees.

A well designed work climate has well defined guidelines; allows the employee to make as many decisions as possible; and provides the employee with constant feedback about performance with rewards when appropriate.

A good manager recognizes the relationship between personal goals of employees and the goals of the business and utilizes that relationship for the good of both to provide a working environment that promotes good morale, accomplishment, and appropriate recognition and rewards for outstanding performance.

Use the following checklist to judge your success in developing a motivational climate on the farm.

Motivational Climate Evaluation

Rank yourself (frankly and honestly) on each item. Test your evaluation by asking your employees to do the same (without fear of repercussions) and compare your evaluation to theirs. This will allow you to evaluate your management style and may suggest areas in which you need to improve.

Dauphin County Agriculture Produces More From Less

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Only a few miles from the ascending steps of the Commonwealth's Capitol you will find the backbone of the state's wealth and prosperity, the farms of Pennsylvania. Historically agriculture has and continues to be the second largest industry in Pennsylvania.

In Dauphin County, 46.9 million dollars worth of agricultural products were generated in 1987. This sets agriculture as a major financial resource of Dauphin County. However, year after year, farm after farm is converted into urban uses. Dauphin County is a growing link in the transportation and communication network of the nation's northeast corridor. As current and future needs for urban growth alter the land's productivity from food and fiber to commercial commodities and housing units, the adage, "the times they are a changing" rings true.

Utilizing statistics from the Census of Agriculture, just over 13,000 acres of Dauphin County farmland has been converted to other land uses since 1978. The largest loss of farmland occurred between 1982 and 1987 with an effected acreage of 11,129. If a source of readily obtainable data were available, it most likely would show a comparable loss of farmlands from 1987 to date. Since 1987 a substantial building boom has occurred in southern Dauphin County changing the appearance of this area's landscape.

Conducting every five years, the Census of Agriculture is compiled by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census using reports provided by the individual farmers of Dauphin County. The results of the 1987 census shows both a loss in the number of farms and acreage of agricultural lands since the 1982 census. In 1982, there were 776 farms comprising of 112,821 acres dropping down to 675 farms with 101,692 acres. The Bureau of Census defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were produced and sold during the census year. The average size farm in Dauphin County was 151 acres during the 1987 census year, with the average age of the farmer being just shy of 51.

Despite a loss of 101 farms, the value of agricultural goods produced and sold from these farms increased by 5.6 million dollars from 1982 to 1987. As traditional methods of farming are modernized via research and new technologies, today's farmer is able to produce more from less.

To illustrate the agricultural community's fiscal contributions to Dauphin County a random selection of the 1987 census findings are accented here. The average sales of agricultural products sold was $69,500 per farm. On the other side of the ledger, the average production costs of those products was $56,218 per farm, generating an average profit of $13,555 per farm.

Hitching Success With Percheron Champions

BY HELEN KELCHNER
Columbia Co. Correspondent

TURBOTVILLE (Columbia Co.) — Jingling harnesses and pounding hooves punctuated by a cracking whip greet weekend shoppers in the town of Turbotville. A pair of Percherons pulling a wagon has become a familar sight to residents as Donna and Alfred Rovenholt and their family train the horses.

The Percerons are in training for show competition, the season for which begins in October and usually ends in January with Farm Show. The Rovenholts have a herd of 12 horses, which range in age from five months to 10 years.

The 2,200-pound, 10-year-old Prince is a seasoned veteran and Alfred's favorite. His show-off personality makes him a favorite with show audiences and judges, too. During competition, Prince spends several rounds scanning the crowd with his head held high, posing for the cameras. Then he settles down and begins making points for his driver.

The Ravenholts take their team in training for long stints over the 18-acre farm and adjoining country road.

The horses are trained every other day for almost an hour on the Rovenholt's 18-acre farm and the country road adjoining the property. All the mature horses in the Rovenholt herd are broken for the hitch.

The team is driven into Turbotville on weekends where noise, traffic, and people give the horses every opportunity to become distracted. Their performance in the show ring depends on their taking all surprises in stride, and that is what these trips into congested areas provides.

The family's two five-month-old foals enjoy an outside exercise area.

Currently the Rovenholts are training four-year-old Dick, a former logging horse purchased in Canada. "I was fortunate to find him before his legs were scarred from heavy work," commented Alfred. Heavy scarring would mar the horse and detract in the show ring. The horse has the movements characteristic to work horses: a steady gait and head held down.

In order to train Dick for the show ring, Alfred hitches him up with a seasoned horse, usually Prince. Having the veteran hitched with the green horse makes training go three times as fast as training the new horse by itself. The seasoned horse shows the younger one the ropes, so to speak.

Alfred taps Dick's heels to encourage him to keep his pace even with Prince's. Prince and Dick are well matched and often are synchronized in step, an accomplishment judges prize in the show ring.

Alfred likesto use a box sled in winter to break young horses. If the horses bolt, they won't go far dragging the heavy sled. There are no lines to guide the lead horse, which usually is Prince.

The Rovenholts recently have been competing in unicorn hitch classes. This hitch features one horse leading two others. "The success of this hitch depends on the lead horse's ability to take verbal commands," Alfred explained.

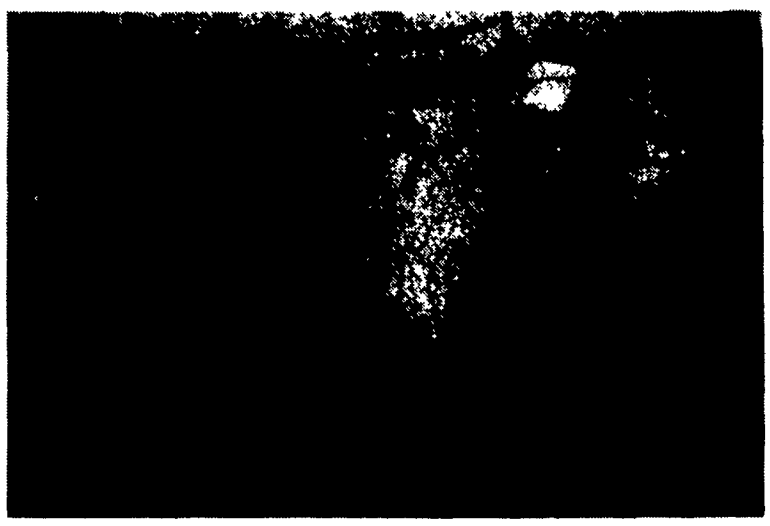
The Rovenholts and their horses have competed in Penn Nationals, Keystone International Livestock Exposition, the National Percheron Show, Sterling Show, New York State Show, and the Pennsylvania Farm Show. They have many first-place wins to their name including a first in the team hitch at Farm Show.

The highlight of their show experience, according to Donna, was the 1987 Farm Show when their mares captured the grand and the reserve grand champion titles.

This year the family has added several new competitions to their roster including the Royals in Toronto and shows in Washington, D.C., and New Jersey.

The Rovenholt children, 13-year-old Stacey and 19-year-old Michael, share their parents' enthusiasm. Michael, presently in training as an Army helicopter pilot, has taken a furlough and leave to help the family compete.

The family's love for the black draft horses began on the Turbotville farm where Alfred was born. His father, Alfred Sr., farmed 110 acres with Percherons until 1960 when tractor power finally won over. Alfred Sr. had 35 ponies at one time.



Alfred Rovenholt shows off Sir William, the 13-month-old stallion purchased from an Alberta, Canada, breeder. Sir William soon will reign over the Rovenholt's five mares.

The elder Rovenholt's interest in draft horses diminshed little over the years, and he even judged draft horse contests at the Bloomsburg Fair for 25 years.

About six years ago, Donna's love affair with the horses began. After viewing a show at KILE, she was so overwhelmed that she announced upon arriving home that they had to get a couple of horses to show.

John Cole of Centre Hall, a Percheron breeder, supplied the family with its first horses, including Prince. He has become a friend and teacher for the family and introduced them to the show ring.

Other stock has been purchased in Canada, including their latest acquisition, Sir William. The 13-month-old stallion was weaned the day they picked him up. "He had a really rough 3,000-mile trip to his Turbotville home," remembered Alfred. However, under the tender care at the Rovenholt farm, he is flourishing and soon will reign over the five Percheron mares.

The horses are fed hay and oats with a vitamin and mineral supplement. The are shod every six weeks with a special show that is flat in front. Each hose is shod differently according to its hoof configuration. "It's like corrective shoeing," Alfred quipped.

After the Farm Show in January, the shoes are pulled off until April when training begins again.

For Donna, the horse business is getting to be a full-time activity. Alfred, a superintendent for Yoder Builders, spends off hours working with the horses, and vacation time is scheduled for out-of-state shows.

Even though the work is endless, the rewards, according to the Rovenholts, come from doing something enjoyable, meeting great people at shows, and the opportunity of exposing well-bred stock to potential buyers.

It takes two people to harness these big Perceron. The horses often grow to be as tall as 18 hands.

Local Quilters To Meet

LANCASTER — The Red Rose Quilters Guild of Lancaster County, will meet on Tuesday, September 12, at an earlier time, 6:45 p.m. This meeting will be held at the Holy Spirit Lutheran Church, 3131 Columbia Avenue, Lancaster.

Jane Blair will be speaking on "From Crayon to Quilt" Are you still using only plain or calico fabric? Do you see quilts that make you say "I never would have used that fabric there?" Here is some help to change your design drawing to an exciting fabric creation by making prints work for you. Any questions please call Phyllis Thompson 656-7011.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Microwave the baked beans and potato salad for your end-of-summer picnics.

Combining canned baked beans with other ingredients and baking them at 350 degrees for about an hour is one way to make baked beans. But, the way to make quick baked beans is to combine all the ingredients and microwave them for about 10 minutes.

Since microwave heating is so much faster and retains more moisture than conventional baking, you'll need to make some minor changes when adapting your favorite baked bean recipe to the microwave. Less liquid evaporates during cooking so you may need to reduce the amount of liquid ingredients or drain some liquid from the beans before microwaving. In conventional baking, uncooked bacon is added at the beginning. It cooks and crisps during baking time. In the microwave, bacon should be cooked ahead and added to the beans before cooking or sprinkled on top right before serving.

Microwaving potatoes for potato salad is much quicker and more nutritious than boiling them in a big pot of water on the range. For potato salad, choose red or all-purpose potatoes, rather than the mealier, white baking kind. Do not overcook — or potatoes don't hold their shape in the salad. Cook them until barely done and let them stand about 15 minutes to finish cooking. You'll find a red round potato takes less microwaving time than the perfect oval baking potato.

Micro-cook potatoes for your own favorite potato salad or make Green and White Potato Salad (below). It's a super-nutritious potato salad that includes lots of green vegetables and a low-fat, home-cooked salad dressing.

Cooking the dressing is quick and easy. It microwaves in about 3 minutes. Stir it after each minute of cooking. When it's thick, add the still-warm potatoes right to the cooking dish. Chill and serve from the same dish too.

Quick Picnic Baked Beans

4 slices bacon
½ cup chopped onion
2 cans (16 ounces each) pork and beans
¼ cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice or cinnamon

Separate bacon slices and place on several paper towels; top with another paper towel. Microwave (High) 3 to 4 minutes or until bacon is almost crisp. Remove bacon from paper towles; cool, crumble and set aside.

Place onion in microwave-safe 2-quart casserole. Cover with waxed paper or lid. Microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until tender. Stir in remaining ingredients. Re-cover with waxed paper and microwave (High) 8 to 10 minutes, stirring once, or until hot. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Hint: Add cooked bacon to beans and cook as above. Or sprinkle with cooked bacon right before serving.

Each serving — ⅛ th of recipe: 198 calories, 9g protein, 5g fat, 30g carbohydrate, 608mg sodium, 3mg cholesterol.

Green & White Potato Salad With Low-Cal Salad Dressing

3-4 red or "boiling" potatoes (about 1 pound)
¼ -⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup water
¼ cup cider or herb-flavored vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt (optional)
2-3 finely chopped green onions (include tops)
¾ to 1 cup finely chopped celery or unpeeled cucumber or zucchini
½ cup chopped fresh parsley
1 or 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
Salt and pepper

Pierce each potato in two spots. Arrange in microwave in a circle with the center open. Microwave (High) 10 to 14 minutes, turning potatoes over halfway through cooking, or until almost done. Let stand until easy to handle; then peel (if desired) and cut in cubes. There should be 3 to 4 cups. Set aside.

In a microwave-safe 2-quart casserole or serving bowl, stir together sugar and cornstarch until lump-free. Gradually stir in water until smooth. Stir in water until smooth. Stir in vinegar, mustard and salt. Microwave (High) 2½ to 3½ minutes, stirring after each minute, or until thick and bubbly. Stir in potatoes. Chill; then gently stir in remaining ingredients and season to taste. Chill until serving time. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Each serving — 1/6th of recipe: 110 calories, 3g protein, 1g fat, 23g carbohydrate, 64mg sodium, 42mg cholesterol.

Try Microwaved Catfish For National Catfish Month

I just learned that August is National Catfish Month. National Catfish Month was first declared last year by Ray Mabus, governor of Mississippi, the nation's largest producer of farm-raised catfish.

August is about over, but catfish is a year-round nutritious and delicious food, according to Governor Mabus and the Loyal Order of Catfish Lovers.

The following recipe is from a catfish lover in New York and appeared in the first issue of the Loyal Order of Catfish Lover's newsletter. I wanted to share this recipe with you yet in August, so time didn't permit me to buy catfish to try this recipe. (I did try it with another kind of fish, and as soon as I can find some farm-raised catfish, I'll make it again the proper way.)

Catfish Oriental-Style

4 catfish fillets (about 3.5 ounces each)
About 1 tablespoon reduced-salt teriyaki or soy sauce
About 4 tablespoons grated fresh ginger
Lemon wedges

Marinate catfish in teriyaki sauce for 15 minutes. Make 4 little "nests" of grated ginger in a microwave-safe 9-inch dish. Remove catfish from teriyaki marinade and place one fillet on each "nest," arranging catfish with thickest parts to outside edges of dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 3 to 5 minutes or until catfish flakes when tested with fork. Serve with lemon wedges. Makes 4 servings.

Each serving: 128 calories, 15g protein, 7g fat, 0 carbohydrate, 193mg sodium, 33mg cholesterol.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

This was the stuff of one's worst nightmares.

And, like all nightmares, the horrors of this dream teased the mind in vivid life-likeness and living, gory color.

Legs felt hopelessly entangled, wrapped in clingy masses of scratchy vines, pulling ever tighter, ever tighter. Hundreds of round, reddish gobs appeared floating aimlessly, endlessly. Collisions of the floating orbs filled the misty, hazy dream backdrop with sprays of squishy, seedy residue.

Heavy basket-shaped weights burdened my arms, as if to wrench them loose at the sockets. Clusters of string-bean-shaped fingers, minus an attachment to hands, waved urgent summons for attention. And beneath my feet, the bottomless mass of green grew thicker, taller, threatening to swallow all that was happening — and me — with it.

Good thing I woke up.

Next morning, I tiptoed out the front door, held my breath as I furtively glanced around, and then smiled with a sigh of relief.

The two giant buckets of tomatoes were gone. Friends had hauled them away the night before. But a few eyed me from a small basket at my feet. Vague recollections of a basketful of string beans lurking yet in the refrigerator slowly prodded my memory. And, when I stumbled over a half-dozen overripe cantaloupes, now guarded by a flying force of sturdy-looking fruit flies, realization hit.

It was the nightmare all over again. And, I was wide awake.

Day before, I'd considered sneaking a shipment of tomatoes, zucchini and couple of dozen football-sized cucumbers over the hill to neighbor Ann. But she stood poised to retaliate with an armload of string beans and excess cantaloupes.

Having both tried to unload our excesses that morning at church on neighbor John, who watches over our neighboring-valley farms from high on the hill directly between us, we'd come to a singular conclusion.

Maybe we should jointly open a produce stand. Second thoughts of cows, kids and part-time careers wrote that idea off as an excessively laughable joke. Besides, with every second person in the community drowning in garden produce, who'd want the stuff anyway? We couldn't even give it away now.

It's that season when an aura of giant, overgrown squash sort of clings to your person. Friends flee from the smiling, eager twinkle in your generous eye even before spotting the chunky green, white or yellow objects tucked under your arm.

Even an exchange with your own beloved mother still leaves you holding the bag - literally - containing excess garden produce:

"Mom, do you need any tomatoes?"

"Heavens no, I have plenty. But could you use a couple heads of cabbage?"

So, tough as it's been (we gardeners absolutely hate to throw away our precious production we've coddled from seed and seedling-hood), by sheer determination (and lack of takers and time), I have steeled myself to do the unthinkable.

On days when I feel the strongest and most determined, I can now stand in the middle of the pickle patch - and pitch.

My garden guilt has been overcome!

No more worrying over wasting those with Trident-submarine-sized cucumbers. No more debate over whether a tomato with a tiny bad spot should be utilized. No more feeling bound to carve out salvagable kernels from a wiggly-worm-infested ear of sweet corn. And no resolute determination to eat every single bit of every cantaloupe, especially since this season's most prolific variety has all the quality and flavor of tasteless mush.

C'mon. Go the garden. You can do it.

Pick up that handful of elderly string beans, the tomatoes with black blight spots, the cardboard-like beets.

Wing'em toward the compost pile, do slow-pitch practice with the kids, take aim at the groundhog that's been snitching the good stuff. Do it.

Now didn't that feel good?

Your neighbors will secretly thank you, no doubt.

For a dipped cone akin to the specialty of your local ice cream stand, scoop some ice cream into a flat-bottomed cone. Dip the ice cream into your favorite sauce; roll in chopped nuts, crushed hard candy, chopped chocolate-covered toffee bars, coconut or sprinkles. Set cones in a muffin pan and freeze.

As the story goes, it was a professor dining around the turn of the century at a hotel in Cambridge, New York, who first got the idea to have ice cream with his apple pie. Another diner, observed the professor's concoction and pronounced it "pie a la mode" or "pie in the fashion of the day."

Poultry: Tasty Meat That's Good And Good For You

Poultry has to be one of the all-time versatile meats. Both chicken and turkey can be enhanced by a multitude of flavors so that they almost can be served every night of the week with no worry about boredom.

The ways to fix chicken and turkey have changed greatly during the past decade. The old favorite, fried chicken, is making way for newer dishes that use different cooking techniques such as stir-frying to produce healthy meals for cholesterol-conscious consumers.

Pull out your scissors and clip out a few of the delicious recipes listed below.

THAI CHICKEN SALAD

1 chicken, cooked, skinned, cut into thin shreds
1 cucumber, peeled, seeded, shredded
2 cups fresh bean sprouts
2 fresh green chilies, seeded, shredded
½ small red onion, sliced thin and broken into rings
1 tablespoon shredded fresh ginger
Lime-Mint Dressing*
½ cup chopped fresh cilantro roots, stems, leaves
¼ cup chopped peanuts

Make lime-mint dressing first and set aside. In large bowl, mix together chicken and cucumber. In another bowl, mix together bean sprouts, chilies, onion and ginger. (If not serving immediately, cover and refrigerate ingredients). At serving time, stir together Lime-Mint Dressing, chicken-cucumber mixture, bean sprout mixture and cilantro. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts and serve. Serves 4 to 6.

*Lime-Mint Dressing:

Mix together ¼ cup fresh lime juice, 3 tablespoons fish sauce, 2 tablespoons vegetable oil, 5 teaspoons sugar, 1 tablespoon chopped mint leaves, 2 cloves garlic, minced and ½ teaspoon salt. Stir until sugar dissolves.

TURKEY CUTLETS

Turkey cutlets, ¼-inch thick
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup Parmesan cheese, grated
1 can diced mushrooms
¼ teaspoon onion salt

Mix all ingredients together. Saute turkey cutlets, 3 minutes on each side. Mix remaining ingredients and spread mixture on cutlets and broil until brown.

Bernice Sheaffer

CHICKEN WITH BLUE CHEESE PECAN SAUCE

4 skinned, boned chicken breasts
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup olive oil
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsely
¼ teaspoon freshly ground white pepper
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
1 teaspoon dry sherry
¼ teaspoon minced garlic
½ cup chopped pecans
4 ounces blue cheese

In small shallow bowl, mix ½ cup flour and salt. On hard surface, pound chicken to ¼-inch thickness. Dredge chicken, one piece at a time, in flour mixture, coating evenly. In large fry pan, heat oil. Add chicken and saute about 6 minutes or until light brown on each side and fork can be inserted with ease. Remove chicken to platter and keep warm.

Make sauce by melting butter and adding flour, stirring until smooth. Stirring constantly, add milk, sherry, garlic, and pecans. Cook until sauce thickens. Add all but 2 teaspoons cheese.

Spoon 2 tablespoons sauce over each chicken breast and top with ¼ teaspoon cheese. Top with chopped parsely and white pepper.

TANGY LEMON-LIME CHICKEN

8 chicken thighs, boned and skinned
2 lemons, juiced
2 limes, juiced
1 garlic clove, crushed
¼ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon oregano
⅓ cup sweet white wine or apple juice
1 tablespoon butter
Lemon twists

Mix lemon and lime juices, garlic, thyme, pepper, oregano, and wine in large bowl. Add chicken, turning to coat, and refrigerate for 30 minutes. Remove chicken from marinade. In large baking pan, arrange chicken in single layer and pour marinade over chicken. Dot with butter. Bake in 425-degree oven for about 40 minutes, basting every 10 minutes with pan juices. To serve, arrange chicken on platter, spoon pan juices over chicken and garnish with lemon twists. Serves 4.

THAI CHICKEN SALAD is an interesting way to serve an old favorite - chicken.

WINE BARBECUED STUFFED TURKEY

4- to 5-pound turkey
4/5 quart red wine
½ pound chestnuts, canned or fresh
1 medium potato
1 pound ground pork
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound sliced salt pork

Put turkey in large bowl. Pour over the wine and marinate for 24 hours in refrigerator. Turn bird occasionally.

Make stuffing by cooking fresh chestnuts in boiling water for about 20 minutes or until tender, then remove shells and inner brown coating. Just drain liquid from canned chestnuts. Cook potato until tender. Fry ground pork until lightly browned. Chop chestnuts and potato very fine; mix with ground pork, salt, and pepper.

Lift turkey from marinade and fill cavity with stuffing. Sew or skewer opening in turkey and truss tightly. Arrange strips of salt pork over breast and back of bird and fasten the ends with wooden picks. Insert spit in center of turkey; fasten holding forks securely. Roast over hot coals or in rotisserie 2 to 2½ hours or until tender. During the last 15 minutes of roasting, baste with the wine marinade. Remove salt pork, picks and string before serving. Serves 8.

SPAGHETTI AND TURKEY CASSEROLE

½ pound spaghetti noodles, broken into 2-inch pieces
2 cups coarsely diced, cooked turkey
4 tablespoons butter
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups chicken bouillon or stock
1 cup evaporated milk
½ cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and combine with diced turkey. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in sauce pan and fry mushrooms 5 minutes. Push to one side and blend flour and seasonings in drippings. Add bouillon slowly and cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in evaporated milk.

In greased baking dish, arrange alternate layers of turkey mixture and sauce. Combine fine bread crumbs with melted butter and sprinkle over spaghetti and turkey. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) until brown and bubbling, 20 to 25 minutes. Serves 6.

Featured Recipe

As the inevitable end of summer approaches, many of our thoughts turn to the fairs, school, and fall harvesting. As a result, our schedules are full, and time is not abundant.

This recipe, from Lancaster County Dairy Princess Angela Spickler, is a good choice when you need a meal that is quick and easy. Also, it is a nutritious dish which contains ingredients from three of the four food groups.

Baked Egg With Cheese

6 hard-cooked eggs
1 cup grated cheese
2 cups bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup cream

Slice eggs and arrange alternating layers of crumbs, eggs, and cheese in a greased casserole. Season with salt and pepper. Pour cream over mixture and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake at 350°F for 30 minutes. Serves 4-6.

HOW MUCH IN AN EMERGENCY FUND?

If you wonder where to find money to buy new tires for the car or how to pay the insurance deductible when someone has an accident, it's time to consider an important key to successful money management. That's the emergency fund.

An emergency fund is just what it says -- a fund of money for those emergencies and other unexpected expenses that seem to pop up when you least expect them and when you least can afford them.

To determine how much money you need in an emergency fund, think about the emergencies you've had in the past year. Go over your old records and bills to refresh your memory. Then make a list of the kinds of emergencies you need to have money to cover.

In addition to car repairs and maintenance and insurance deductibles, consider emergency trips, household repair and replacement of household equipment. You might also want to add irregular expenses such as insurance premiums, pledges, dues and subscriptions.

Once you have a list of things for the emergency fund to cover, put a dollar figure on each one if it were to happen. Then think about the probability of that particular expense occurring within a year. If you think you'll have to replace those car tires once every five years, your probability is one in five while insurance premiums will be paid every year so the probability is one in one.

Once you have the probability, figure out how much money you need to set aside each year to cover each expense. For those car tires, divide the cost of the tires by 5.

By adding up these annual figures of money to set aside, you'll come up with an annual total. Divide that figure by 12 to get what you need to set aside each month for emergencies.

Your emergency fund should be a revolving fund with money coming in and going out all the time. Also, decide how large you want to get the fund grow. When it reaches that point, consider putting some of your emergency savings into an emergency fund cushion which might be certificates of deposit or Treasury bills which will earn more interest.

By sticking to your emergency fund plan eventually you'll have money to help you meet unexpected expenses. You'll also have peace of mind knowing that money is there.

UNIQUE USES OF BAKING SODA

How many uses are there for baking soda? Literally, dozens! For each traditional use you can think of -- as a leavening agent in baked goods, a deodorizer in your refrigerator, etc., here are a few other uses:

During the months your fireplace is not in use, place an opened box of baking soda in the corner to help eliminate the "smokey" odors. Camouflage the box behind logs, a plant or a bouquet of dried flowers.

When you are cooking on the outdoor grill keep an open box of baking soda within easy reach to quickly extinguish grease fires and flare-ups. And after cooking, sprinkle it over coals to safely and cleanly put out the fire.

Save energy and water by operating your automatic dishwasher only when it is completely full. Between washings, toss several handfuls of baking soda into the bottom of the machine to eliminate odors.

Add a sprinkling (several tablespoons) of baking soda to your dishwasher. It will boost the power of the detergent and help to cut grease. For stubborn spots, sprinkle baking soda on a damp sponge, scrub, rinse and dry.

When there's no time for a bath, dry-clean your dog. Rub dry baking soda into your pet's fur, then brush it through. Baking soda cleans and deodorizes your pet naturally. It is a natural food product itself, so it is safe to use around pets. If you do bathe your pet, add a ½ cup baking soda to the water to neutralize odors, removing the "doggy smell."

To clean and remove stale, stubborn odors from ice buckets, vacuum bottles and coolers, wipe the inside with a baking soda solution.(4 tablespoons mixed with 1 quart warm water). For extra hard to remove odors, let the baking soda solution stay in overnight.

Take Special Care Storing Summer Bulbs

NEWARK, DE — "Many summer-flowering bulbs are not hardy outdoors all winter in Delaware," University of Delaware Extension horticulture specialist Susan Barton reminds home gardeners. Most of these "tender" bulbs should be dug up and stored when the leaves on the plants turn yellow. Cut the stems off cannas after the first light frost. Gladiolus should be dug up six weeks after the plants have bloomed.

Barton recommends using a spading fork to lift the bulbs from the ground. Begonias and caladiums should be stored in pots with soil around them. Dahlia tubers and canna rhizomes should be dried and then stored in dry peatmoss. Gladiolus corms should be stored dry without soil or peatmoss.

"Finding the proper location to store summer-flowering bulbs is not always easy," Barton warns.

You need a cool, dry, well-ventilated spot. Different bulbs have different temperature requirements. For example, begonias and cannas can be stored in a cool location where there is no danger of frost. Gladiolus and dahlias should be stored in a very cool (35 to 45 degree F) location to prevent sprouting during storage. Caladiums, on the other hand, must be kept where temperatures drop no lower than 60 degrees F.

Barton offers a few simple but important cautions. To prevent decay make certain that air can circulate around stored bulbs and never store them more than two to five layers deep. If you have a problem with mice, protect your bulbs by covering the storage boxes with a fine mesh wire screen.

Following these simple tips will help to ensure that your bulbs are healthy when you replant them in the spring so that you can enjoy their beauty for another season.

Five-Cheese Spread

5 pounds assorted cheeses, try to get some hard, some soft, some mild and some sharp. Also get yellow cheese as well as white for color. Set out covered to soften

Small onion
1 green pepper
Small jar pimientos (optional)
16-ounce jar sweet gherkins, drained

Grind all ingredients into a large dishpan. Add 1 pint mayonnaise and 1 cup hot tap water. Wash your hands well and mix ingredients with them. Mixture will be soupy and will set with some age. Best made two days ahead so the flavors blend and the cheese sets. Spoon into small containers. Keep some in the refrigerator and freeze the rest. If you want a stiffer cheese, use less mayonnaise and less water, or add more cheese.

For variety, add horseradish to taste or ¾ to 1 cup crisp, crumbled bacon.

Olive Cheese Spread

1 pound sharp cheese, room temperature
1 small jar olives, drained
1 small jar pimientos
1 medium onion.
Chili sauce

Grind all ingredients. Add enough chili sauce to make it spreadable. Serve at room temperature.

Cream Cheese Spread

2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 eggs
8 ounces cream cheese, room temperature
2 tablespoons chopped olives

Blend together sugar, vinegar, and eggs. Cook over medium heat until it starts to thicken. Add cheese. Leave on heat until cheese melts. Remove from heat and add olives. Serve at room temperature.

Poultry

CHILE STUFFED CHICKEN LEGS

6 chicken drumsticks
4 green onions, cut in 1-inch pieces
4 ounces chopped green chiles, liquid reserved
2 tablespoons lime juice, divided
1 tablespoon cooking oil
2 tablespoons catsup
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
¼ cup honey
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons dry sherry
3 large bananas, sliced in half crosswise, then in half lengthwise

Blend green onions, chiles and liquid, 1 tablespoon lime juice, oil, catsup, and salt at medium speed until smooth. Carefully loosen skin on each drumstick by pushing fingers between skin and meat. Spread 2 tablespoons chile mixture under skin of each chicken leg; tuck skin under leg to hold mixture securely in place. Place chicken, skin side up, in large baking pan; bake uncovered in 400-degree oven for 30 minutes.

In small saucepan, place 1 tablespoon butter, hot pepper sauce, and honey; heat over medium-low heat until butter melts. Remove chicken from oven and brush with honey mixture and bake an additional 15 minutes, or until a fork can be inserted in chicken with ease.

In an 8x8-inch baking dish, place remaining butter, cinnamon, brown sugar, sherry, and remaining lime juice; heat in oven until butter melts. Place bananas in butter mixture and turn to coat well. Bake bananas in oven with chicken during last 10 minutes of chicken's cooking time. To serve, arrange chicken on platter with bananas around edge. Serves 6.

TURKEY NEST

2 cups chopped turkey lunch meat
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup chopped celery

Chicken On The Grill

When the heat dulls your enthusiasm for cooking -- and for eating -- get out the grill and put on the chicken.

Chicken cooked outdoors perks up the taste buds and lets the cook relax and join the fun. Low in calories and fat content, contemporary chicken is right in step with good nutrition, too.

The National Broiler Council developed two recipes (below) for backyard chefs.

Herbs and Orange Grilled Chicken uses a slightly different approach to seasoning with the spices placed under the skin. For extra flavor, the chicken is basted with an orange juice mixture.

Tangy Red Grilled Chicken is another easy preparation which gives a different flavor to chicken cooked outdoors. The vinegar marinade permeates the chicken for a tangy, moist flavor that is complemented by the basting sauce.

Cooking chicken on the grill is a leisurely process, to be savored and enjoyed. However, on days when there's no time to spare, grilling time can be shortened by partially cooking the chicken in the microwave before placing it on the grill.

Grilled chicken on the grill is a leisurely process, to be savored and enjoyed. However, on days when there's no time to spare, grilling time can be shortened by partially cooking the chicken in the microwave before placing it on the grill.

Grilled chicken is also excellent when served cold. Grill some extra pieces and refrigerate the leftovers for another meal, ready to enjoy.

HERBS AND ORANGE GRILLED CHICKEN

4 broiler-fryer chicken quarters
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
½ teaspoon rosemary
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon Worchestershire sauce

In small bowl, mix together garlic, orange peel, salt, thyme, rosemary and pepper. Slip fingers between skin and flesh of chicken, leaving skin attached. Spread ¼ of herb mixture under skin of each chicken quarter, pulling skin back over spices. Mix together orange juice, vinegar and Worchestershire sauce. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side up, about 8 inches from heat. Cook, turning and basting with orange juice mixture every 5 minutes, about 40 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

TANGY RED GRILLED CHICKEN

4 broiler-fryer chicken quarters
2 cups apple cider vinegar
½ cup bottled brown steak sauce
2 tablespoons prepared Russian dressing
1 teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon coarsely ground pepper

In medium bowl, place chicken and pour vinegar over all. Cover and marinate in refrigerator at least 4 hours or preferably overnight. In small bowl, mix steak sauce and Russian dressing. Pour off and discard vinegar; sprinkle chicken with garlic salt and pepper. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side up, about 8 inches from heat. Cook, turning and basting with sauce every 7 minutes, about 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

September is here and with it the joy of harvesting the summer's yield. I've always considered it the busiest month in regard to freezing and canning. Besides my own corn, tomatoes and beans, I usually buy a few bushels of peaches, pears and plums.

About this time of year, I must allow my garden to get weedy as I can't keep up with everything. The problem here is that when the weeds go to seed there are just that many more next year.

This year I've transplanted dozens of celery cabbage or as it is more commonly called Chinese cabbage. If it is planted too early it will bolt, but I expect to have lots to share with neighbors.

The watermelon and cantaloupe plants were very slow in developing fruit; maybe all of our rain kept the blossoms from pollinating. However, some of our neighbors are selling cantaloupes at a very reasonable price, and so we've eaten our share already.

As we have many dry cows this month, our son has purchased two little pigs to use the excess milk. These porkers will be butchered later in the year. It seems that there are more variety cuts in pork meat than in beef. Although, we are warned about cholesterol continually. My family has a tendency to have a high reading — even the slender members of the family.

My father ate raw fried potatoes cooked in lard for every supper all of his life. He died after several heart attacks at age 80. Sometimes one wonders if lowering cholesterol only yields small increases in life expectancy, then why forego life's pleasures.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society #11

Berks County Farm Women Group #11 met Monday evening at the home of Fran Dubble. Everyone brought their high school yearbook for roll call.

Plans were made for the Reading Fair held in September. Everyone in our group will be donating two baked items to be delivered to Judy Swope or Wendy Lingle.

Last minute details for September's meeting at Rose Hibshman's home were discussed. Mr. Bruce Felty, pharmacist at the Hyman S. Caplin Pavilion, will be our guest speaker. A youth and safety meeting is the theme for the evening.

Tickets were distributed to sell for the October fashion show held at Boscov's. A list of refreshments and door prizes was made.

Looking ahead! October is a busy month for our farm women group. Our county convention is the first Saturday in October. We celebrate Farm Women's Day, October 12th, by gathering at Farmer's Wife Restaurant. The finale of the month will be our Fall fashion show at Boscov's in the Lebanon Valley Mall.

Lancaster Society #3

The guests at the Good Samaritan Home near New Holland were entertained by members of Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 3 on August 19.

As a special treat Gladys Paul, hostess, furnished the dessert following the noon meal. A hymn sing conducted by Allegra Leininger and games by Rachael Hollinger followed.

There are places for four more persons on the bus trip to Maine Sept. 7, 8, 9 & 10. For reservations call Barbara Wenger (215) 267-7255.

The quilt which will be given to the Ephrata Community Hospital Auxiliary for the December Quilt Sale was on display.

The Society will conduct a food stand at the Ephrata Fair September 26-30. For 71 years, members have offered Deviled Clam Patties at the fair.

The next meeting will be a work day September 23 at 8 a.m. At that time food will be prepared for use at the fair.

Lebanon Society 14

Lebanon County Farm Women Group #14 were entertained August 16 by Group #10 of Schaefferstown. The meeting was at the home of June Wolgemuth. Nine members were served a turkey barbeque meal.

The Strings of Zion from Annville provided entertainment.

Berks Society #6

The Society of Farm Women Group #6 held their August meeting at the home of Sally Hauseman.

The program for the evening was Chat and Sew. Some of the ladies showed what they were embroidering.

A new member Anne Luft from Boyertown R.D. #4 was installed by Janet Schlegel, Berks County President.

Final plans were made for the bake sale at the Reading Fair on September 23.

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon Farm Women Society #20 met recently at the home of Beatrice Mull.

The program was given by Barbara Charles from the extension office. Her topic dealt with how to make the most of visits to relatives and friends in nursing homes.

Members will again participate in the Charity Bazaar at the Lebanon Plaza.

The next meeting will be held at the home Ellen Ream.

Kid's Korner

Bottle-Fed Goat Is Grand Champion At E-Town Fair

BY LOU ANN GOOD

When Darrin Wagner first saw the scrawny goat, he never expected it to win the grand champion goat title at the Elizabethtown Fair.

The Alpine Nubian goat was less than one month old when the vet needed to put the kid's mother to sleep. Because the mother had mastitus and gangrene, her three babies were not getting enough milk. Two died.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carbaugh, Hershey, donated the surviving goat to the vet who gave it to Darrin.

"She knew I wanted a goat for a 4-H project," Darrin said.

Darren fed the kid a bottle filled with four-ounces of milk replacer four times a day.

"At first she was so weak, she didn't want to eat," Darrin recalled. "But she got used to the bottle."

After a couple of months on the bottle, the kid learned to drink from a bucket.

The baby goat named J.J. after Darrin's landlord soon was scampering all over the place and following Darrin around like a pet dog.

"She wasn't used to being chained," Darrin said, "so I had to work with her to get her ready to show in the fair."

Darrin's hours spent raising J.J. paid off. He said, "She behaved really well in the show ring."

Even so, Darrin told his competitors, "I'm going to be so embarrased when the judges send me to the bottom of the line."

Although he dearly loved the little goat, he thought, judges would think J.J. was too little to win, and besides, it was Darrin's first year in 4-H competition and in showing. He had placed seventh with a purebred, so he didn't think there was much chance with a cross.

But the judges were impressed with the little kid and when they told Darrin to go to the front of the line, he almost dropped over.

Then Darrin needed to compete against other classes and finally J.J. was named grand champion over all the goat entries.

Darrin said, "I wanted to pay off my goat project the first year. Other people told me they didn't think I could, but I did."

Darrin said, "At first I didn't want to sell J.J. But my 4-H leaders convinced me." The 65-pound J.J. was sold at the E-town Fair Sale for $75 last week.

Darrin is lonely after selling the goat, but he knows that's part of raising animals. And he likes to remember the fun of winning and playing with J.J.

He said, "I'd liked to thank all the people that helped make my winning possible, because I couldn't have done it without them." He thanked his 4-H leaders Harry Davidheizer, Denise and Rich Goss, the Carbaughs, the vet and farmer Jay who gave him the feed.

Darrin is the son of Ellen and Carl Wagner of Hershey.

Darren Wagner hugs J.J., the Alpine-Nubian goat he raised from a newborn.

J.J. was named the grand champion market goat at the Elizabethtown fair last week. Harry Davidheizel, Lebanon County 4-H leader holds the goat, while Wagner displays his trophy and purple ribbons.

Helping Darren and J.J. celebrate their win are, from left, Sarah Goss, Jennifer Ungemach, Kevin Goss, and Denise Goss.

She has been Teen Leader for Photography and Ceramics and has completed the Dale Carnegie course in speaking.

Miller, a 4-H Club Leadership award winner, has attended the National 4-H Meat Judging Contest. She has been active in State Achievement Days, Capital Days and Penn State 4-H Week. Regionally, she has participated in 4-County Camp and livestock judging contests. Her county activities include camps and camp counseling, 4-H Fair, Roundup and exchange trips.

A freshman at Millersville University, she is studying early childhood education. Shaffer and Miller are two of the Commonwealth's 45 4-H members selected as state contest winners from among the more than 78,400 Pennsylvania youth who annually take part in Penn State Cooperative Extension's educational 4-H program.

Gabel To Receive American Degree

Robert W. Gabel of Newport has been nominated and is expected to receive the highest degree awarded by the National FFA Organization, the American FFA Degree.

This honor is based on outstanding achievements in agricultural production, processing and service programs and on demonstrated leadership abilities. Gabel will be one of the 698 members receiving the award at the 62nd National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., November 9-11.

Only one in 600 of the 404,900 FFA members have advanced through Chapter and State FFA Degrees to earn this national award. Gabel, the son of Robert T. and Berneice A. Gabel, is currently attending Penn State University where he is majoring in dairy production. He is a member of the Newport FFA chapter and his agricultural education instructor and FFA advisor is Virgil E. Gutshall.

Each degree winner receives a gold American FFA key and a partially-paid trip to the national FFA convention in Kansas City. The American FFA Degree recognition program is sponsoreld by the Armstrong Tire Company of New Haven, Conn.; Case IH of Racine, Wis.; Cyanamid Agricultural Division of Wayne, N.J.; Na-Churs Plant Food Company of Marion, Ohio; the Farm Credit System of Denver, Colo., and Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. of Des Moines, Iowa as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

More than 20,000 FFA members are expected to attend the 62nd National FFA Convention, which is the largest annual youth convention in the nation. Those attending will see the American FFA Degrees awarded, hear nationally-known speakers and witness the installation of the six new national FFA officers.

Miller Shows Carbon County Champion Hog

LEHIGHTON (Carbon Co.) — Deanna Miller, 14, of Lehighton exhibited the grand champion market hog at the 111th Carbon County Fair. The Hampshire barrow shown by Miller was bred by Arnold's Hog Farm of Lebanon and was judged best of the show on Monday, August 21, by judge Ken Winebark, Lebanon County Extension agent. The 252-pound champion also commanded the top price at Thursday's sale. Hatfield Packing Company was the successful bidder, paying $2.55 per pound.

Calvin Lazarus & Sons of Whitehall was the breeder of the reserve champion hog shown by Corey Wentz of Lehighton. The Duroc cross brought $1.65 per pound and was purchased by Farm Credit.

Other weight class champions in Thursday's sale included the heavyweight champion shown by Deanna Miller and purchased by Bennett Lehighton Ford for $1.15 per pound and Kirk Cressley's mediumweight champion, which brought a $.95 per pound bid from Eckroth Brothers Farm Equipment of New Ringgold.

For the first time, hogs exhibited at the fair included entries from the Northampton County Livestock Club. The Northampton Club, without a roundup for their swine projects, were invited by the Carbon County 4-H Swine Club and Carbon County Extension agent Paul Sheeler to exhibit at the fair.

A total of 40 head of hogs went through Thursday's sale and brought an average price per pound of $.81 or $.73 per pound excluding the grand and reserve champions. County agent Paul Sheeler was very pleased with the prices and the number of buyers supporting the 4-H. Buyers included top-volume buyer Hatfield Packing Company, George's Foodliner of Bethlehem, Farm Credit, Bennett Lehighton Ford, Eckroth Brothers Farm Equipment of New Ringgold, C&F Hog Farm of Lehighton, Brown's Feeds, Arnold's Hog Farm of Lebanon, Hazel Packing of Hazelton, Wentz Farms of Lehighton, Leesport Farmers Market, Delbert LaVan, and Clark Schoenberger.

Penn State Partnership Tax Workship Planned

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Knowing how the Internal Revenue Code applies to business partnerships is crucial for any person involved in one, because the actions of a partnership affect the tax liability of all its partners.

Partnership taxation will be the topic of discussion at a Small Business Partnership Workshop to be offered by Penn State. The workshop will be conducted September 19-20 at the Howard Johnson Motel in Monroeville. The program will feature a comprehensive treatment of partnership taxation, from the time of forming the partnership through liquidation of the business.

The instructor for the two-day workshop is Dr. Myron Kelsey of Michigan State University. Dr. Kelsey has conducted similar workshops at more than 50 locations in 16 states. He is nationally known for his publications and outstanding teaching in the area of partnership taxation.

The first day of the workshop will be devoted to tax aspects of organizing and operating a partnership. Topics to be discussed include partnership income, distributions from the partnership and preparation of the partnership tax return. The second day is devoted to more specialized topics such as selling a partnership interest, minimizing taxes at liquidation of a partnership and understanding the tax impact of the death of a partner.

Persons attending the workshop will receive a 550-page workbook, which provides detailed information and examples that illustrate the topics covered.

The registration fee for the Small Business Partnership Workshop is $150, with a $30 discount if registration is completed prior to September 5. The fee covers the two-day program, the workbook, lunch for two days and four refreshment breaks. Those who complete the workshop qualify for 14 CPE credits.

Questions about the workshop can be answered by writing to the Tax Program Coordinator, 202 Armsby Building, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802, or by calling (814) 865-7675.

Come on in and trade for performance.

When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The $19^{11}/_{16}$-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540 rpm or 1000 rpm PTO drive.

Stop in today and trade for the performance leader in harvesters — the 790 from Ford New Holland.

BACK HOME

By Michelle S. Rodgers

Berks Extension Home Economist

I'm "fwustwated" reported our discontented two-year-old from her car seat in the back seat. It was the end of a long day and her feelings seemed to speak for all of us while providing a humorous diversion! As parents, we often feel that it is imperative to provide each child with "a happy childhood." We cling to the idea that childhood is supposed to be happy. Most of us would like to see our children go through life free from discomfort and distress. However, this is not only impossible, it is generally not in our children's best interests.

The result of these strongly held notions is sometimes an inability to acknowledge our children's negative feelings, especially sadness and distress. Unable to see things from the child's point of view, we may trivialize childhood problems. In the long run, this can interfere with children's abilities to express their feelings, and make it increasingly difficult to deal with them.

Another undesirable result of the myth of the "perfectly happy childhood" is overprotecting our children. We cannot eliminate stress and distress from our children's lives. What they really need from us is the training in skills to cope and handle stress.

The key to managing stress in our lives, both for children and for ourselves, is a high level of self-esteem. When a child feels good about himself, he approaches life with a degree of confidence that enables him to cope adequately. This also means that we need to control the urge to convey the message that they must perform at a certain level of excellence in order to be accepted and loved. This, too, reduces self esteem as children avoid solving problems and taking risks in order to maintain success.

Below are some strategies to help children feel less stress and more self-esteem. This is not a "thou should" list, rather it a list of possible techniques of which one of two may be particularly helpful.

- Listen to your child carefully and empathize.
- Acknowledge and accept your child's negative feelings.
- Demonstrate your support; show confidence in your child.
- Set a good example. Examine your own stress level.
- Help your child see some stress as a challenge.
- Praise often and effectively.
- Re-examine the pace of your family life.
- Allow your child real choices.
- Help your child feel he is making a contribution.

Back-To-School Tips For Parents

NEWARK, DE — September is just around the corner, and that means the start of another school year. According to Dr. Patricia Tanner Nelson, University of Delaware Extension family and child development specialist, the beginning of a new school year is a period of potential stress and anxiety for both parent and child.

"Parents can cut out many hassles," Nelson says, "if they think through ways to build a strong support system at home so that children can make the most of their school experiences."

The key to success at school, Nelson says, is security and stability at home. She offers the following suggestions to ease the strain for the entire family.

Expect children to feel nervous, fearful or unhappy until they get used to the new school year. Nelson emphasizes the importance of helping children talk about their feelings, letting them know you understand and support them.

This period of anxiety can be eased, Nelson says, if parents make the most of the time they spend with their children. It is the quality, not the amount, of time that counts.

"Try to be in tune with opportunities for one-to-one contact with your child as you go about your routine at home," she says. Conversation, physical proximity (sitting or standing near each other), eye contact and touching are ways to achieve closeness.

During the school year, mealtime can be a pressure point for everyone, but it is also a good opportunity for quality time. Capitalize on the time you spend with your children at mealtime, Nelson suggests. To make meals more efficient, have children help with meal preparation and cleanup as their capabilities allow.

Let your children know that your support for them extends to the classroom. Keep in touch with your children's teachers and let them know you are willing to help out when you can, Nelson says. Also let your children know that you support the teachers and the school.

It is especially helpful if parents find out about the teacher's homework policy and monitor their children's progress with homework. Nelson recommends that parents set aside an appropriate time and provide a comfortable place for doing homework. Choose a time when everyone in the family can be quiet and when children won't be too tired to do a good job.

"If it's the same time each day, it can become a routine, and it will be much easier to settle down and get straight to work," Nelson explains. Little brothers and sisters who don't have homework can use the time for coloring or doing puzzles.

While it's important to give children responsibilities and to spend time with them, remember that they also need time to let off steam. They won't always want to tell you right away about their day, Nelson says. They may just want to be left alone for awhile.

The same goes for parents. When you reach those times in the day when you're too tired, and need time to yourself to recuperate, be honest and realistic with your child about your lack of energy. Don't feel guilty about not being the perfect parent, Nelson says.

The comfort of a stable and reasonably organized home will help reduce your children's level of stress and anxiety. The security of knowing that you love them will give your children the confidence necessary to succeed and the courage necessary to try new things.

"Stability, routine and, most important of all, love and caring are the simple ingredients in the recipe for success in school," Nelson says.

Wayne County Demonstration

Eighteen Wayne County 4-H'ers gave a demonstration at the 4-H Demonstration Event held recently at the Ellen Memorial Health Care Center, Honesdale.

The 4-H'ers who participated in this event were Katie Karcher, Brad & Kristen Woodmansee, Ann & Amy Peters, Abigail Floden, Jimmy Schmitz and Tammy Rewiski from Up North Crew Club in Starlight; Jennifer Rewiski, Tiffany, Janelle and Kelly Swingle from the Lake Ariel Munchkins; Russell Weller, Landy Ariel Handy Gang; Kurt Curtis and Kevin Swingle from Bethany Ag and Emily and Zachary Bryant from Calkins Ag.

Some of the topics 4-H leaders, family members and residents of Ellen Memorial learned about included: fitting and showing a dairy calf, honey bees, model rocketry, dog obedience and making maple syrup.

Judges for the event were John Creighton and Mrs. Mary Lynn Robinson. Ribbons were presented, and each demonstration also was videotaped.

Dairy Foods Are Good School Snacks

HARRISBURG — A new school year is upon us, and with it the seemingly never-ending quest for foods that are good for the kids, and, that they'll eat!

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, which reminds us to "Make it Milk," suggests the inclusion of dairy products in your child's daily menu can go beyond the flavored milk, and still be welcomed by your youngster.

For example, plain yogurt, kept fresh in a wide-mouthed thermos that fits in the lunch bag or paper sack, is extremely versatile and can be "embellished" to suit your child's taste. some favorite additives: granola, nuts, fresh fruit, brown sugar or cereals.

Cheese, with its high nutritional value, easy digestibility and many varieties, is an excellent source of lunchtime goodness. You can slice or cut in chunks and serve in "baggies" with fruit, fresh vegetables, pieces of meat and/or crackers. Or, if your child is wedded to the concept of a sandwich, here are some cheesy combination fillings: Cream cheese and chopped olives (ripe or green); Muenster and cucumber with a light sour cream/mayonnaise dressing (try it in pita bread); Monterey Jack with lettuce, tomatoes and other preferred cold taco ingredients in a taco shell; tuna fish and Swiss cheese; and sliced turkey with Gouda cheese.

For an after-school snack, the basic cheese rarebit (or "rabbit"), consisting of melted cheddar cheese over toast with tomato slices (and/or green onion, bacon, apples, mushrooms, etc.), is always a delicious favorite, and can become a delightful taste adventure by substituting different kinds of cheeses. These recipes might also prove popular in your home:

Bacon & Cheese Rolls

Cut cheddar cheese into squares about 1-inch; roll bacon slice around the cheese and secure with toothpick. Broil fast enough so bacon is crisp before the cheese melts away. Serve immediately.

Cheese Rice Cakes

Add 4 oz. rice to one pint of boiling milk; add salt and turn heat down, allowing rice to cook and thicken. Stir in ¼ ounce grated cheese. Spread the rice mixture flat in a pan, and let cool. Cut into pieces and brown in hot vegetable oil. Drain and serve.

Cheesy Bread Bake

1 cut grated cheese (of your choice)
1 cup milk
1 cup bread crumbs
1 tsp. butter (heaping)
3 eggs
Salt and pepper to taste (may use cayenne if like "hot" food)

Scald the milk and butter; remove from the stove and add the cheese, bread crumbs and seasonings. Beat eggs and gradually add to bread crumb mixture. Pour into greased dish and bake at 350° for 30 minutes.

Hartman and Criders Win Top Honors At Franklin County Holstein Show

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.)— A 15-year-old 4-H'er led his 4-year-old cow to victory in the Franklin County Holstein Show August 24. Jamie Hartman of St. Thomas showed Meadow-Vu Astro Bess in the youth and open shows, and she received grand champion honors in both divisions.

The Higher View Astro Matt daughter, who milks 93 pounds a day, was also named second-best uddered cow of the show. She was classified 86 points in April. As a three-year-old, she made 16,731 pounds of milk and 636 pounds of fat.

Judge John Burket called Bess "a complete kind of cow, with no serious faults. She's not a big cow, but she's super quality the whole way through."

Bess is now safe in calf to Astro Jet. Jamie had bought Bess as a summer yearling at the Franklin County calf sale and has shown her at district and state shows where she has earned several blue ribbons. Bess was bred by Robert Eckstine of Meadow-Vu Farm, Mercersburg.

At the fair's 4-H show held August 22, she had received senior and grand champion honors.

Jamie's intermediate heifer calf, Parnell View Astro Jet Amber, was named best bred and owned of the youth division of the Holstein show. An intermediate yearling heifer owned by Jamie, Oakleigh Gold Damon Agnes, earned the reserve junior champion ribbon in the youth portion of the show.

Jamie is the son of Carl and Deanna Hartman.

Reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors went to Antrim-Spring Bova Martha-ET, a 4-year-old owned by Harold F. Crider of Antrim-Spring Farms, Chambersburg. The 87-point cow has a two-year-old record of 17,948 pounds of milk and 612 pounds of fat for a 3.4 percent test in 338 days.

Martha was named best bred and owned of the open show.

The premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners also went home with the Crider family, who are in their 21st season of showing their cows at the Franklin County Fair. Harold farms 186 acres in partnership with sons Roger and Rodney. They milk 69 cows.

Best uddered cow of the show was Sara Ramses of Sleepy Hollow, a junior two-year-old shown by Michael and Ruth Ann John of Long Lane Farm, Waynesboro.

Youth reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors went to Justin Burdette for his dry 4-year-old cow, Windy Knoll View Kit Jodee. Justin is the son of James and Nina Burdette of Mercersburg.

Justin also showed the youth junior champion, Windy Knoll View Qu Lily-ET. Lily, a junior heifer calf, was also reserve junior champion of the open show.

Judge John Burket of Blair County was impressed with the show. "This was a super-quality show for a county show," he said. These animals can go on to compete in stiffer competition and do well." Burket added that he was particularly impressed with the heifer classes and the group classes.

Burket, of Burket Falls Farm, is a recent Penn State graduate with a major in dairy. He milks 100 registered Holsteins with his father and brothers, and is employed part-time as a classifier of red and white Holsteins.

CHICAGO, IL — "If consumption of poultry increases as much by the year 2000 as is presently being postulated, most of the meat-exchange — if there is a ceiling on total meat consumed, per person — will likely be at the expense of beef, first, and then of pork."

That remark from Dr. Gary C. Smith, head of the animal science department at Texas A&M, opened the National Feed Ingredients Association's 1989 Nutrition Institute. The institute thoroughly examined the topic: Nutrition and Other Factors Affecting the Composition of Animal Products.

The challenges facing red meat producers, their suppliers and meat marketers are a mix of product perception, human and animal nutrition and economics, said Smith.

* From 1976 to 1989, U.S. beef consumption slipped from 94.4 pounds to 70 pounds per capita largely because beef was "The most highly visible target of those who so vociferously urged consumers to 'stop eating,' or to 'eat less,' red meat during the late 1970s and early 1980s." Beef also was merchandised "with far too much fat left on retail cuts," said Smith.

* Veal consumption fell from 3.6 pounds per capita in 1965 to the current 1.5 pounds partially because of its high price. Smith said veal is eaten most often by highly educated and most affluent consumers, who are "most likely to believe the admonition of medical/health professionals to 'eat less red meat.'" Highly adverse publicity by animal rightists about the manner in which veal calves are reared also contributed to reduced consumption, he said.

* Lamb consumption slipped from 2.4 pounds in 1965 to 1.1 pounds now because of high price, the concentration of consumption in older people and those with certain ethnic backgrounds, and because too little was done to attract new, young consumers, said Smith. Lamb also is being merchandised with "far too much fat left on retail cuts," he said.

* Pork consumption dropped from 52.7 pounds in 1971 to the current 44.2 pounds because bacon and breakfast sausage, which are two of the most popular forms of pork, often appear at retail with 35-65% fat in the product. Also, noted Smith, pork is the source of lard, which is taboo as a dietary constituent.

Smith's evaluation clearly challenged individuals in red meat production and marketing to help make and market foods that fit public demands in terms of calories, convenience, taste and price. "We resuscitated the red-meat industry in the past two years, but it has not fully revived," said Smith.

. At the NFIA conference, more than two dozen speakers in a three-day program examined in detail the challenges and progress in animal genetics, nutrition, processing and marketing. Their reports helped to answer some of the issues that Smith raised, and brought the feed ingredient industry up to date on both currently applicable science and prospects for innovation.

Copies of the institute proceedings are available now for $125 per copy from the National Feed Ingredients Association, One Corporate Place, Suite 375, West Des Moines, IA 50265. For more information, contact Alice Vinsand, Director of Education, NFIA; telephone (515) 225-9611.

The senior and grand champion Holstein was owned by Corey Jurbala, left, while Richard Shuman had the reserve senior and grand champion. Shuman also was named the senior champion fitter.

Amanda Hemsarth won a halter as a special award recognizing showmanship in the colored breed contest.

Gregory Bergy was the champion junior fitter.

Bryan Hock, left was the top first-year showman, while Duane Ritter was the champion junior showman.

*B*elieve it or not, an 8-ounce glass of milk has less cholesterol than a skinless half chicken breast or a 3½ -ounce serving of canned tuna!

*A*ccording to cheesecake connoisseurs, a piece of string is the best-kept secret for cutting the ultra-rich dessert. They claim that a taut string gently pressed through the cake, then pulled out once it reaches the bottom, leaves the precious filling intact.

*I*t was at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904 that an enterprising ice cream vendor got the idea to curl one of the waffles sold by a nearby concessionaire into a cone shape, let it cool, then fill it with a scoop of ice cream. Hence, the ice cream cone was born.

*U*ndeniably delicious ice cream toppers include chopped thin mints, crushed cinnamon or peppermint candies, liqueurs, shaved chocolate, instant coffee powder, crushed vanilla wafers, crushed peanut brittle, and chopped malted milk balls.

York County Hosts Tioga County

Last year York County 4-H members took a three-day trip to Tioga County, and had a wonderful time. This year it was York's turn to host the Tioga County 4-H'ers.

So on July 11 the Tioga County 4-H'ers, and chaperones arrived. For three days York County 4-H'ers showed them some historical and interesting sites in York County. Some of these places included the Harley Davidson Museum, Rutters Dairy, and the Pfaltzgraff Factory. We also had a make your own sub party, and a swimming party. But the most popular adventure for everyone was the top of the double decker bus ride around Gettysburg and viewing the electric map.

Everyone hated to see the last day come, but a good time and some very strong friendships were had by all members, parents, and chaperones.

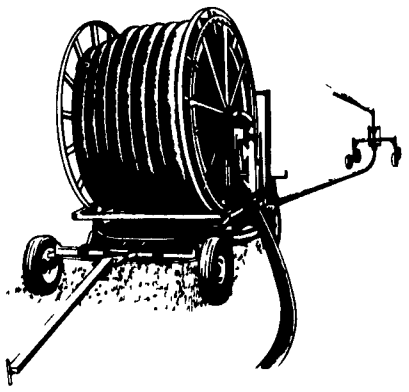
NU-WAY™ Traveler-Type Irrigation System

The "Rain-Maker" from LONG

Move it from field to field; it's portable! When nature's rain doesn't fall when or where it's needed, you can depend on Long's NU-WAY traveler-type irrigation system for critically needed moisture throughout the growing season.

Available in 2 models, the NU-WAY system can irrigate up to 23 acres in a 24-hour period and can be used also for liquid manure application with attachments.



Turbine drive or gasoline engine available.

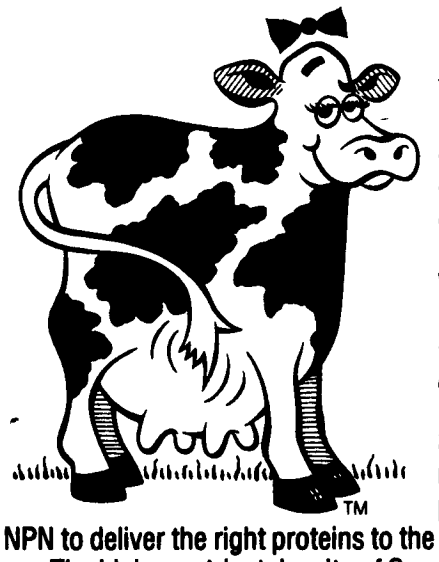
The SURPASS™ Cow.
More cost effective from mouth to milk.



Imagine a cow where feed goes directly from mouth to udder. She'd be a very cost effective animal, but unfortunately, a rather rare breed.

The next best thing would be a feed supplement that helps your cow increase her potential for more milk production.

Improved liquid Surpass™ combines natural, high bypass protein with economical NPN to deliver the right proteins to the right places.

The higher nutrient density of Surpass means you can feed more of your economical home grown grains and forages. Your cows can get more fiber to increase the potential for more butterfat and a higher milk premium.

More milk, more butterfat—and you can get them with a savings in time and effort.

NEW REDESIGNED 1989 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER

Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

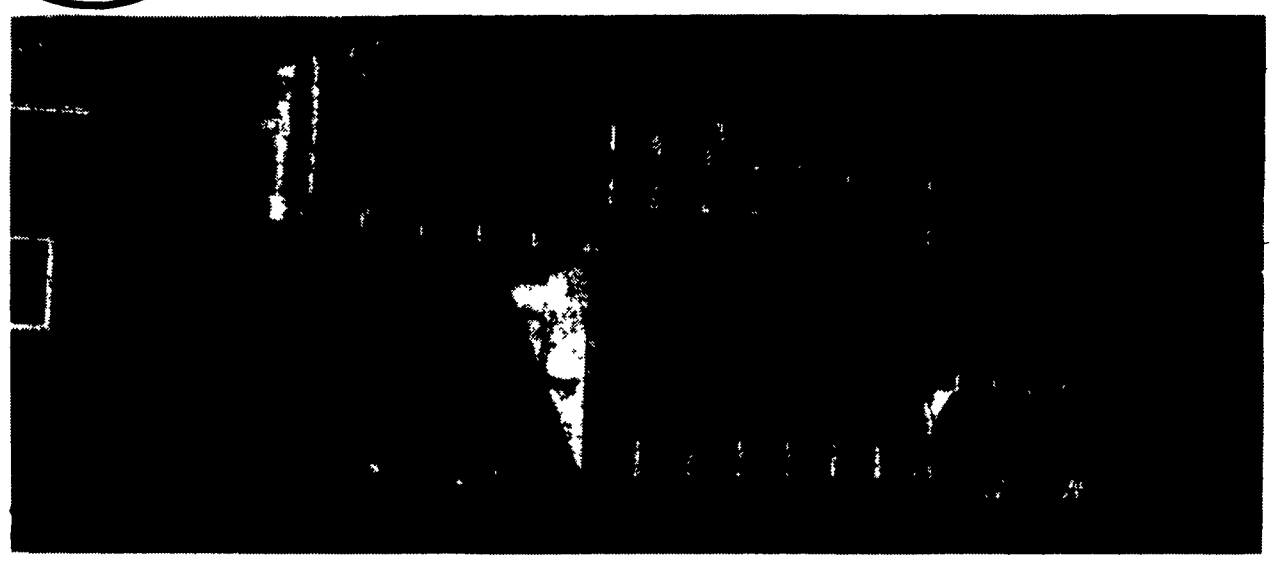
ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS



20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

1989 BARN PAINTING
Latest Developments

1. PREPARATION - High volume water blasting at 1,000 lb. pressure re-surfaces barn siding into a smooth (like new) appearance!
   a. Performed by professionals quickly at reasonable cost.
   b. By yourself with your own or rented equipment.
   c. Or other more conventional methods.
2. APPLICATION - To insure better adherence to this super prepared surface, use the best fine bristle brush in four directions to evenly distribute the recommended mil thickness of seal coat coverage.
3. SPECIALIZATION - Every barn is different but generally it's best to use a high quality mildew resistant product, specially formulated to meet the requirements of this partially weathered wood that was and will be weather stressed.
4. WARNING - The modified oil latex is less effective as a wood preserver and actually increases nail & metal deterioration. Deal with home people. At their rates, I could double mine.

BLUE DIAMOND STALLS - Simply the Best!

Designs for Remodels & New Construction Adaptable to other Brands

Who cares about your milking time?

WE DO. At Blue Diamond, we listened to you and understand that work performance is greatly influenced by the milker's attitude and the milking environment. That's why we design our equipment with this in mind.

The New Indexing Rail

Model 88-501WA
All Exit™ & Conventional Exit
(No Feed)

Now you can have a snug fit and consistent control in milking any combination of large cows, smaller cows and/or heifers Command a gentle hold in the critical positioning of your cows, while ensuring their safety and comfort Bring them into easy reach for milking

Before Indexing
Cows out of position, unconfined and disruptive
Situation: Inefficient and unsafe.
Indexing Rail in forward position for optimum cow flow.

After Indexing
Udders within easy reach of the milker
Situation: Calm and efficient.
Pneumatic Cylinder extended to fit.

The Full Control Crowd Gate

It's time-and-space efficient—a real 'crowd pleaser'

Doubly Efficient A great time-saver for any size herd
A great space-saver with its straight vertical raise-and-lower operation

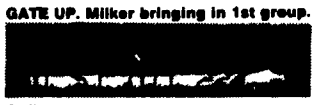
The Full-Control Crowd Gate Cycle:
HOLDING AREA Widths to 32 Lengths unlimited Minimum 8 Ceiling Height

GATE UP. Milker bringing in 1st group.



GATE DOWN and moving forward with gentle persuasion Milker Milking.

GATE FORWARD allowing positive separation of groups 1st group nearing completion

GATE UP & REVERSING. Last cows in parlor Milker leaves to get next group.

GATE CLEANING. Milker is washing-down parlor while gate is scraping holding pen with optional rubber blade

For over 19 years in Washington State and now nationwide, this versatile crowd gate has been proving that there is no other more safe and labor efficient. Now, with few refinements, it is available to you This unique innovation works with gentle efficiency It decreases milking time increases herd handling ability, and keeps the milker happy and productive.

Other more costly gates swing and push like big, bruising bulldozers Still, other lightweight gates require electric charges Both of these gate designs tend to annoy and frighten cows Blue Diamond s gate design gently moves cows along with natural self-control

General Features & Benefits of All Blue Diamond Parlors:

- ☐ Blue Diamond milking parlors are made of pre-welded modular components. We gave up trying to keep nuts & bolts tight in stalls because it cannot be done.
- ☐ Blue Diamond stalls are welded together so that they will stay together. The pipes are coped on the ends to be welded. Not smashed on the ends and welded, or held in place by clamps & flanges.
- ☐ Stainless steel mangers, shoulder panels, feed bowls and butt pans all have rolled and/or hemmed edges. No sharp edges or lightweight sheetmetal anywhere.
- ☐ All hinge assemblies are pipe-within-pipe columnar design. Extending full heighth for maximum durability. No premature wearing or elongating holes causing sagging or ineffective opening or closing. No need for greasy lubrication that made a mess and usualy did not get done anyway.
- ☐ Massive stainless air cylinder rams to open and close gates, to raise and lower the All-exit stalls and to index the mangers or brisket rail. No need for linkage, no corrosion or pitting of cylinder rams; no need for extensive inventory of spare parts.
- ☐ Butt pan rails, entrance & exit gates, diverter panels and Indexing No-Feed Brisket Rail are built of 2" sch. 40 structural steel galvanized pipe. Not 1¼ " or 1½ " pipe, nor large diameter thin-walled tubing, nor painted or plated black steel; all of which are more common to the industry.

Holler-View Marc Daughter Tops Holstein Central Championship Show

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — A Holler-View Elevation Marc daughter topped the Central Pennsylvania Holstein Championship Show August 19. Ajay Desire Elevation Carol, a fancy uddered senior 3-year-old, was classified 87 points with an excellent mammary as a 2-year-old. Owned by Eugene and June Corl of Hearts Desire Holsteins, State College, she milks 90 pounds a day.

Carol was named reserve grand champion of the Morrison's Cove Dairy Show recently, and was an All-Pennsylvania senior 2-year-old last year.

Reserve grand champion of the show, held at the Huntingdon Fairgrounds, was Londondale Matinee Dutchess. The home-bred 4-year-old, owned by James London of Punxsutawney, was also named best bred and owned of the show. Classified 91 points, she made 20,405 pounds of milk and 836 pounds of fat in her most recent lactation.

She was grand champion and best bred and owned of the Jefferson County Holstein Show for the past three years and supreme champion this year.

A senior calf, Globe-Run V Tab Charisma, was named junior champion of the show. A Kingstead Valiant Tab daughter, she was home-bred by Globe-Run Farms of Petersburg.

Globe-Run also exhibited the reserve junior champion, Allenor Warden Honora, a senior yearling. Owned by Eleanor Baker, she is a Hilltopper Elevation Warden daughter. Honora also received junior champion honors in the youth division of the show.

Keith Kennedy of Martinsburg showed the grand champion of the youth portion of the show, Gillbrook Warden Surprise-ET. A Hilltop Elevation Warden daughter, the senior 3-year-old was classified 87 points and milked 22,399 pounds of milk and 765 of fat as a 2-year-old.

Reserve grand champion of the youth division was a 4-year-old shown by Ross H. Hershberger of Elda-Chross Farms. The Rinehart Super Deluxe daughter made 17,860 pounds of milk and 695 pounds of fat as a three-year-old. She was named best bred and owned of the youth show.

Jill M. Stutzman showed the reserve junior champion, an intermediate yearling sired by Poverty-Hollow Valiant Star-RC.

The Obie Snider family of Singing Brook Farms, Imler received both the premier exhibitor and premier breeder banners.

Judge for the show was Dale Olver of State College, professor of Dairy Animal Science at Penn State. He commented on the excellent quality of the show.

NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

PLUS-FAMOUS DEUTZ FUEL ECONOMY
Used 275 Gal. Fuel Tank

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

Over the past 8 years, we have sold thousands of T.A.'s to satisfied customers across the U.S. Some of our best customers are I.H. Dealers.

We do complete job or center housing while you wait or will sell you the parts.

Our prices on T.A.'s with the Dana Sprag, are now $645.00 with a 2 year warranty.

We also have units and parts available to rebuild old style T.A.'s, including Ramp & carrier sets for $300.00

Clutches, Pressure Plates PTO Drives & Water Pumps

We have clutches available for most all IH tractors; including many heavier than original. We also have clutches for many other brands.

- Compare Our Prices -

QUALITY USED PARTS

We specialize in IH tractors but we also have Case, Oliver, White and Massey tractors in our inventory.

MOVE MOUNTAINS WITHOUT MOVING A FOOT.

Case Uni-Loader® skid steers not only out dig, out lift, out carry and out load most others ... they also take a big load off your feet. That's because speed, direction and all loader functions are controlled by two hand levers. You can maneuver easier and work faster. There are other advantages, too. self-leveling loaders; simple external chain-tension adjustment, separate hydraulic and chain/sprocket oil systems reduce maintenance and downtime. Let your hands do the working with a Case Uni-Loader skid steer . . . the easy way to get a handle on tough chores.

COMPARE THESE FEATURES AND OPTIONS

Simple hydraulics allows one valve to operate the lift and stabilize cylinders. Center plumbing means less hose length and easier coupling.

The basic box is heavy-duty steel, welded seams, and reinforced for even more strength

Rub rails offer more protection to vehicles when approaching, during dumping cycle, and when departing

Stabilizer cylinders hydraulically lock on to side to hold wagon rigid during dump cycle

Galvanized roof features vent insert for straight-through air flow

Make Your Operation Safer • Use Year Round • Variety Of Crops • All Field Conditions • Operate In Wet And Muddy Conditions

HOOBER ...THE AXIAL-FLOW SPECIALISTS

case IH Axial-Flow Combine

DIFFERENT and BETTER from the inside out

HERE'S THE INSIDE DIFFERENCE:

1. An impeller on the front of the rotor draws the crop and air into the rotor and threshing cage.
2. The single rotor threshes and separates the crop. Speed of rotation can be adjusted on the go.
3. Torque-sensing rotor drive automatically regulates belt tension in relation to load.
4. Three-section concaves can be removed and reinstalled by one man in less than 30 minutes. Small-wire and large-wire concaves are available to match different crops. Clearance is easily adjusted with a ratchet handle.
5. A variety of separating grates are available to best handle almost any crop you'll be harvesting.
6. Augers move the grain smoothly, positively to the cleaning sieves. Grain can't bunch up, even on steep hillsides.
7. Opposed-action adjustable sieves remove chaff from the grain.
8. Advanced-design cleaning fan with variable speed drive removes any chaff and foreign material that remains.
9. Positive discharge beater propels straw rearward to the straw spreaders. (Straw chopper is optional.)
10. Wide spread twin-rotor straw spreaders distribute discharge material uniformly and can be removed in seconds for windrowing material.

Why Axial-Flow is superior. On conventional combines, the grain passes between the cylinder and concave only once. Consequently, the threshing action is severe. But with Axial-Flow, grain is threshed several times — repeatedly, but gently — as it spirals around the single, large diameter rotor and passes through the threshing cage. Multiple threshing plus gentle threshing results in less cracked grain, less dockage at the elevator and top price for every bushel.

Centrifugal force replaces straw walkers. Axial-Flow eliminates the need for straw walkers — a substantial source of grain loss with conventional combines. Consequently, the more grain you grow, the more grain you'll save with the more efficient Axial-Flow system.

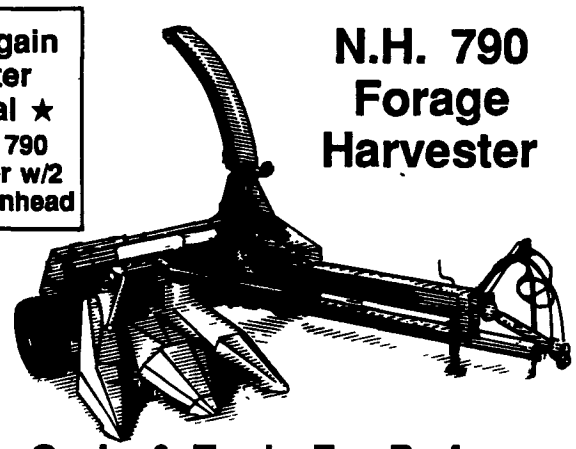
ALL YOU NEED TO MAKE WINTER FEED

BUY SMART. BUY EARLY.

Reliable Equipment From ABC Groff

★ Bargain Hunter Special ★
(1) NH 790 Havester w/2 Row Cornhead

N.H. 790 Forage Harvester

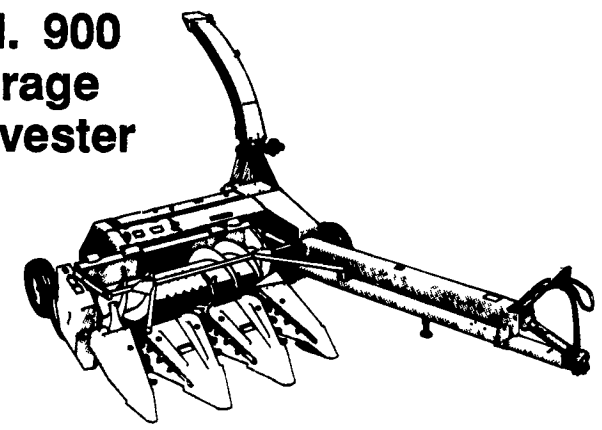


Come On In & Trade For Performance

When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The 19 11/16-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540 rpm or 1000 rpm PTO drive.

Stop in today and trade for the performance leader in harvesters — the 790 from Ford New Holland.

N.H. 900 Forage Harvester



You get total performance when you harvest your crops with a Model 900 forage harvester. Total performance begins at the cutterhead. The 12 knives of the 21-inch cutterhead give you uniformly cut high-quality forage. Other features on the 900 include:

- Metalert II electronic metal detector — protects cutterhead and your valuable animals
- Electromagnetic clutches — give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar — makes adjustment fast and precise.

Stop in soon and see the Model 900.

NH 716 Forage Box

We Can Help You Haul, Unload Faster

You can unload any crop quickly and efficiently with the new big capacity Model 716 forage box from Ford New Holland. Roller chain drive provides unloading speeds of 2.39 and 5.40 feet per minute. For a closer look, stop in and see us about this new forage box.

N.H. 40 Forage Blower

Fills Silos 80 Feet And Higher

The Model 40 forage blower, with 20% greater tip speed than previous models, center fills silos over 80 feet in height. The 1,000-rpm driveline and 48-inch diameter Whirl-A-Feed® hopper means the Model 40 works fast. See the Model 40 at our store today.

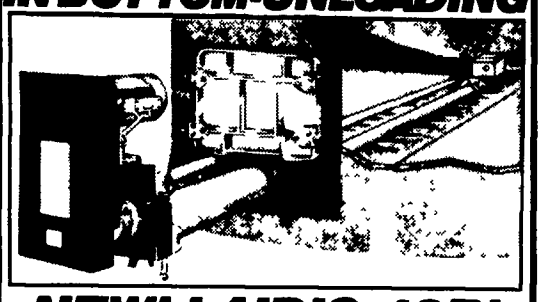
LAIDIG
THE ONLY NAME YOU NEED TO KNOW IN BOTTOM-UNLOADING



NEW! LAIDIG 43R!

If you re bothered by high maintenance costs poor feed delivery or a free flow unloading system that fails then you need the new Laidig 43R conversion package

The 43R converts some existing oxygen limited metal structures to high performance Laidig unloading in just one day without alterations to your structure!

The Laidig 43R Power-Sweep Auger replaces gravity feed augers It works for you every day not just at the end of the season It s the full time unloader

The Laidig 43R is the heavy-duty machine engineered to the high quality and performance standards that operators expect from the leader from Laidig!

FORAGE
LAIDIG 98
The agri-business standard for unloading performance and quality for structures 15 27
NEW LAIDIG 198
The next step up in forage unloaders For structures 24 -30 Sophisticated all-gear drive system and the power to unload material

GRAIN
LAIDIG 43
For most grain unloading operations Full time unloading
LAIDIG 143
For larger structures and higher capacity unloading conditions Works for you every day not just at the end of the season

WE GAVE BOTTOM-UNLOADING A GOOD NAME. LAIDIG.

"Consider The Concrete Advantages"

STORE THIS YEAR'S GOOD CORN CROP IN A POURED CONCRETE SOLLENBERGER SILO!!

We offer several choices:

* Conventional, Top-unloading silo
* Bottom-unloading silo with Laidig unloader
* Bottom-unloading silo with Flying Dutchman unloader
* Shelled corn unit with 6" auger for unloading - this is the cheapest unit for high-moisture shelled corn storage.

By storing your valuable grain in a SOLLENBERGER SILO, you can avoid heat damage and condensation associated with other, thin-walled structures.

"OUR 6" SOLID CONCRETE WALL HAS 780 TIMES MORE HEAT-RESISTING ABILITY THAN STEEL."

Our Poured Concrete Silo protects your feed quality...

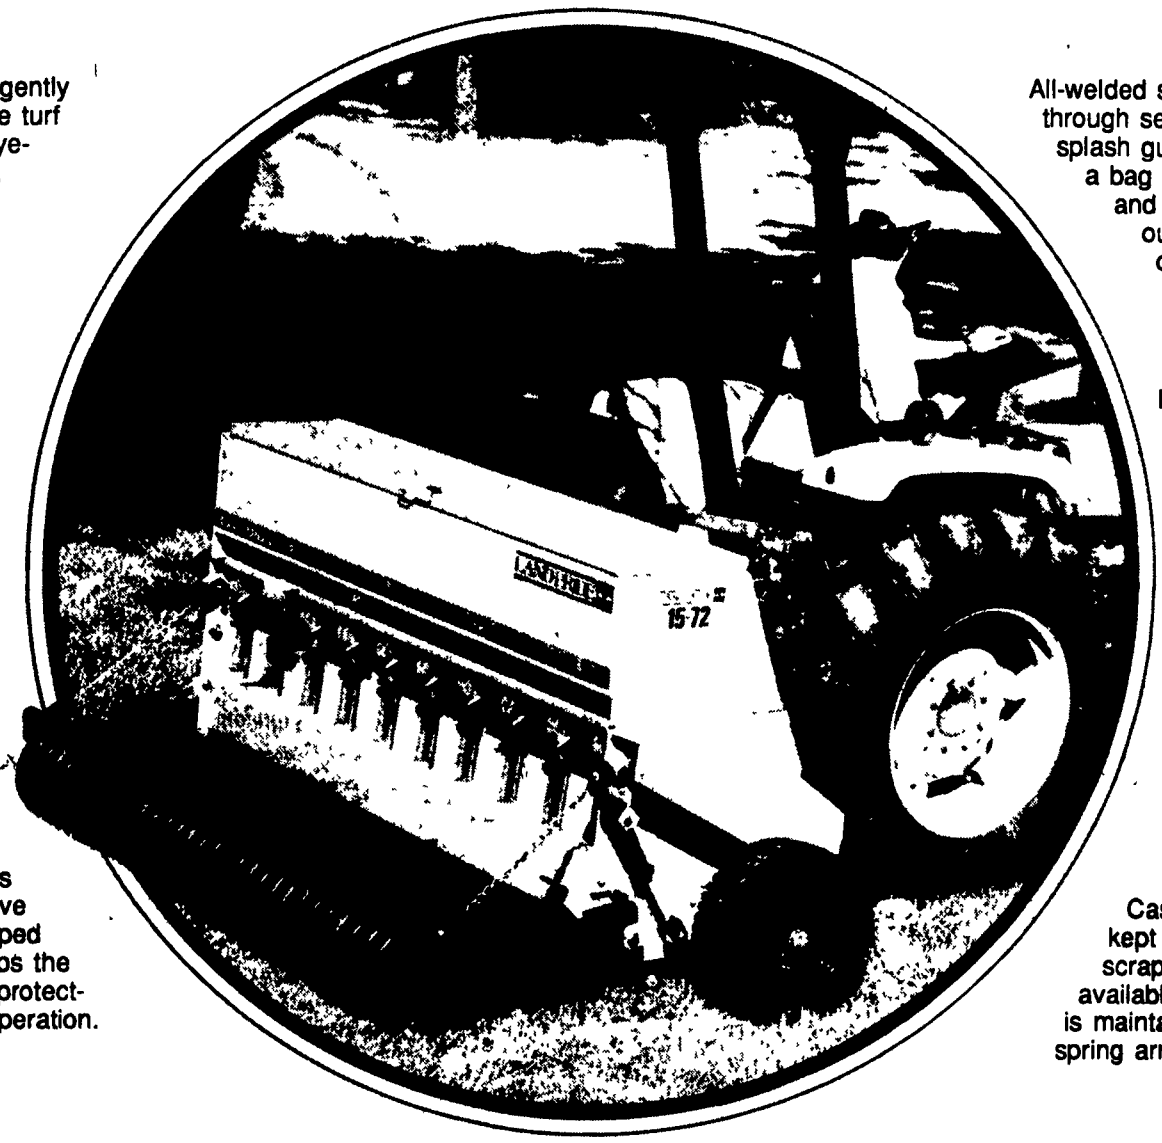
SOLID STAND SEEDER

Proven fluted seed cups gently and accurately meter fine turf seeds, including fescue, ryegrass, clover, bentgrass, buffalo, bermuda, wheatgrass, lovegrass, and bluegrass.

All-welded seed box has flow-through seed agitation, a splash guard to conserve seed, a bag opener for easy filling, and easy cleaning design with our individual seed cup clean-out handles.

Seeding pattern extends across the entire 48" or 72" width of the seeder box, for even full-width coverage. Slit kit available to place seed in soil slits only.



Knife spacing available on 2" or 3" or 4" centers, with 5 knives per flange.

Adjustable double torsion tickler tines agitate the soil surface to promote contact between seed and soil.

Ground drive wheels ensure constant, positive seed metering. Stamped chain guard keeps the chain mechanism protected for safer operation.

Cast notched packer wheels are kept clean with a corrugated scraper. Optional smooth roller available instead. Roller pressure is maintained by your choice of spring arm, rigid arm, or link chain.

America's finest turf seeder is built in America by the finest name in grain drills, Great Plains Manufacturing. The metering and placement systems are tailor-made for turf grass seeds, while optional knife spacings are available in 2", 3" and 4" centers for seeding productivity. Adjustments are easy to make for seeding depth, seeding rates, roller pressure, or tickler tine pressure. This low maintenance, highly maneuverable seeder is ruggedly built for long life. Whether for interseeding or for new seeding of turf grasses, the Solid Stand Seeder provides precision, durability, accessibility, and productivity.

Penn State Durocs Each Bring $1,025 In Performance Tested Boar Sale

BY MARIANNE WALKER
Centre Co. Correspondent

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Two Penn State Duroc boars brought a sale high of $1,025 each at Pennsylvania's 12th Performance Tested Boar Sale held August 16, at the university's Ag Arena. The boars had indices of 147 and 130, respectively, with daily gains of 2.36 and 2.20 pounds, and percentage of lean cuts being 64 and 63.

The loin eye area measurements were 5.9 and 6.4, the latter being the high loin eye in the test group. The boars were purchased by Hillside Acres of Lenhartsville. Completing the pen of Penn State Durocs were two boars which brought $850 and $525, bringing the pen average to $856. The boar index for the group was 137. This index is a composite of the daily gain, feed efficiency, and backfat.

A Yorkshire from RPM Farms of Beavertown had the highest daily gain of the boars on test and sold for $900 to Bob Sperow of Martinsburg, West Virginia. The boar reached 230 pounds in 145 days, had a back fat measurement of .69 and a loin eye of 6.3. A second RPM Yorkshire went for $625, also to Bob Sperow. This boar had a daily gain of 2.16 pounds a back fat measurement of .59, and percentage of lean cuts, 64. The boar indices were 139 and 123, respectively.

A Duroc boar from Lawrence Arnold of Womelsdorf brought $800, selling to Randy Horst of Martinsburg, Virginia. The boar had a daily gain of 2.35 pounds back fat of .63, and a loin eye of 5.5. The boar finished with an index of 144. A second Arnold Duroc with a final index of 111 brought $350, bringing the pen average to $600.

A pen of Berkshires offered by R&A Cornbower of New Freedom had an average Boar Index of 133 and an average sale price of $575. The high boar in this pen with a daily gain of 2.33 pounds, 138 days to 230 pounds, and a loin eye of 4.9, finished the test with a

A Penn State Duroc was the high indexing boar in Pennsylvania's Performance Tested Boar Sale. The boar sold for $1,025 to Hillside Acres of Lenhartsville.

Also bringing $1025 was a Penn State Duroc that had a 6.4 loin eye ara, the highest in the test group. This boar also sold to Hillside Acres of Lenhartsville.

COMBINING GROWTH--PROMOTING IMPLANTS

Research reports at the recent national meeting of the American Society of Animal Science has shown the results of combining growth-promoting implants in feedlot steers. These studies were conducted in Kansas and Oklahoma.

The trials compared the addition of a newer growth promotant, Finaplix, with either Ralgro or Synovex. In one of the Kansas trials Finaplix was administered to the steer in addition to Synovex during the grazing, drylot growing and finishing phases. There were some slight differences in average daily gain detected for those steers with both implants in the feedlot and drylot phases, but the differences were small. The authors concluded that repeated implantation with both products had little effect on carcass characteristics compared to Synovex alone although there was a tendency for marbling score, fat thickness and percentage choice to be reduced.

A second trial in Kansas compared either Synovex or Ralgro alone or in combination with Finaplix in feedlot steers. Again, average daily gain was not significantly different among the treatments. Carcass traits did not appear to be affected by the treatments, although it was pointed out in the presentation that few of the steers graded choice because of heat stress at marketing in the summer of 1988.

A third trial in Oklahoma compared multiple implanting with Finaplix in yearling steers. The treatments included no implants, and implants at 0, 70, or 0+70 days on feed. About 300 steers fed for about 135 days in each of two trials were evaluated. The results of this study showed there were no differences in carcass weight, fat thickness, KPH percentage, or marbling score among the treatments. However, some differences were detected when the time of implanting was compared. Those steers implanted at 70 days on feed tended to have lower percentage choice and more muscling than those implanted early or not at all.

It has been earlier established that the use of growth-promoting implants will increase the weight at which a steer will reach choice grade. However, the increased efficiency and growth of these steers still makes the use of the implants an effective economic tool for the feeder. It appears from these studies that combinations of implants and types of implants will not necessarily increase gains. In addition, from these limited results, there is a indication carcass grade may be reduced, particularly when implants are administered late in the feedlot phase.

Elizabethtown Supreme Champion

Scheiss Brothers Sweep Franklin County 4-H Beef Show

Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The three Sheiss brothers of Chambersburg once again swept all the top awards at the Franklin County 4-H beef steer show.

Donnie Sheiss, 19, showed the grand champion steer, a 1275-pound heavyweight, and

USDA Announces Common Provisions Of 1990 Farm Programs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Common provisions of the 1990 farm programs were announced today by Under Secretary of Agriculture Richard Crowder. They include limited cross compliance for wheat, corn, sorghum, barley, upland cotton and rice.

To be eligible under the cross compliance provision for price support loans, purchases or payments, the acreage planted for harvest on a farm may not exceed the acreage bases for these crops.

Limited cross compliance will not be in effect for 1990 crops of oats and extra long staple (ELS) cotton.

Other common program provisions applicable to the 1990 crops of wheat, feed grains, upland and ELS cotton and rice include:

• Offsetting compliance will not apply. This means that eligibility for a program payment and a loan for a program commodity on a farm will not be affected by actions taken to that commodity on another farm.

• Production of nonprogram crops on land idled under the various acreage reduction programs will not be permitted.

• Grazing of land designated as conservation use (CU) acreage for payment under the 50/92 and 0/92 program provisions of the upland cotton, rice, wheat and feed grain programs and acreage conservation reserve (ACR) will be permitted, except during a five-consecutive month period between April 1 and Oct. 31, 1990, as established by the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

• Haying, during the same period, of acreage designated as CU and ACR will not be permitted unless the state ASC committee determines that haying will not have an adverse economic effect in that state.

• In the event of a natural disaster, haying and grazing of land designated as CU and ACR may also be permitted during the prohibited five-month period in those counties which are determined to be adversely affected by disaster conditions and approved by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

• The increase of any crop acreage base (CAB) with a corresponding downward adjustment in other CAB's on the farm generally will not be permitted. However, adjustments in CAB's will be considered when producers need to change cropping practices to carry out conservation compliance requirements on highly erodible land.

• Advance recourse commodity loans will not be made available.

• Advance deficiency payments will be made for wheat, feed grains, upland cotton and rice at 40 percent of the projected deficiency payment rates.

• The program enrollment period runs from Jan. 16 through April 13, 1990.

was named champion shower. His brother Eric, 17, received the champion fitter award, and David, 14, showed the reserve grand champion steer, a 1180-pound medium heavyweight. David also showed a mediumweight steer that placed first in its class at the August 22 show, held at the Franklin County Fairgrounds.

The brothers are the sons of Daryl and Penny Sheiss, who served as ringman and clerk at the show.

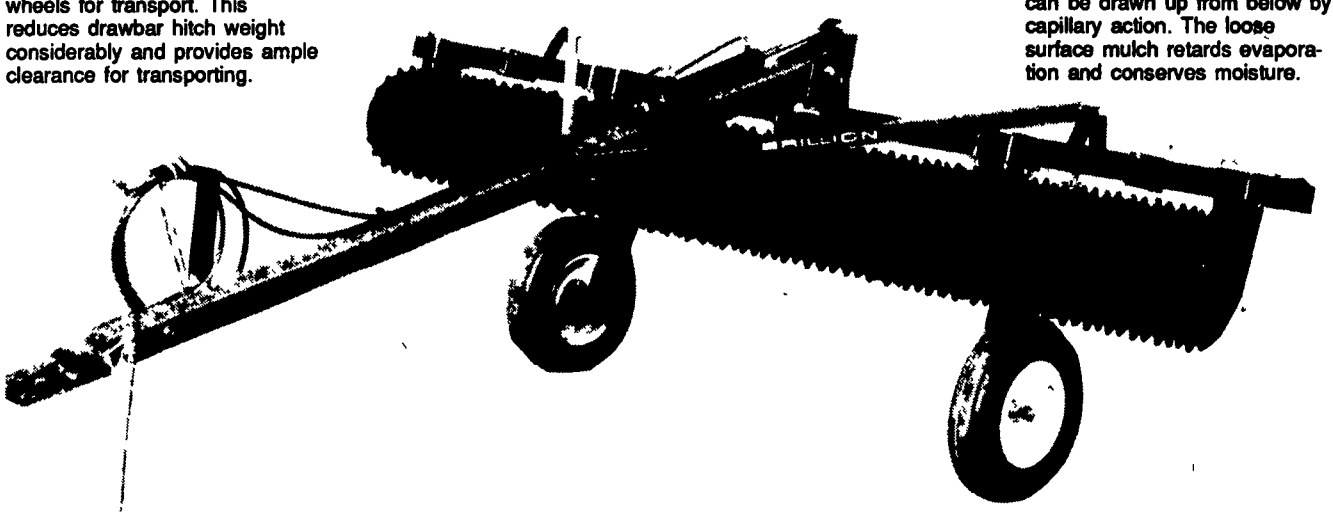
NEW P10 SERIES TRANSPORT CONCEPT
Brillion's transport concept is new to the industry. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces drawbar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transporting.



THE IDEAL SEEDBED
Brillion Pulverizers crush clods and firm the soil for better contact between the seeds and soil. Small stones are pressed down and air pockets are eliminated so moisture can be drawn up from below by capillary action. The loose surface mulch retards evaporation and conserves moisture.

Insights On Production Efficiency Shared At Swine Seminar

PETERSBURG, IL — Nearly 150 hog producers representing approximately 400,000 hogs received insights for fine-tuning production efficiencies at the Illinois Summer Swine Seminar recently held in Petersburg, IL.

Each producer had been invited by one of nine attending swine veterinarians. The seminar was sponsored by SmithKline Animal Health Products and coordinated by Jon Knapp, major account coordinator for the firm. Moderating the seminar was Dr. Joe Connor, a Carthage, IL, swine consultant and past president of the American Association of Swine Practitioners (AASP).

Featured speakers consisted of swine experts Gary D. Dial, DVM, Ph.D., University of Minnesota; Tim Loula, DVM, Nicollet, Minn.; Richard D. Hedde, Ph.D., SmithKline Animal Health Products; LeRoy G. Biehl, DVM, MS, University of Illinois; and Darrell Dunteman, CPA, Lewistown, Ill.

One of eight means of increasing production efficiency discussed was selection of a growth promotant for maximum results. Growth promotants increase the availability of feed nutrients to pigs by controlling the activity of gut bacteria. Hedde reported on the effectiveness of five growth promotants commonly used as feed additives: Virginiamycin, Tylosin, Flavormycin, Bacitracin and Chlortetracycline.

Virginiamycin recently proved to offer the best opportunity for growth and feed efficiency enhancement in a study conducted by Hedde and Thomas O. Lindsey, Ph.D., SmithKline Animal Health Products.

Hedde also reviewed the history of porcine somatotropin in worldwide pork production. He concluded, "Somatotropin is a natural product (of the pig's metabolic system) that will enhance the productive efficiency of pig production as well as to produce a more healthful pork product."

Dial made well received presentations on the aspects of reproductive performance and facility use: how to optimize sow and facility utilization; factors influencing the reproductive performance in commercial swine; and breeding and gestation facilities -- matching biology and facility design.

Loula emphasized management essentials for reducing preweaning mortality: Highly motivated people, well planned and cared for facilities, genetics, and tender loving care for the herd.

Biehl moved the discussion to the grower-finisher stage of production. He says, "The performance of the grower-finisher pigs often determines the profit margin in the swine unit."

When a production problem occurs here, he encourages producers to thoroughly examine their herd's genetics, nutrition, environment, health-disease status, management and relationships among these factors.

Dunteman reviewed methods available for calculating production costs. He emphasized using an accural basis in order to offset profit with actual production costs.

Proceedings from the swine seminar can be obtained by writing SmithKline Animal Health Products, 1600 Paoli Pike, West Chester, PA 19380 or by calling Annmarie Gormley at 800/877-7303, extension 7506.

Tested Boar Sale

Boar Index of 136 and sold for $725. The remaining two Berkshires in this pen brought $550 and $450.

Carl Rabenold of Kutztown offered a pen of two Hampshires, the pen index being 124, the average sale price $488. The boars had average daily gains of 2.18 and 2.31 pounds, back fat measurements of .59 and .76, and percentage of lean cuts, 64 and 60. The boars sold for $550 and $425.

A pen of two Spotted boars from K. Ketterer of Newville finished with an index of 111 and an average sale price of $488. The high boar in the pen had a daily gain of 1.88 pounds, back fat of .59, and a 6.2 loin eye area. This boar brought $600. The second boar brought $375, finishing with a boar index of 103.

A Yorkshire consigned by Bill Work of Smock, sold for $400. The boar gained 2.06 pounds per day, had 61% of lean cuts, and finished with an index of 90.

Two Hampshires from Donald Lake of Big Cove Tannery went for $400 and $325. The boars had daily gains of 2.06 and 2.05 pounds, back fat measurements of .49 and .52, loin eye areas of 4.7 and 5.7, and final indices of 127 and 124.

A Hampshire consigned by C. & C. Bomgardner of Annville with a daily gain of 1.73 pounds, 165 days to 230 pounds, and a final index of 103 brought $300.

A total of 30 boars averaged $475; with 10 Durocs averaging $588, three Berkshires averaging $575, two Spotted averaging $488, five Hampshires averaging $400, one Landrace bringing $400, and 13 Yorkshires averaging $395.

The sale was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in Cooperation with the Penn State University and the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council. The Sale Committee consisted of: Vern Hazlett, Kenneth Kephart, Leon Arnold, Ken Ketterer, Carl Rabenold, Bill Work, Reno Thomas, and John Zimmerman. The auctioneer was Harry Bachman.

Agri-King Names Area Manager

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Agri-King recently named Glenn Martin the area manager of eastern Lancaster County.

Martin has several years of experience in the livestock field. He worked for six years as an artificial inseminator and most recently operated his own 200-head registered Holstein dairy farm.

Agri-King tests feedstuffs and formulates rations for livestock producers in 27 states. The 21-year-old company is based at Fulton, IL.

Walco International Donates Cook-Off Prize Money

DENVER, CO — Walco International Inc., the nation's largest distributor of animal-health products, has made a $25,000 contribution to help ensure the success of this year's 1989 National Beef Cook-Off, it was announced last week by officials of the American National CattleWomen (ANCW), sponsors of the event.

The National Beef Cook-Off, which will take place September 17-19 at the Red Lion Hotel in Portland, Ore., is annually one of the beef industry's largest and most successful promotional events.

"We are extremely pleased that Walco International believes so strongly in the National Beef Cook-Off," said Jeanette Barthle, ANCW president. "All of us in the beef industry have something to gain from the successful promotion of our product. This generous contribution will enable us to greatly expand our promotional efforts even further."

In making the contribution, Willard Wall, chief executive officer of the California-based Walco, singled out the many years of preparation and planning that have gone into the 1989 event.

"We believe the National Beef Cook-Off is a well-run promotion that deserves support from all aspects of the beef industry," said Wall. "This contribution is meant to show our appreciation for the more than 14,000 hours of volunteer time that the CattleWomen have donated over the past three years toward planning and orchestrating this popular and successful event."

The National Beef Cook-Off, now in its 16th year, is sponsored by ANCW in cooperation with the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board.

The conference was built around the company's 1990 advertising theme, "We Have Something New For Every Farm in America." It was announced at the conference that The New Northrup King would introduce 44 new products this year. "When we consider all of our new corn, soybean, alfalfa, sorghum, cotton, tobacco, sunflower and cereal varieties, we can say that we have something new for every farm in America," said Jim Hurst, director of product development. "You might say that these new products are the first born from the marriages or mergers that have occurred over the last two seasons. None of these products were available from Stauffer, Pride, Coker or Northrup King. These products are the end result of combining the research and resources of four separate companies into one customer-driven company; The New Northrup King."

It also was announced at the conference that The New Northrup King will again be a partner in the American Soybean Association's (ASA) national membership drive. Every new and renewing ASA member will receive a certificate good for a free bag of New Northrup King soybean seed.

Crop production managers informed the group that 1989 seed production was looking excellent in all crops. They noted that seed acreage was increased significantly over 1988 in order to replenish supplies reduced by last year's drought.

Area Managers Recognized At Awards Ceremony

The New Northrup King's Northeast Sales Region was recognized as a nominee for the sales region with the greatest overall sales of Northrup King's product line as well as for the region with the best alfalfa sales in the country. In addition, several managers were nominees for various awards: Jack Walker, Lewisburg, OH, nominee for "Agronomist of the Year", Jack Gaudette, Doylestown, PA, nominee for "Regional Sales Manager of the Year" and Steve Shipman, Mill Hall, PA, nominee for "District Sales Manager of the Year."

Ford's Auto-Industry Technology Put In Farm Machinery

NEW HOLLAND, (Lancaster Co.) — Less than three years after Ford Motor Company created Ford New Holland Inc. by combining its tractor division with the newly acquired Sperry New Holland, Ford's automotive engineering technology is benefiting an even larger number of farmers and industrial customers.

"Ford Tractor by virtue of being owned by a giant automaker, always had the advantage of benefiting from automotive technology. But now we're seeing applications in Ford New Holland's broader line of equipment," said Allen R. Rider, vice president of product engineering. "This year alone we've introduced three exclusive or improved features adapted from Ford automotive developments."

Rider cited a new operator safety system on Ford New Holland skidsteer loaders as a good example. "Skid-steer loaders are fast and very maneuverable, requiring operators to heed safety precautions. We've taken automotive seat belt technology and applied it to the skid-steer loader as a way to help ensure operator precaution."

The new system, introduced this year, requires an operator to be seated with the safety belt fastened before the loader will start or boom arms will operate. Special switches in the seat and belt buckle came from the auto industry.

Ford New Holland also has applied automotive technology to a new automatically adjusting shearbar on its giant self-propelled forage harvesters, machines that cut crops to make silage for feeding livestock.

"This technology came from the engine block of Ford automobiles where a sensor listens for engine knocks and signals the engine computer to make adjustments," said Charles Parrish, manager of advanced technical design.

In Ford New Holland's forage harvester, the operator presses a switch to initiate automatic knife sharpening and the shearbar adjustment. The knock sensor listens for the sound made when the cutterhead knives "tick" the shearbar, then signals for the correct spacing between the cutterhead and shearbar to be automatically set.

"Such procedures are very important because improper adjustments affect fuel economy and the quality of the forage," Parrish noted. "The farmer saves time, money and gets a more consistent, high quality silage product."

Another example of rub off technology, seen on the Ford 8210 tractor, features a simplified control for adjusting both the draft load on the tractor and the depth of the plow as it passes through different soil conditions. This feature saves fuel and maximizes tractor power.

"To control the plow, we borrowed technology from Ford's Electronic Engine Control IV, which improves automotive engine performance," Parrish explained. "Other tractor manufacturers use a much more complicated depth control system with up to six adjustment knobs. Our Electro-Link system has just two knobs for the farmer to adjust."

The skid-steer loader operator restraint system and the forage harvester adjustment system are exclusive features of Ford New Holland products.

Ford New Holland was formed in 1987 after Ford Motor Company purchased Sperry New Holland and combined it with Ford Tractor Operations. Later in 1987, Versatile Farm Equipment in Winnipeg, Canada, was purchased and added to the company.

Pennfield Names Vice President

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Howard W. Rush Jr. has been appointed vice president for Pennfield Corporation, 711 Rohrerstown Road, Lancaster, Pa. The appointment was announced recently by Donald E. Horn, president. Initially, Rush will be involved with various financial and operational aspects of the business.

A native of Silver Spring, Maryland, Rush earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Maryland. Prior to joining Pennfield he held various positions with Hershey Foods Corp., including corporate controller and chief accounting officer, and vice president, Finance, of the Canadian operation, Toronto.

A certified public accountant, Rush began his business career in 1970 with Arthur Andersen & Co., and became a manager in the audit division of the Baltimore office.

A member of the Financial Executives Institute and the American Institute of CPAs, he resides with his wife and three children in Hummelstown, Pa.

WANTED— MORE GRADUATES WITH POULTRY TECHNOLOGY TRAINING

By Herb Siegel

The poultry industry in Pennsylvania, the state's second largest agricultural industry, is a widely diverse industry, ranking third, nationally, in egg production, eleventh in broiler production and eighth in turkey production. In addition, Pennsylvania is one of the nation's leaders in the production of game birds (primarily pheasants and chukars).

Such diversity requires the expertise of a variety of individuals. Today, we begin a new weekly series in this space. These articles, written by Extension specialists from several departments in the College of Agriculture at Penn State, will provide topics ranging from flock health and poultry house design to product quality and the economics of the poultry enterprise.

The large scale of Pennsylvania's poultry industry, and that of the United States as a whole, has created a shortage of trained personnel. During the past five years, all of our graduating seniors have been offered positions in industry or have gone on into graduate or professional education. We constantly receive requests from the poultry industry for trained individuals to go into such positions as: flock supervisors, processing plant supervisors, quality control laboratory technicians or hatchery management. Unfortunately, we have to tell them that all of our graduates are already placed. The point of all this is—there are just not enough students graduating with the skills the industry needs. Do you know a bright, young high school junior or senior who is looking for a challenging career? Have them call or write to me at the number listed below.

Here are some of the things that companies look for in an individual:

•1. Basic knowledge in the subject matter that their company needs—Poultry science, food science, etc.

•2. Ability to communicate—to speak and write clearly in good English.

Dr. Herbert S. Siegel, 213 Henning Building, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA 16802.

Corn, Stored Grain Management Meeting Planned

BERRYSBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On Wednesday, September 6, the Cooperative Extension will be conducting an Agronomic Crop Field Day dealing with Corn Production and Stored Grain Management. The program will be held from 10:00 a.m. until noon, at Alka Farms, route 25, approximately 2 miles west of Berrysburg in Dauphin County. Discussion will include: stored grain management, low temperature grain drying, and stored grain insect management. Featured speakers will be Dennis Calvin, entomologist, and John Carson, ag engineer.

After an "Iowa style" lunch from noon until 1:00 p.m. the location will be moved to the Crissinger Dairy Farm, ½ mile West of Gratz on Route 25. There a corn hybrid variety trial has been established.

For additional information, contact your Extension Office at (717) 921-8803.

Simmental Genetic Trait Leader Sires Named

BOZEMAN, MT. — The American Simmental Association has released the names of 318 genetic trait leaders, including 141 bulls that have qualified in more than one category.

"A bull must be among the top 10 percent of all active bulls evaluated to qualify as a trait leader," said ASA Executive Vice President Earl B. Peterson. "Superior performance and accuracy are both taken into consideration. Nearly one million progeny records were examined and evaluated, by the animal breeding group at Cornell University."

ABR Sir Arnold G809, is ASA's only five-category trait leader, a distinction that he also achieved in 1987, 1988, and 1989. He qualified in first calf calving ease, birth weight, weaning weight, yearling weight, and daughter's first calf calving ease.

Six other Simmental sires earned trait leader status in four different categories. Baron MM 4378, Bold, HCB Caufi O2C, MCR Monarch 1D and Siegfried also qualified in four traits last year. The newcomer to the four-trait list is Dude.

An additional 28 bulls made the elite list in three traits. Those bulls, listed alphabetically are: ABR Sir Arnold G807, Antonius, Bar 5 Big Deutsche, Bar 5 General 406L, Big-N-Red, Bold Leader, C&B Western, C.D. Snider Homestead Farm Dominates Bedford County Fair Dairy Show

BY LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — The Snider Homestead Farm walked away with all top honors in the Guernsey division of the open class dairy show at the Bedford Fair. The farm is located near New Enterprise and is managed by Berneta Snider Gable who had 22 head of cattle in competition.

Sam Diehl of Friends Cove a long-time contender at the Bedford Fair with Ayrshires took nearly all of the prizes in that competition. Diehl also has won top awards with his Ayrshires outside of Bedford County in past years.

In Red and White, it was Julie and Spring Truax of Everett sharing honors with junior dairy show champion, Bryan Ickes.

It was Julie Truax who walked away with the Red and White grand championship with a two-year-old named Maple-G Bravo Fancy Red. The Reserve Championship went to Bryan Ickes who won top honors in the junior dairy competition.

Ralaine Jerseys, owned by the Sollenberger family of Everett, took top honors in that field, while the Stan-El farm of Friends Cove took the reserve grand champion title.

The Stan-El farm is owned by Stanley and Wayne Koontz. The Koontz family has been showing cattle at the fair for 60 years.

The reserve champion Jersey title holder joined her two sisters who had won top honors at the junior dairy show on Tuesday. "It's the Sweet family," said Wayne Koontz. "We have Stan El's Duncan Sweet and Sour, Stan El's Samson's Sweet Potato, and Stan El's Duncan Sweet Tea."

Competition was not as plentiful among the Holsteins as the Mohr Family of Bakers Summitt would have liked to have seen it despite the fact that they took the grand champion title. "Competition is good for the fair," said Scott Mohr, "But it wasn't here this year."

The A-K Mohr grand champion title holder is owned by Becky Mohr. All of the top honors including the junior champion, reserve junior champion, senior champion, reserve senior champion and dairy herd went to the Mohr family.

It was almost a repeat of the Snider family in the Guernsey competition on Wednesday. The Sniders took all of the major winnings with the exception of Galen McDonald II of Imler RD 1 who had the junior championship with an intermediate calf.

Quality Abounds At Bedford County Youth Dairy Show

BY LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Bryan Ickes, a 1989 graduate of Chestnut Ridge High School took the grand champion title in the Red and White division of the Junior Dairy Show at the Bedford County Fair.

It marked the second year for the championship win of this three-year-old Red and White, which Ickes says can be entered as a Red and White or Holstein.

Competing against Ickes for the grand champion Red and White title was Julie Truax. The Truax family of Everett has always been strong in the Red and White division.

Eleven-year-old Mark Baker of New Enterprise was proud to accept the trophy for the Holstein grand champion with his junior yearling. "The cow has donw very well and we are proud of her and Mark," said his mother. Mark is a member of the Southern Cove Dairy 4-H Club.

This 11-year-old also took the

Livestock Events At The Big E

W. SPRINGFIELD, MA — The Big E's colossal new livestock complex will be opened in grand style with the regional Centennial Hampshire Sheep Show. This show is one of the events marking the 100th anniversary of the Hampshire Breed, and is just one of the events scheduled for the opening of the Big E's livestock facility during "New England's Great State Fair," September 13-24.

A first-time regional Romney Sheep Show will be another featured event in the new complex. Romney are dual purpose sheep (bred for both meat and wool), more commonly found in the northwestern region of the country.

Thirteen breeds of sheep will be shown and judged during the fair. In addition, there will be competition for fleece quality, wool products, and market lambs.

Six breeds of dairy goats and a market hog show will round out the small animal shows and competition.

Two dairy breeds, Ayrshire and Milking Shorthorn have also selected The Big E for their regional shows this year.

Four other dairy and two beef breeds will be in show and competition during the fair.

Two lesser known breeds of cattle, Belted Galloway, and the Highland will be on show throughout the fair, but will not be in competition. Native to Scotland, these are perhaps the oldest breeds of cattle in the world today.

Livestock farmers should have no trouble getting their fill of seeing the best of what is bred and raised on the farms today. The Big E livestock show is the largest of its kind in the east.

Sheep Industry Supports Scrapie Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Sheep producers and researchers called for strong support of a scrapie eradication bill introduced by Congressman Jim Leach (R-IA) during a recent hearing in the Livestock, Dairy and Poultry Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture.

Scrapie is an incurable sheep disease of the central nervous system for which there is no live animal diagnosis. The Leach bill calls for a more effective indemnification program and continuing research into the unique disease.

Dwight Dial, a producer from Lake City, Iowa, testified on behalf of the American Sheep Industry Association, saying, "The disease outbreak has not only been devastating to the individual producers who have been victim to its attack, but it threatens the viability of the entire industry."

Dial talked about the management problems created by the disease including the lack of any diagnostic tools to identify carrier animals and the long incubation of the disease where animals can spread scrapie without ever showing clinical signs.

"For the individual producer, when the disease occurs in a flock, the options become frustrating and confusing," Dial testified. "The USDA has an indemnity program, but it is out of funds. The flock is quarantined if scrapie is diagnosed; which not only destroys the credibility of the flock, it limits the options a producer has for destroying and removing the animals."

Paul Rodgers, ASI producer services director, testified on the importance of continuing research to provide scientific information on scrapie. The lack of scientific facts on the disease has led to misinformation and conjecture, he said, ultimately leading to ineffective control programs.

"The sheep industry strongly feels that if all current scientific information is not effectively utilized in the formulation of regulatory programs for scrapie eradication, we will do more long-term damage to our industry than if we simply did nothing," Rodgers said.

Rodgers introduced a scientific document on scrapie written by a group of scientists active in that field of research, brought together by the Sheep Industry Development Program and ASI. It is the first document representing cohesive basic information on the disease.

"The report will be used as the basis for both an educational program for sheep producers and for the development of recommendations for new eradication efforts," he said.

Also testifying in support of the bill were Drs. R.F. Marsh of the University of Wisconsin and Warren C. Foote of Utah State University. Both scientists participated in the formation of the Scrapie paper presented to committee members.

Foote pointed out the radical increase in the number of scrapie outbreaks since 1980 and called for an effective scrapie control program to be developed and carried out.

Swine Field Day Offers Production Tips

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The University of Maryland invites you to its annual 1989 Swine Field Day on Saturday, September 9, at the Central Maryland Research and Education Center's Swine Facility in Howard County.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. - the $3.00 fee includes a roast pork sandwich lunch. Following registration, Penn State Extension Swine Specialist Dr. Ken Kephart updates carcass merit hog marketing systems, including the Hatfield System which he helped develop.

Dr. Kevin Cera, swine specialist from the University of Delaware, provides pointers on how to formulate the best performing weanling rations for the least cost. Dr. Rich Barczewski, University of Delaware Extension agent, then shows how to determine the actual cost of grinding and mixing your own swine feed.

Field day visitors may informally discuss specific production questions with agents and specialists during the luncheon. Visitors also may estimate the backfat thickness and weights of a group of hogs.

The afternoon session begins with a demonstration of do-it-yourself backfat probing. Then, Dr. Tom Hartsock, University of Maryland Extension swine specialist, discusses the potential impact of the animal rights/animal welfare movement on the swine industry. The field day ends with group tours of Swine Facility research projects.

Additional information and copies of the program can be obtained by calling your local county Extension agent. The Central Maryland Research and Education Center's Swine Facility is located at 4241 Folly Quarter Rd., west of Ellicott City and northeast of Clarksville.

L&H Contracting Growers

FREDERICKSBURG, (Dauphin Co.) — Growers for L&H Contracting who produce broilers for College Hill Poultry attended their annual picnic meeting on August 3.

The highlight of this years annual event was a tour for growers of the College Hill Poultry plant. Growers were able to see birds being processed.

Following the tour a picnic was held at the Fredericksburg Lion's Club park. Paul Steinmetz, vice president of College Hill, thanked growers for touring the plant and being able to see how their product is processed.

Lynn Henninger, owner of M.G. Henninger & Son Inc., parent company of L&H Contracting, spoke briefly and expressed his appreciation to the growers for their efforts during the year. Herb Borchert, Manager of L&H Contracting, spoke about production performance. Herb showed producers the progress that has been made over the last year and shared ideas to help make 1989-1990 a more profitable year for growers.

Joining the growers were Dick Shenk, and Dick Loose, owners of College Hill, Helen and Lynn Henninger and also Marllin Henninger founder of M.G. Henninger & Son Inc. Management, staff and drivers from both College Hill and M.G. Henninger's also attended.

Anhydrous Application Improved By Yetter Coulter

COLCHESTER, IL. — The NH_3 coulter-applicator by Yetter Mfg. Co. represents an important advance for deep placement in conservation tillage practices. The attachment is equipped with a unique pivot arrangement to protect the 20-inch blade and the unit's narrower knife from damage while injecting anhydrous deeper into the soil where volatilization loss is minimized. If the blade encounters a rock or other object, it merely pivots around the obstruction reducing the chances of damage.

The coulter cuts a path through the trash for the applicator knife which cuts an extremely thin slot. Because the narrow knife reduces soil disruption, the slot has a tendency to close itself, sealing the volatile anhydrous in the soil below the root zone where it can be utilized for maximum effectiveness.

Bedford County Fair Livestock Buyers Donate Animals To Community

BY LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — While no records were broken, buyers were generous and junior livestock marketers were generally pleased with the success of the annual livestock sale held on Saturday morning, August 12, at the Bedford County Fair.

Candace Crawford of Everett saw her 133-pound champion market Suffolk sell for $7.50 a pound to Mid-State Bank. The lamb was then donated to the Memorial Hospital of Bedford County.

The reserve champion owned by Nanette Whitfield of Schellsburg RD 1, was purchased for $5.25 a pound by Guy's Hardware of Manns Choice.

Prices for lambs continued at a high level with the average being $2.05 per pound including the grand and reserve.

Robert Turkovich, owner of a large chain of American Outfitter Stores purchased the grand champion market hog, the grand and reserve champion steers.

Turkovich purchased the hog for $8 per pound and then gave the animal back to its owner, nine-year-old David Donaldson of Hopewell, RD 1. The grand champion steer was given to the fire department.

Donaldson had chosen the pig out of a litter from the same sow which produced last year's grand champion. The sow was owned by Sonny Hall also of Hopewell RD. Donaldson is a member of the Southern Cove Oinkers 4-H Club. He will use his returned champion, "Snowflake," to start a breeding program.

The reserve grand champion was owned by Kim Claar of Woodbury. Her hog was purchased by Hoss's Best Western Inn and Hoss's Steak and Sea Food House for $4.75 per pound.

The hog price average was $1.40 per pound with the champion and reserve included.

A black angus steer sprinkled with glitter and weighing 1,198 pounds was bought for $6 per pound by Turkovich. The owner, Brian Miller of Bedford RD 2, plans to study veterinarian medicine.

Turkovich also bought the reserve grand champion steer owned by Christine Leader of Everett RD 3. The 1,280 pound steer sold for $4.60 a pound for a total of $5,888.

With the champion prices, averages for the 54 head of beef cattle to go before the auctioneer on Saturday was 99 cents a pound.

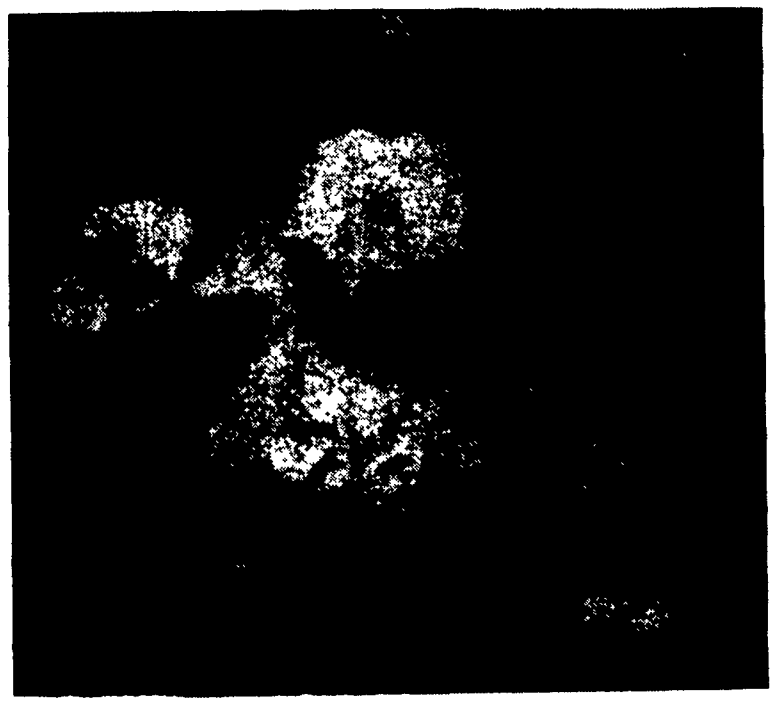
"We were very pleased," said one young seller. "There were some new buyers this year, and that helped."

Buyers were also generous with donations supporting such causes as the local hospital, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, volunteer fire companies, school organizations, and the United Way.

As in years past, United Commercial Travelers of Huntingdon bought a steer which it will chance off this week at the Huntingdon County Fair. The earnings will be given to programs for retarded citizens.

Shirley Mills and John Boyd of Mid-State Bank pose with Candace Crawford, center, and her grand champion market lamb shortly after its purchase for $7.50 per pound. The lamb was donated to the local hospital.

The top bid of $6.25 per pound purchased the grand champion steer from Brian Miller. Buying the 1,198-pound animal was Bob Turkovich.



The grand champion hog, shown by David Donaldson, right, was went to Bob Turkovich and his son, David, for $8 per pound.

reserve champion title with an intermediate yearling heifer, a sister to the champion. The two sisters were joined by a third award winner in the open show on Thursday.

The Snider Homstead Farm of New Enterprise took many Guernsey honors at this year's Bedford Fair and the junior dairy show was no exception.

Kristi Snider, 10, exhibited the grand champion Guernsey and her brother, Brandon, took reserve honors.

These two young people are raising their animals on the Snider Farm managed by their aunt, Berneta Snider Gable.

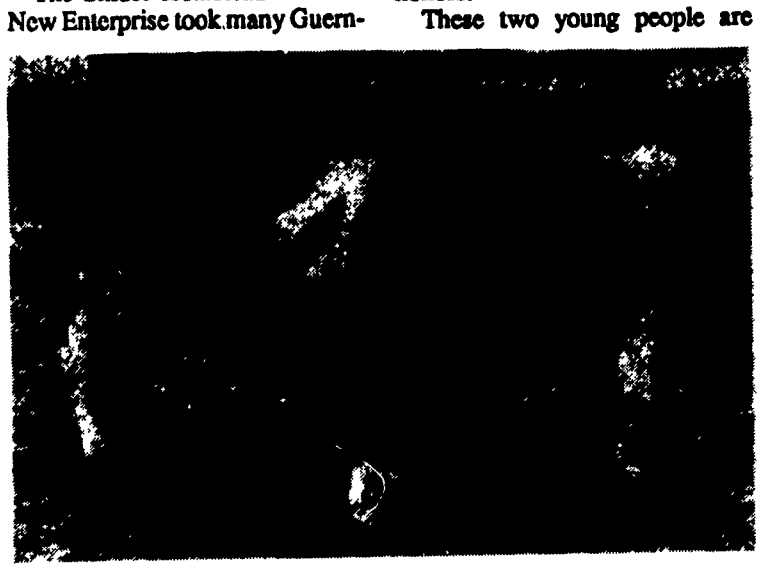
The only Brown Swiss exhibited was a three-year-old owned by Charlotte Chesney of Roaring Spring RD and it was awarded the grand championship.

Janelle Koontz took honors as the champion junior fitter and showman while Angelique McDonald, national Guernsey Princess, was named senior champion showman. Senior fitter winner was Beth Clark of Bedford.

Intermediate titles went to Jennifer Hite of Bedford and showman and Matt Knee of Roaring Spring, fitter.

Other winners in the open class junior dairy show at the Bedford County Fair were as follows:



Bryan Ickes, a Chestnut Ridge FFA'er, shows off his grand champion Red and White Holstein. He raised this three-year old from a calf produced on the Ickes farm.

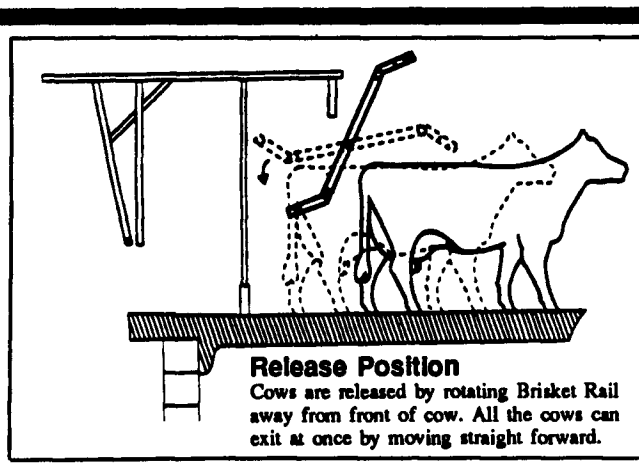
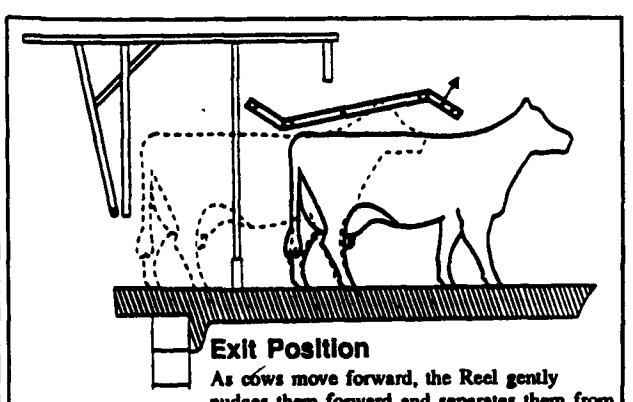
Normal Milking Position
Brisket Rails locks cows in proper position for milking. The Brisket Rail can be rotated clockwise to snug the cows up against the rump rail.



Release Position
Cows are released by rotating Brisket Rail away from front of cow. All the cows can exit at once by moving straight forward.



Exit Position
As cows move forward, the Reel gently nudges them forward and separates them from the next string of cows to be milked.

Sale Records Set At Somerset County Junior Livestock Sale

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — At the Somerset County Fair junior livestock sale a sale record was set when an animal was sold every 48 seconds, by auctioneers, Matt Luce, Robert Stahl, Clark Yoder, Betty Lou Svonavec, and Reed Luce.

The market swine grand champion exhibited by FFA'er Bill Troutman of Hyndman brought a record $10.50 per pound for a total of $2,457. Walker Farm Service of Somerset, Pa. purchased the Duroc-Spotted 234-pound gilt swine and will donate it to the Sipesville Volunteer Fire Department to be raffled off.

A Spot-cross gilt swine, weighing 223 pounds, was the reserve champion exhibited by 4-H'er Robert Hay of Rockwood. Another record was set when the top bid of $10.25 per pound was entered by Philson National Bank of Berlin for a total price tag of $2,285.75.

Michele Phillips, a 4-H exhibitor from Friedens, showed the grand champion market lamb, a Suffolk weighing 115 pounds. It too, brought a record price per pound of $12. County Market of Somerset, Pa. paid $1,380 for the animal.

A 4-H exhibitor, John Troha, from Glencoe, showed the 128-pound Suffolk reserve champion, which sold for a record $10 per pound, to Giant Eagle supermarket in Somerset for a total of $1,280.

Sixteen-year-old Greta Mostoller was the 4-H exhibitor whose market steer was named grand champion. The 1,275-pound crossbreed brought $5 per pound for a total of $6,375. It was purchased by three buyers: Dennis Rhoads for Rhoads Mini-Mart in Somerset; Lloyd Mostoller for Mostoller's Country Corale restaurant in Friedens; and Warren Mostoller. Mostoller also had the champion steer in 1986 which sold for a record $7 per pound.

The grand champion market lamb brought a record $12 per pound for exhibitor Michele Phillips, right. The top bidder for the 115-pound Suffolk lamb was Brian Updyke of County Market.

Kevin Stahl, another 4-H'er from Somerset had the reserve champion steer, a Chianina cross weighing 1,225 pounds. It was bought by Hoss's Steak House, Johnstown, Pa. for $2.75 per pound or $3,368.75.

The 134 head of swine sold totaled 30,179 pounds and brought in receipts totaling $36,237.45. Per pound average with champions was $1.20, without champions it was $1.06.

A total of 107 lambs were sold bringing in gross receipts of $15,359.90 for the total lamb weight of 11,866 pounds. $1.29 was the per pound average with the champions, without champions it was $1.09.

The 68 market steers, weighing a combined total of 78,055 pounds, brought in gross receipts of $87,127.75. Per pound sale average with champions was $1.12 and without champion, $1.02.

The four-and-a-half-hour sale grossed total receipts of $138,725.10.

As auctioneer Betty Lou Svonavec said, "It was almost typical. It was like all at once everyone who wanted a steer realized the sale was coming to a close and they had to start bidding. It is unusual when steer prices go higher near the end as they did here tonight."

Three-Year-Old Holstein Is Somerset County Fair Supreme Champion Cow

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — At the close of the Somerset County fair junior dairy show, Type judge, Dale Olver from State College, Pa. remarked, "I congratulate you on a strong 4-H program in Somerset County."

Olver had just proclaimed Amy Sanner's three-year-old, Sanner Messiah Morgan, supreme champion of the entire dairy show. The daughter of Hanover-Hill Messiah-ET and Golden-Circle Sky High Maria, she was bred from the stock of Amy Sanner. "She has a lot of length and dairyness," stated the judge.

Amy, the daughter of Lynn and Debra Sanner, lives in Rockwood and belongs to the Milkshakers 4-H club. She was completely surprised at the judge's choice. "I didn't expect this," she said, "I'm very proud. "Morgan also was named senior champion and grand champion in the Holstein group.

The Holstein group senior reserve champion and reserve grand champion was Colecream Royal Bell Polly, a senior two-year-old exhibited by Wesley Coleman of Berlin, a Milksquirts 4-H club member. Polly is a Lekker Valiant Royalty daughter out of Hillmont Ivanhoe Bell Paulette.

AGRICULTURE'S LEADING EDGE FFA

Cut Costs, Not Corners.

With the Bush Hog Squealer. It's a Bush Hog rotary cutter at a smaller price. But don't let the price fool you. The Squealer's engineered with the same quality features that are making Bush Hog the largest name in farm implements. Features like our Bush Hog-designed gearboxes, patented flex cutter blade tips and stronger than other economy cutters for more efficient cutting. The optional elliptical blade pan on the 48" and 42" wide models, and the standard elliptical blade pan on the 48", 60" and 72" wide models are similar in design to the blade pans used on larger Bush Hog cutters, only scaled down a little to each of the Squealer's five sizes. So while the Squealer may be inexpensive, it's no toy. It's tough. It's efficient. Because like all 100 Bush Hog implements, including the 20 new models we've introduced in the last 12 months, it's engineered to cut what needs cutting most in farming these days. Costs.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Somerset County Fair

FFA senior champion was Scott College, of Rockwood, and Brian Kaufman for the senior reserve champion. He is from Boswell.

They belong to the Rockwood and Boswell FFA respectively.

Top winners in the junior FFA for the Holstein group were Corey Will of Berlin, grand champion, and Scott Clites of Berlin for the reserve grand champion. Both fellows belong to the Brothersvalley FFA.

Jill Stutzman's EBE-Tide Royal Star Bonnie was named junior grand champion, while the reserve grand champion in 4-H was Billy Mosholder's Mossy's Enhancer Firebird-Red ET. Jill, a member of the Milkdrops 4-H club lives in Friedens. Billy is active in the Milkshakers 4-H club and lives in Rockwood.

In the Brown Swiss division, a Meyersdale FFA member, Robert Fritz Jr. of Garrett, went the gamut taking all the honors including senior champion and grand champion with Last Straws Elinor Becky. Four D Heidi Sugar was selected senior reserve and reserve grand champ.

Gerald Murray was the FFA senior winner in the Guernsey group winning grand champion and reserve grand champion.

4-H winners in the Guernsey group were Kristin Walker for grand champion and Melvin Cable for reserve grand champion. They also had the junior 4-H champions.

David Jenkins of the Meyersdale FFA won in the Jersey group taking grand champion, reserve grand champion, senior champion, senior reserve champion, junior champion and junior reserve champion honors.

Jersey group 4-H winners were Dominic Poligardo, senior champion and grand champion. Poligardo, a member of the Milksquirts 4-H club lives in Meyersdale, while Eric Lohr of Stoystown, a Jenners Township 4-H club member, had the reserve senior champion and reserve grand champion.

Junior champion in the Jersey group was Jason Baughman with Earl Thomas taking the reserve junior champion title. Baughman lives in Glencoe and belongs to the Milksquirts 4-H club. Thomas comes from Hollsopple, and belongs to the Supermilkers 4-H club.
